JUDGESHIPS OFFERED FOR PARKER SUPPORT IS SENATOR'S CHARGE

Ashurst Wants Inquiry as to Bargaining for Confirmation.

TANGLES WITH FESS IN WARM ARGUMENT

Stephens Declares Dixon Letter Was Not Seen by President.

JUDGE'S SUPPORTERS ARE CITED BY OHIOAN

Activities of Two Former Governors Are Hit by Caraway.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Senate consideration of the appointment of Judge John J. Parker for the Supreme Court reached the tense stage yesterday with charges first made and then reiterated under pressure by Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, that Federal judgships were being offered to senators to vote for confirmation.

The Arizona senator made the charges earlier in the day during a tilt with Senator Stephens, of Mississippi, and then when Senator Fess, of Ohio, took him to task just before the Senate recessed, he reiterated them and demanded that the lobby committee call senators before it. The effect of the Ohio senator's action was to accentuate the incident.

Senator Ashurst's first outburst came shortly after Senator Stephens had read a letter from Attorney General Mitchell saying that President Hoover had never seen the letter written to Walter Newton, White House secretary, by Joseph M. Dixon, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, until it appeared in the press the other day.

Holds Letter Had No Influence.

The Dixon letter said that Parker's appointment would be a major political stroke. The letter had no influence in Judge Parker's selection, Attorney General Mitchell wrote.

After the reading of the letter Senator Stephens said he hoped Senator Ashurst would apologize for his reference several days ago to Parker as a "weakling."

Jumping up heatedly, Senator Ashurst declared that instead of apologizing he reiterated his characterization.

"So far from apologizing for calling the nominee a weakling," Senator Ashurst shouted, "I repeat it, and say that now additional evidence has been supplied to me convincing me that his nomination is tainted with rank injustice to the American people.

Ashurst Broadens Charges.

"* * * so far from withdrawing my charge that he is a weakling I assert that many of his supporters are approaching the frontier of culpability.

"Call the lobby committee together and see what strange fish you will bring up from the depths that are working to put over the Parker nomination.

"Never with my vote will a man be put on that bench in such a cluster of odium as surrounds this whole transaction," he declared.

Judgeships, he declared, were being offered in return for votes.

Just before the recess Senator Fess, reading from a newspaper, said such a charge was too grave to go unanswered. The inference was going out over the country, he declared, that the President was buying senatorial votes.

Did Not Accuse President, He Says.

Jumping up from his seat, Senator Ashurst declared that he had not charged that the President was making the judgship offers, that he had expressly said "supporters of Judge Parker."

"I stand by that and challenge you to call the lobby committee together," he shouted, adding that he had been told of the offers by senators whom he could not disbelieve.

"I do not retreat one inch," he said. "About this nomination there clusters an odium almost unparalleled in American history."

In the rapid exchange between the two men Senator Fess insisted that the inference was that the President was making the offers because he is the only one having the appointive power and competent to make such promises.

"Oh, the senator knows," Senator Ashurst retorted, "there are men here in Washington who are able to make promises and have them complied with."

"I can not accept that statement," Senator Fess persisted. "No one but the President has authority to make such a promise."

"The senator is such a babe in the woods," Senator Ashurst retorted, "that I do not see how he could advance so far in American politics."

And then, asserting that it was Senator Fess who brought the Presi-

Premiere of Claudel Opera Ends in Uproar

Applause Drowns Out Cat Calls By Berlin Audience.

Berlin, May 5 (A.P.).—The modernistic operatic biography, "Christoph Kolumbus," composed by Darius Milhaud, French composer, and Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, had its world premiere amid an uproar here tonight.

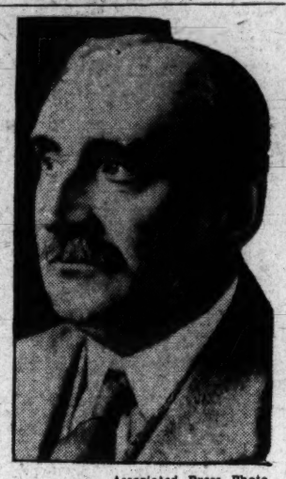

The performance of the opera, based on the life of Christopher Columbus and calling in the aid of motion pictures to supplement the singer, ended with fifteen minutes of pandemonium.

Enthusiasts in the pits tested their lungs against derisive whistlings and cat calls emanating apparently from a crowd of young German Fascists in the galleries. The applause finally drowned out the cat calls, but not until the iron curtain had come down did the uproar cease.

Erich Kleiber, who conducted the orchestra, said, "I consider this one of the most serious and sincere works of contemporary composers, and, at the same time, one of the most difficult I ever conducted.

"When you consider that at one point half the chorus sings 'do' flat and the other half 'do' sharp, you have an idea of the difficulty confronting us."

A brilliant audience, including most of the members of the Diplomatic Corps, attended the Premiere. The opera had been shown to the press at the Prussian State Opera House on May 3.

"Christoph Kolumbus" uses actors, orchestra and movies together. It requires certain of the soloists to appear on the stage while scenes are being screened behind them. The singing, the playing of the orchestra, and the acting must synchronize with the screened pictures.

HYGIENE CONGRESS STUDIES DEFECTIVES

Specialists From 53 Lands Begin Deliberations in Washington.

STERILIZATION IS URGED

Mental specialists from 53 countries convened yesterday in the Willard Hotel to devise ways to rededicate broken minds to mankind. Until Saturday approximately 2,500 members of the First International Congress on Mental Hygiene and kindred groups will discuss causes and remedies in the hope of delivering to a useful life those suffering from mental illness.

Sterilization of mental defectives, a controversial subject for many years in the American Association for the Study of Feeble-Minded, is now favored by 84 per cent of the members of the group.

Dr. Harvey M. Watkins, of Polk, Pa., made this statement at a meeting of the association at the Hotel Washington yesterday. Dr. Watkins averred that he had polled members in virtually all the States of the Union and the trend was overwhelmingly in favor of permissive sterilization of defectives. Compulsory sterilization he viewed as not advisable at this time.

Consent of relatives or gurdians of the subject, he said, should first be obtained. After this his proposal would call for a competent board of medical specialists and a lawyer to protect the patient. There is no deprivation of any organ in the sterilizing process, he said.

Among the objections against the law pointed out by Dr. Watkins is that it is in advance of public opinion. Objections are based mostly at this time, he said, on moral, legal and social viewpoints.

SPAIN POLICE FIGHT STUDENTS; TWO DIE

2,000 Rioters in Madrid Hurl Stones at Troops; Workmen Are Victims.

PREMIER ORDERS PEACE

Madrid, May 5 (A.P.).—A clash here today between police and university students brought word from the government of Premier Damaso Berenguer that it would tolerate no further disorder. Today's battle brought the first deaths and serious bloodshed to happen in the Berenguer regime.

Two men are dead, both workmen. One was killed instantly by a stray shot in the fighting this afternoon; the other was seriously wounded at the same time and died later.

At least 40 were injured. These include police and civil guards struck by stones, Prof. Bolivar, a member of the San Carlos Medical College faculty, hit by a stone; students struck by stones or bullets, and workmen and civilian passers-by.

The university authorities tonight decided to suspend classes for several days because of the present unrest among the student body. University buildings will be closed from tomorrow until further notice.

Some arrests were made, but police would reveal no names or details. The trouble began when the students, complaining bitterly at police treatment since Thursday, ran a red flag over the college this morning and adjourned to the campus.

Numbering 2,000, they headed for the street. Police and troops, who had assembled at the first sign of trouble, assumed they intended to parade and advanced to drive the collegians back.

The students yielded, but not before each man had taken cobble stones from the street, which was Government's Communique Upholds Troops' Actions in Fatal Rioting.

London, May 5 (A.P.).—Armed forces, swiftly ordered into action, tonight became Great Britain's answer to Indian's turbulent factions.

While troops bivouacked in Indian cities, Mahatma Gandhi's followers prepared, despite his arrest and imprisonment, to press his campaign of civil disobedience.

With excitement and apprehension, England surveyed the situation in her far-off domain. News from Bombay was scanned eagerly. Observers looked for information which would indicate the trend of the independence movement which with the arrest of Gandhi passed to the leadership of Abbas Tyabji.

Mobs Halt Hockey Game.

Karachi began to take on a warlike aspect. Into the city's heart trooped a detachment of East Lancashire soldiers. The arming of European bank and mercantile employes by the city government began at once.

Through the city swarmed thousands of picketers detailed to shops selling foreign cloth. These presently were replaced by companies of European and Indian troops. Mounted and on foot police began to patrol Bombay, particularly in the turbulent mill area.

Machine-gun posts were established at prominent corners and upon roofs commanding prominent business and public edifices and sweeping thoroughfares through which it was felt disturbers might seek to make their way.

Bank Employes Armed.

Schools and colleges closed soon after the news of Gandhi's arrest arrived, at about noon, according to advices from Lahore, where a day of mourning was declared.

Although no disturbances occurred in the afternoon, football and hockey matches at Calcutta were abandoned owing to the activity of picketers. The game between the Sporting Union and the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry was postponed when the latter regiment was called up for duty in Bengal. The Challenge Hockey Shield

Oil Wells in West Virginia Jeopardized; College Laid Waste by Flames.

(Associated Press.)

In half a hundred localities from the wooded hills of New Hampshire to the mountains of West Virginia the sky was lighted last night with the red glare of forest fires. With the rainfall 50 to 75 per cent below normal, scattered fires along the North Atlantic seaboard were whipped into fury over the week-end by high winds and many were still burning last night, with the damage already in the millions of dollars.

Nashua, N. H., was the hardest hit locality, with 1,500 persons homeless and damage estimated at $4,000,000. Fire starting in a wooden trestle swept through part of the town, aided by dry underbrush.

Damage in New Jersey, where the fire played no favorites, attacking alike flimsy summer cottages along the seashore and Arthur Brisbane's palatial home at Allaire, was placed by State authorities at $1,000,000. All fires were reported under control.

Oil Towns Endangered.

As far West as Poland, W. Va., a forest fire, started Sunday night, was endangering oil wells and small towns in that vicinity.

Several hundred cottages on Staten Island, a part of Greater New York City, were destroyed by a fire started in the brush there Saturday night. There were 25 other fires still burning in New York State, five of them at Copake, Orangeburg, Salisbury Mills, Fishkill and Suffern—reported out of control.

A forest fire was menacing Rockville, R. I. Others were burning in Cumberland and Perry Counties in central Pennsylvania. Several were reported in lower Delaware. A large one was burning at Marlborough, Conn., and another on Mount Riga, just across the New York State line.

Arsenal Is Threatened.

A fire at Palisades Park, just across the Hudson from Peekskill, N. Y., menaced the Government explosive works and arsenal there; a fire at the junction of the Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts State line

Boy and Girl Say Capital Grandmother Is Too Old-Fashioned.

New York, May 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Victorian era faced 1930 today across a surrogate's bench. The result so far is a draw.

The action in the court of Surrogate James A. Foley involves the control of a portion of one of the greatest personal fortunes ever amassed in this country, the vast estate of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, and again brings to the surface the turbulent affairs of his progeny.

The principals in today's action are two minor grandchildren, Elinor Morse Ryan and Joseph J. Ryan, jr., the children of the late Joseph J. Ryan. Their father and mother separated in 1915, when Elinor was a child of 3 and Joseph Jr., a baby a year old. The mother, who was Minnie Morse, of Washington, D. C., and the children were provided for during her life time through the terms of the separation agreement. When Joseph J. Ryan died, in 1921, he accordingly left that wife $100 and bequeathed most of his estate, or about $60,000, to Dorothy Lucille Whiteford, an actress.

children, died leaving an estate estimated at $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 and a will notable for its virtual disinheritance of his second son, the estranged Allan A. Ryan. Elinor and Joseph, jr., were allotted five fifty-fourths of the estate, from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000, to be held in trust until they were 30 years old.

Meanwhile, upon the death of their mother, these children were set under the guardianship of their maternal

M'CONNELL DENIES PROTESTANT LOBBY

DISTRICT CHIEFS ATTEND

Denial that the organized Protestant churches are engaged in "lobbying" was made by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches, at a testimonial luncheon given him in the Hotel Mayflower yesterday by the Washington committee of the council.

"We make speeches once in a while," the bishop said, "but everybody knows we don't lobby."

His remarks were made in admitted refutation of the charges before the Senate committee investigating lobbying by Representative George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts, who has maintained that the churches and leading reform organizations maintain an active organization to influence legislation at Capitol Hill. The bishop declared that members of the churches realize the falsity of Mr. Tinkham's charges, but he had been called upon by outsiders for an answer.

"In dealing with people who are charging you with lobbying," the bishop continued, "you can't make them believe you are willing to do something for nothing." He said the critics of the council "no doubt are well intentioned but we get weary answering these charges."

The bishop also took occasion to deny what he said was becoming a general charge against the churches from many quarters in that the preachers were "gagged" from saying what they really believed.

"I have been in the ministry 33 years," he continued, "and all that

First Aid Booths on Roads Discussed as Hoover Opens Convention.

1,100 ATTEND SESSIONS

Alarmed over the "appalling and ever-mounting" number of deaths from automobiles, delegates to the ninth annual convention of the American Red Cross yesterday gave consideration to plans fro inaugurating a system of first-aid booths on principal highways. The four-day meeting opened in the United States Chamber of Commerce, with a brief welcoming address by President Hoover. More than 1,100 were in attendance.

The Chief Executive, as president of the Red Cross, characterized the organization as representing the "spiritual quality, the charity and sympathy of a nation to the helpless."

"Originally designed for success in war," he said, "the Red Cross has now become alo the national agency for relief of disaster in peace time, both at home and abroad. Its ever increasing strength represents the growing spiritual sense of responsibility of the Nation toward those who meet with disaster."

James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations, told the delegates that the growing number of deaths from motor accidents are a challenge and a problem to the organization. In announcing that the Red Cross might son add a highway emergency service, Mr. Frieser predicted that automobiles would kill 400,000 and injure more than 10,000,000 within the next ten years.

Supreme Tribunal Holds Receptacles on Sale May Be Seized.

DRYS WIN TEST CASE; WILL STUDY DECISION

JUSTICES' REASONING DETAILED BY HOLMES

Liberal Rather Than Strict Meaning Put on Word 'Manufacture.'

(Associated Press.)

A Nation-wide drive to seize paraphernalia used in the manufacture of home brew was envisioned by Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury, yesterday after the Supreme Court had held that containers, barrels, bottles, corks, &c., might be seized when offered for sale in such a manner as purposely to attract purchasers who want them for the unlawful manufacture of liquor.

Mr. Lowman said before any action was taken, however, a careful study would be made of the decision the court handed down. The ruling was made in the test case which resulted from the seizure of such materials from Ike Lanovitz, the surviving partner of the Peitler Bottle Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Treasury officials said the sale of bottles, corks and other containers used in making liquor was widespread, and if it was found they could be seized the Prohibition Bureau would have an effective instrument with which to fight bootleggers who sell home brew. No effort has been made by the Prohibition Bureau to interfere with the manufacture of home brew in private homes, but its efforts have been directed toward stopping manufacture by persons who sell it.

Court Decision Unanimous.

The decision of the Supreme Court was unanimous. It held that the purpose of the prohibition act was to "suppress the entire traffic" and that "the act should be liberally construed to the end of this suppression." It maintained such articles could be seized when offered for sale in such a mode as purposely to attract persons who want them for the illegal manufacture of liquor.

The opinion was handed down by Justice Holmes, who explained that the controversy turned on the proper interpretation to be given the prohibition against the "manufacture" of illicit liquor.

He stated the statute made it "unlawful to have or possess any liquor or property designed for the manufacture of liquor intended for use in violating this chapter," and that there was no property right in such liquor or property.

Destruction Provided For.

A search warrant may issue, he explained, and the liquor with its containers and other property seized must be held subject to the orders of the court. If the seized liquor or property was unlawfully held, possessed, or used, the liquor and property designed for its unlawful manufacture, must, he added, be destroyed, unless the court ordered otherwise.

Danovitz had contended, Justice Holmes pointed out, that the empty containers, bottles and other apparatus, seized from him, had not been and could not be used for the manufacture of liquor, which the law prohibited, because the manufacture had been completed before the bottles and other containers could be used, and that the articles were not designed for and could not even be used in the "manufacture" of liquor.

Asserting that Danovitz's argument "is obviously correct if the word 'manufacture' be taken in the strictest and most exact sense," Justice

Whalen Will Reveal Soviet Data to House

Special Committee Quiz to Be Launched by G. O. P. Leaders.

(Associated Press.)

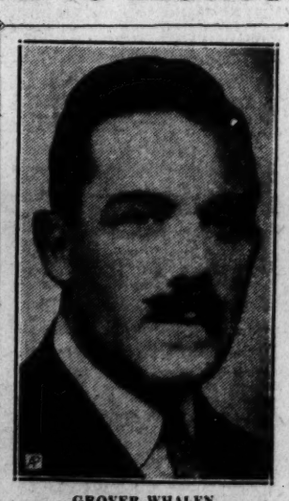

An investigation by a special House committee into Soviet Russian influences in this country was planned by Republican leaders yesterday as the House immigration committee prepared to hear Police Commissioner Grover Whalen of New York discuss information he has regarding communistic activities.

Chairman Snell of the House rules committee said a resolution would be reported to the House soon to authorize a broad inquiry to determine whether Soviet propaganda was being circulated in this country in an effort to bring about destruction of the existing Government.

Two resolutions by Representatives Underhill, of Massachusetts, and Fish, of New York, both Republicans, calling for such an inquiry are before Mr. Snell's committee. Mr. Snell said his group felt the investigation necessary in view of the recent increasing number of communistic demonstrations and information in the hands of Government authorities.

The House immigration committee decided to call Mr. Whalen for a closed hearing Friday. At a secret session yesterday with John Farr Simmons, chief of the visa division of the State Department, the committee inquired into the number of passports being granted Russian Soviet nationals. Mr. Whalen accepted immediately. Other New York officials and possibly United States District Attorney Tuttle may appear.

Chairman Johnson of the group displayed documents purporting to have been distributed by Russian Soviet agents.

GROVER WHALEN.

Representative Box, of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee, said the purpose of hearing Mr. Whalen was to determine whether the committee should conduct an investigation.

Anti-Vivisection Measure Defeated by Committee

District Health Group Acts After Hearing Medical Men.

A bill to prevent laboratory experiments on dogs in the District of Columbia was voted down yesterday by the public health subcommittee of the House District committee.

Thus, medical science again is triumphant, and the antivivisectionists must begin all over again their 30-year fight to get the legislation through here.

The District subcommittee disapproved the bill after listening to two noted medical men—Dr. William H. Welch, pathologist, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, and Dr. George M. Kober, of Georgetown University, of this city.

"Is it better to experiment upon human beings or upon animals?" Dr. Welch asked. "There is but one answer. I think that such experiments Hero of Western Lore Succumbs to Age and Pneumonia.

Deadwood, S. D., May 5 (A.P.).—"Deadwood Dick" Clarke, 85, hero of Western and Indian lore, died today from a combination of old age and pneumonia. His passing followed by less than three months the death of "Poker Alice" Tubbs, a contemporary character of the old West.

With his death, the Black Hills lost the last of the famous characters who fought, gambled and dug for gold in the frontier days when the "wild West" lived up to its name.

Holmes stated, "the word may be used in a looser way to express the whole process by which an article is made ready for sale on the open market."

Wider Interpretation Upheld.

The distinguished jurist declared the "affiatus" of the eighteenth amendment was controlling, and that the court was "of the opinion that the word was used in this looser way, and that if the empty containers and other objects seized were offered for sale in such a mode as purposely to attract purchasers who wanted them for the unlawful manufacture, as we interpret the word, they were designed for that manufacture and could be seized."

Mr. Lowman said the Treasury has sought to bring into the courts persons who sell beer-making devices and malt products to which yeast may be added to make intoxicants.

"So far, however," he said yesterday, "the courts have thrown out these cases. There are establishments which sell every article and product necessary for the manufacture of home brew. All the maker needs is to follow directions.

Decision Thought Potent Aid.

"So far we have been unable to stop that sort of thing, but the decision today may be the vehicle that will enable us to do so.

"We also have been unable to stop the sale of a long list of extracts to which alcohol may be added to make intoxicating liquor. It may be that under today's decision we will be able to seize such extracts and stop that sort of violation."

While the Treasury was considering what action it would take in the light of the ruling, the Senate judiciary committee reported favorably a House bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department. This is one of the recommendations made by the Law Enforcement Commission with a view to strengthening enforcement.

U. S. AGENTS HINTED AS SENATE RAIDERS

McKellar, in Talk on Floor, Infers Secret Service Men Rifled His Desks.

SMOOT ANOTHER VICTIM

Breaking into his office Saturday night, "secret service agents or somebody" rifled his desks and went through his papers and files, Senator Kenneth D. McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, declared in a speech on the floor yesterday.

The Tennesseean told his melodramatic story while the Senate was considering the Parker Supreme Court nomination. When he had concluded, two other senators declared that their offices also had been visited. They were Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, and Senator William E. Brock (Democrat), of Tennessee.

Capitol police immediately began an investigation, and in the meantime W. H. Moran, chief of the United States Secret Service, denied that his men were the culprits.

"On Saturday night," Senator McKellar said, "some one entered my offices and went through all my desks, files and papers. Of course, I do not know what they wanted; it was probably some secret service agents or somebody who wanted to get something for their benefit and to my detriment."

"It seems to me to be quite unnecessary to pull off raids in the Senate Office Building. If the raiders would notify Mr. Alden (the custodian), which offices they wanted to get into, I have no doubt that Mr. Alden, who is a very delightful gentleman, would arrange with the senators so that their offices could be examined by such secret service agents.

"Fortunately, so far as I know, there was nothing in my office that would interest anybody, and I am quite sure that whoever raided it got a water haul. I can not help but wonder in these days of secret service agents, when secret service agents are set upon our Federal judges, when they are set upon members of the Senate (I believe it was Senator Caraway's office that was gone through some time ago); when secret service agents are entering into every department of the Government—I can not help but wonder where it is all going to lead to and whether any good is accomplished by secret service agents.

"I was opposed to secrecy myself. I think the Government's business ought to be done in the open. It ought to be done in the open by the legislative branch, by the judicial branch, and by the executive branch. Secrecy in government means bad government.

"At any rate, Mr. President, all I desire to say here is that I can see no reason for the raiding of senators' offices, and I hope it may cease. I am told that we have a very efficient secret service. How true it is I do not know. It may be efficient, but certainly it leaves a man's office in a very disorderly condition.

"I may say to these secret-service agents of the Government—if they were the ones who raided my office—that if they will apply to me I shall be happy to let them go through all my papers and desks; let them just give me a little notice in advance and agree to put the papers back where they found them.

"Speaking seriously, if we had a Cheka, as they have in Russia, there might be some excuse for such a proceeding. I hope it will not occur again."

Senator Smoot did not get off as easily as Senator McKellar. The prowlers who went into his office stole two pens.

"Secret service men," said Senator Smoot, "would not have stolen a couple of pens."

Senator Brock arose after Senator Smoot to reveal that his office also had been visited over the week-end.

Hotel Annapolis Purchase Upheld

Appeals Court Refuses to Reverse Findings in Wardman Case.

Purchase by Harry Wardman and Thomas P. Bones of the Annapolis Hotel property, located at Twelfth and H streets northwest, at a recent foreclosure sale was upheld yesterday by the District Court of Appeals. The decision, written by Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, sustained the action of the District Supreme Court in dismissing a suit brought by the Annapolis Co. to set aside a trustees' sale of real and personal property under a deed of trust.

Justice Van Orsdel wrote: "Applying the rule that 'who seeks equity must do equity' to the plaintiff company, it is here confessing the debt and at the same time seeking in a court of equity relief against its collection by enforcement of the security given to insure its payment. Until tender of the payment of the debt is made, appellant is without standing in equity, and the decree below can be sustained on this ground alone. There is no theory, therefore, upon which the court would be justified in setting aside the decree dismissing the suit."

Final Debate Scheduled By G. U. Law Students

The final prize debate of the Georgetown University Law School between winners of four previous contests will be held this afternoon at the school.

Justices of local courts will act as judges of the debate, which consists of arguments in moot court to dismiss a case against a defendant indicted for illegal sale of liquor. Justice Josiah H. Van Orsdel of the District Court of Appeals; Justice William Hitz of the District Supreme Court, and former Chief Justice Edmund K. Campbell of the United States Court of Claims. The speakers, representing counsel in the case, will be Peter Joseph Toner, '32, and Jaime Benitez, '30, for the defendant and Lawrence Hince, '33; and Martin William Meyer, '31, for the Government.

234,000 DIAL CALLS MADE IN FOUR HOURS

Curious Keep Lines Busy as New Phone System Is Inaugurated.

RUSH DELAYS SERVICE

Blue Monday became a red-hot one yesterday for the telephone company when Washington tried out the new dial system.

It being the first experience of business Washington with dials, more calls were transmitted through the three downtown offices — District, National and Metropolitan—during the morning than are usually handled in all the exchanges during a normal day. Telephone officials estimated that 234,000 calls were handled between 9 o'clock a. m. and 1 o'clock p. m. yesterday. If this average had continued, a total of 702,000 calls would have been handled during the day in the three downtown exchanges. The average number of calls in a day in all the exchanges is 660,000.

Officials and employes of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. admitted that they had been taken for a ride by the Washington telephone public. Telephone users not only tried to call their friends "to see if it worked," but also experimented with the new system.

The avalanche of calls resulted in a slowing up of service during the morning. Many persons who were anxious to make calls found a long delay before the dial tone buzz was signaled. Telephone users are asked to cooperate within the next few days instead of experimenting in order to permit normal service.

One of the important things to remember, it is pointed out, is to dial only the first two letters of the station. For example: In calling a Georgia number, dial Ge. Instead of trying to memorize a number, it is suggested that the number be written down together with the first two letters of the exchange before the number is dialed.

Despite the burden placed on the dial system, the new mechanism was reported to be operating perfectly throughout the day. Thirty-five additional special operators have been put to work to assist dial novices in making proper connections. Remember to wait for the dial tone buzz, then dial correctly and wait for the ring tone.

Amos 'n' Andy Skit Costs Speeder $15

Policeman Takes Devotee of Radio Stars to Set at Station.

Clarence Milstead, of 3322 P street northwest, who is alleged to have told Policeman Frank J. Scoville, of the Traffic Bureau, that he had not missed Amos 'n' Andy in months, kept up with the two radio stars Saturday, but it cost him $15 in Traffic Court yesterday.

Scoville said that he stopped Milstead Saturday afternoon about 5:55 o'clock as the latter was making 40 miles an hour on Reservoir road northwest.

"What's your hurry?" Scoville quoted himself as saying.

"Amos 'n' Andy!" Milstead was said to have replied. "It's five minutes to six and I haven't missed them in months."

"Well, come on with me. We have a fine radio set at the Seventh Precinct station and we can just get there in time."

Officials' Right to Pass On Ergot of Rye Upheld

Ruling that the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Agriculture have judicial authority to decide on the quality of ergot of rye which it is sought to import into this country for the manufacture of medicinal fluid extract of ergot, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals yesterday held that their powers can not be curbed by injunction or mandamus.

The decision upholds action of the District of Columbia Supreme Court in dismissing a suit for injunction brought by Howard Armbruster, a New York importer of Spanish ergot of rye. Mr. Armbruster sought to estop the two Cabinet officers from permitting importation of alleged inferior ergot of ye.

TALKIES CAUSE BIG FILM INCOME JUMP

Half Billion Increase Seen as Result of Innovation, Technicians Hear.

CONVENTION IS OPENED

"Talkie" pictures have boosted movie income $500,000,00 annually and have attracted into playhouses an average of every person in the United States once a week.

These figures, interpreted as indicating the underlying properity of the country, were made public by Dr. Franklin S. Irby, of New York City, magazine editor, as principal speaker at the Society of Motion Picture Engineers in the opening yesterday of its four-day convention at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Sound pictures in reality have been responsible during the last two and a half years for doubling movie attendance, he added, declaring that "the total annual paid admissions to American theaters has reached the sum of $1,560,000,000, of which $500,000,000 can be attributed to introduction of sound pictures."

On the basis of the current trend, three-fourths of al ipicture houses in the Nation will have sound apparatus by the end of 1930, he said. He pointed out that at the close of 1929 there weer approximately 9,000 theaters with "talkies," out of a total of 22,600 movie houses.

A highly scientific moving picture, declared to be the first ever made of vocal cords in action, was presented by Dr. G. Oscar Russell, of the University of Ohio, the "star" of the film, and Clifton Tuttle, of the Eastman Kodak Research Laboratories.

Both told their audience of more than 300 motion picture technicians that information regarded as revolutionary in character had been obtained by the picture in revealing that physicians long have been wrong in the time-honored command to say "ah." They contended that the patient should say "eee" with the mouth wide open. They declared also that the film showed that the "false vocal cords" actually play an important role in the formation of speech.

The convention, opening with an address by Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, included various other technical talks. A feature of the gathering will be a banquet at the hotel tomorrow night with addresses by Will H. Hays, head of the industry, and C. Francis Jenkins, inventor of television, with Representative William P. Connery, jr., of Massachusetts, as master of ceremonies.

Hope Fades for Parent In Alleged Suicide Try

The condition of Harry M. Sears, 64 years old, of 63 W street northwest, who is said to have fired a bullet into his temple Sunday afternoon while in a garage in the rear of his home, is still critical and authorities of Casualty Hospital say that his chances of living are very meager.

IT IS GIRL WHO HAS SAY IN MARRYING

STUDY BY ENGINEER

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, May 5.—"Modern Women or Where to Hide" might easily be the title of a book J. G. Loeding could write were he a psychologist as well as an engineer who applies rather pure mathematics to the business of living.

Loeding has been prowling about in the devious ways of matrimony of late, and, smiling a little guiltily, has emerged with several thick tomes of statistics which tend to show that things are run just about as the girls want them.

His study was made of a group of some 12,000 persons.

The tenderer the years the more modern the girl, reasons Mr. Loeding, and the less chance you have of deciding things your way. Figures show that from fifteen to eighteen boys marry girls three years older in fact and more mentally.

"Assuming that the more mature mind maps the course, it is not hard to imagine what happens in these cases," said the engineer. "Very likely the girl picks out the boy."

Along in the early twenties you get as near an equal footing as you ever do in age. The age spread gradually increases until the dangerous forties. There Loeding's figures show that men want wives nine years younger than themselves.

Loeding points out that it is generally conceded that any bright young woman can take her pick of men about to assume the manners and responsibilities of middle age and thus his figures tell their own story. After fifty there isn't enough difference to matter, he finds.

The youth of fifteen (a basic age) has 999 chances in 1,000 to stay single during the next year and the figures show that he probably won't marry until he is 30. He may as well know, however, that at 53 there are only eight chances in 100 that he will be a bachelor. But should he be a bachelor, then the figures give him but six chances in 100 of altering his condition. So you see he has no escape from troubling figures. From 36 to 49 the odds are about even.

As for staying married, the figures are singularly happy ones. The first year is the hardest. After that the sailing is pretty smooth.

"The chances that a couple married for one year will stay so for fourteen more are 82 in 100," Loeding reports. "Age of the parties seems to have no influence, while the number of years they have been married does have.

"A man married fourteen years ago has 996 chances in 1,000 of staying so for fifteen years more, while a couple wed twenty-five years ago have an almost sure shot for a golden wedding celebration. There is only one chance in 10,000 that they will be divorced And as for the newlyweds—they're really not so bad after all. Only 17 in 100 are divorced in the first fifteen years."

FRESH BEAR ATTACK REPULSED BY BULLS

HALTED IN FINAL HOUR

New York, May 5 (A.P.). — Bears launched a fresh bombardment which sent prices crashing to new low levels for the recent decline in today's stock market, only to be suddenly and thoroughly repulsed in the final half hour of trading. A long list of important stocks closed $1 to nearly $9 a share above Saturday's final prices, but these gains were counterbalanced by losses running to a maximum of $20 a share in some of the less active issues.

It was a day of enormous activity, total transactions on the New York Exchange aggregating 8,279,260 shares, the largest for a single day since the dark days of late October. Trading during Saturday's two-hour session and during several of the shortened trading days of last November, however, was relatively more active.

Heavy Selling Absorbed.

Saturday's abrupt decline brought a large volume of selling into the market at the opening, but the greater part of the distress selling by pools and large professional traders caught in last week's drop appeared to have been completed on Saturday, and prices made irregular and hesitant progress toward higher levels until early afternoon, absorbing heavy selling on the way up.

The upturn began to lose its vigor soon after midday, and bears seized the opportunity to launch their attack. The decline was accelerated by the dumping of weakened margin accounts which brokers had been holding until late in the day to give their customers time to put up additional funds.

Wall street had been expecting a fresh bear onslaught, for there had been little indication during the earlier hours of trading that shorts were buying stock to cover their commitments, and might make another drive against prices in the hope of widening their profit. When the drive came it failed to attract any large volume of selling. As shorts began buying speculators for the rise also started a feverish bidding for stocks and the bear retreat became a rout. Prices surged up spectacularly as shorts fell over each other to cover their contracts.

The swift advance was attributed in part to unconfirmable Wall street rumors that several leading bankers who acted to stabilize the market during the autumn crash were planning to place huge buying orders under the market to check the decline, orders which would be reminders of the 1,000,000-share order for Standard of New Jersey at $50 a share and 200,000 shares of United States Steel at $150, which halted the decline last fall.

While no public comment regarding these rumors was available, one banker prominent in the autumn banking sortie stated privately that the situation was not serious enough to warrant such action, and that he was convinced that there was no likelihood of such a situation again arising.

Wheat Sinks to Dollar.

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Dollar wheat was back in season today.

For the second time in ten weeks wheat futures sank to the dollar mark, but the descent today was not so violently precipitous as the collapse of February 25, when March contracts dropped 5 cents, to 98¾ before rebounding.

May was the low month today. It required a decline of only half a cent to carry the price down to an even dollar a bushel, the lowest recorded for May wheat on the present crop. July touched $1.01⅛ and new bottoms were found in wheat, corn, oats and rye futures pits alike.

The stock market depression was held chiefly responsible for the downward movement of grain, which has been gradual and persistent for days.

HOUSE SENDS TARIFF MEASURE TO SENATE

FOREIGN LANDS PROTEST

(Associated Press.)

The tariff bill was transmitted by the House to the Senate yesterday, but action on the conference report and six provisions still in disagreement was deferred pending disposition of the Parker nomination.

Meanwhile, protests from foreign governments against dozens of increased duties carried in the measure continued to be received by the Senate finance committee. Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, had placed in the Congressional Record the appeal of more than 1,000 American economists for a presidential veto of the bill.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, said he would leave it to the Senate to decide whether the bill would be considered on the floor before being returned to conference for adjustment of the remaining disputes.

He had planned to ask that it be sent direct to conference, but senators interested in silver, lumber and cement desire that the Senate vote first to instruct its conferees on these items. The committee chairman, therefore, will leave it to the membership to decide the procedure.

In any event, separate votes in Senate are assured on the export debenture and flexible tariff provisions, Senate amendments on which were rejected by the House last week along with the proposed duties on silver and lumber and the free listing of cement intended for public works.

Republican leaders are confident that the debenture farm aid plan is definitely eliminated from the legislation and they also believe a compromise on the flexible clause under which the President will continue to exercise authority to change duties will be agreed upon in conference and meet the approval of both branches.

The latest foreign communications protesting against rates came from France, Italy, Switzerland, and the Netherlands. Transmitted by their diplomatic representatives here on behalf of producing interests in their respective countries, the communications complain of increases on wrapper tobacco, watches, olive oil, cheese, canned tomatoes, cherries, lemons, shoes, glue and gelatin.

"Eat More Lettuce"

Health authorities advise a salad a day for physical well-being. Lettuce contains valuable minerals and vitamins needed for health. Keep heads of lettuce in cheese-cloth bags in your refrigerator. Before serving, put the lettuce in ice water so that the leaves may absorb the moisture and become crisp. To dry, before placing on table, pat it with crumpled paper toweling. This absorbs moisture quickly and does not bruise the leaves.

Use only the finest ice that you can buy—ice of the same high quality as your food. Then you can use it without fear for all table purposes. Sparkling American Ice is pure and safe.

THREE STATES FEEL FURY OF TORNADOES

Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebras Visited by Twisters; Two Dead.

PROPERTY DAMAGE HIGH

Kansas City, May 5 (A.P.).—Tornadoes swept into three States late today, causing at least two deaths and injury to several persons. Four tornadoes loosed their fury on western Oklahoma, wrecking city and rural homes, cotton gins and small buildings in their paths.

Mrs. C. T. Bush, 63, was killed when one of three twisters, which struck Blaine County, leveled her farm home, 8 miles northeast of Greenfield. An unidentified Negro man also was killed. A young boy by the name of Clevinger was reported missing after the storm.

Four men were injured, one critically, when a tornado struck Walters, Okla. The injured were Jack Hurley, Bill Smith, Bill Hood and a man named Dycus. Hurley, whose skull was fractured by debris tossed in a storm sewer in which he was woknig, was in a critical condition. Smith sustained a broken shoulder and Hood suffered several broken ribs. They were working in the ditch with Hurley.

City officials estimated the damage at Walters at approximately $150,000. Three cotton gins were razed, a fourth was damaged and a dozen homes were wrecked.

A girl was injured and five farms were damaged near Ellinwood, Kans. The twister swept 30 box cars from a railroad track and carried them 500 yards from the right of way. The wind also tore up the Santa Fe Railroad tracks between Chase, Kans., and Ellinwood. The farm home of Lawrence Tibbets, a mile west of Langdon, Kans., was destroyed by the storm.

In Nebraska, the storm swept through a farming section between Grand Island and Hastings, demolishing several homes.

Millet's Grandson Admits Faking Works of Masters

Paris Artistic World Astounded by Admission That Thousands of Supposedly Authentic Paintings by Immortals Are Only Copies; Fraud Revealed.

Paris, May 5. (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Discovery that three or four thousand supposedly authentic paintings by celebrated artists are only copies executed under orders given by the grandson of the famous painter Millet, author of the world-known "Angelus," has created the greatest sensation of years in artistic circles here.

Jean Charles Millet, initiator and leader of the organization which has been carrying on this wholesale traffic in spurious masterpieces, admits that it has been going on four years and has named as his principal collaborator a painter named Cazeau who has a studio in the Paris suburb of Maisons Laffitte.

Amazing revelations have been made as to the extent of the alleged frauds and the success with which they have been worked. It is affirmed that even in the Millet Museum at Barbizon, where the great painter lived and worked, many pictures attributed to him are mere copies executed by Cazeau. The latter appears to possess real talent. His copies have been sold for prices ranging up to $60,000.

Foreign museums and galleries as well as individual collectors possess some of his fakes, purchased at extravagant prices. Millett was not the only master copied. Fake Sisleys, Corots, Monets, Itrillos, Bonnais and Pissaros have been turned out and marketed by the organization, aided by a number of dealers and intermediaries acting apparently in good faith.

Millet's grandson had kept the artist's own signature stamp, "JFM" by means of which the pictures were made to look authentic, and as the copies were marvellous reproductions of Millet's style and young Millet would produce letters from his grandfather or other documentary testimony, purchaser never had the slightest doubt or suspicion.

The whole traffic was revealed when a wealthy French industrialist, an art collector, discovered by accident that one of the pictures attributed to Millet and sold to him by the master's grandson was a fake.

The custodian of the Millet Museum at Barbizon is dumbfounded by the revelations. He says that only recently he refused an offer of $15,000 from an American for one picture now alleged to be a copy. He also asserts that Millet's signature stamp was destroyed after the artist's death.

highways is that the number of motor victims mount each year," he said. We have not yet discovered a way for mediating them out of existence."

Mr. Fieser said that European chapters of the Red Cross have begun experiments with highway emergency stations. He explained that the service would not be a substitute for medical care, bu twould meet the need until a physician arrives on the scene.

A feature of the opening session was an address on Junior Red Cross work by 16-year-old Constance Payne, of Terre Haute, Ind., who insisted upon appearing on the platform in spite of injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday night. President Hoover comlimented her on her pertinacity.

Trophy Is Presented.

At last night's general session, Douglas Griesemer, of Washington, national roll call director, presented the Red Cross trophy to Judge Benjamin F. Prescott, chairman of the winning Milford, N. M., chapter.

The presentation was submitted on the program for an address to have been delivered by Dr. Rene Sand, technical counsellor of the League of Red Cross Societies of Pars, France. Dr. Sand's ship was delayed, and his address will be delivered tonight.

Juge John Barton Payne, national Red Cross chairman, presided at yesterday's session, and spoke briefly at the trophy presentation last night. Reviewing the organization's history from the time of its inception in Switzerland, he characterized the Red Cross as responding "when and where neede, with never a deaf ear."

Turkey Seeks to Join.

Judge Payne announced that Turkey had signified its desire to be the fifty-ninth nation to join the organization.

Other speakers on the opening program were Ernets P. Bicknell, vice chairman in charge of insular and foreign operations, and James K. McClintock, vice chairman in charge of finance.

The afternoon meeting was given over to group discussions, a round table discussion and a reception at which wives of various Cabinet officers assisted.

Convention officers chosen were: Mrs. Frank Evans, of the Salt Lake City, Utah, chapter, president; Dr. ThomasE. Green, of Washington, secretary.

Text of Hoover Address.

President Hoover's welcoming address was broadcast over both the Columbia and National systems. Its text follows:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to participate in the convocation of the meeting of the officers of the American Red Cross.

"The past fifteen years have seen a great change in the purpose and an expansion in the benevolent activities of this, our great official association for the administration of national charity.

"Originally designed for succor in war, it has now become also the national agency for relief of disaster in peace time, both at home and abroad.

"In the past decade it has distinguished itself a score of times by effective organization of the saving of life and suffering.

Nation's Confidence Expressed.

"Its ever-increasing strength represents the growing of the spiritual sense of responsibility of the Nation toward those who meet with disaster.

"The Nation has grown to complete confidence in the efficiency, ability and single-mindedness of the Red Cross.

"We have come to intrust it with a great responsibility, for the Red Cross is today the expression of the national will, the national sympathy, for all those overtaken by catastrophe of storm, of flood, of famine.

"It's call to charity to meet these emergencies is mandatory upon the heart of the Nation.

"It is a grave responsibility that the Red Cross holds for our country, and there is implied in it a preparedness for ready and instant action. And in discharge of this great responsibility it represents more than just cold-blooded efficiency. The American Red Cross represents the spiritual quality, the charity and sympathy of a nation to the helpless.

Cooperation Is Praised.

"Without question the Red Cross societies of many countries occupy an equally high place in the confidence of their people and governments.

"That these great national agencies should come together in the common purpose of preventing and ameliorating suffering throughout the world is in harmony with the spirit of the age. The Red Cross thus becomes the universal agency for giving practical expression to international good will and to that human sympathy which is the common heritage of all.

"Many years of acquaintance gives me knowledge of the effectiveness and devotion of your chairman, your staff, and the self-sacrificing service of your Nation-wide organization

"In the name of the American people I welcome you to our National Capital and wish you well in your deliberations."

JUDGESHIPS BAIT FOR VOTES IN PARKER FIGHT, CLAIM

dent's name into the matter, Senator Ashurst said all he would charge the President with was "to recommend an unfit and refuse to disclose those who recommended him."

Senator Fess wanted to know if Senator Ashurst meant that the President was concealing something because it was detrimental to Parker.

"Does the senator think that the Dixon letter influenced the President?" Senator Fess asked.

"All I know," Senator Ashurst replied, "is that the letter was written and the appointment was made."

Believes There Are Other Letters.

Furthermore, it just so happened that that letter came to the surface, the Arizonian continued. If that one was found "there are others more incriminatory and more damnable, I have no doubt," he said.

It had become apparent long before now that instead of quieting Senator Ashurst and have him withdraw his earlier charges that Senator Fess had only further riled the Arizonian.

"Call the lobby committee together and put senators on the stand," he shouted.

"Senators have told me that they have been approached and I believe them—and they've told me under such circumstances as would preclude any mistake," he declared.

Senator Ashurst said that he did not mean that any senators had made the offers, or that any senator had been influenced by them. He particularly exempted Senator Watson, the Republican leader. He meant some of the politicians who are working for Parker, he said, and it could easily be found out who they were.

Fess Cites Parker Supporters.

Reverting then to Senator Ashurst's characterization of Parker as a weakling, Senator Fess said it was Ashurst's view as opposed to the president of the American Bar Association, the North Carolina Bar Association and judges and lawyers who know him.

Whereupon Senator Ashurst exploded again and declared that a tremendous pressure had been brought on the American Bar Associatoion for its indorsement, and that furthermore, the indorsement was so strained that "it does not stand up as it should."

As a matter of fact, he declared, "this nominee is persona non grata with the American Bar Association.

"I will propound this question to the senator," he continued, "if the American Bar Association has been asked to recommend a man does the senator think it would have ever named this man?"

They Would Have, Says Fess.

"Under the circumstances I think they would have," Senator Fess replied, "that is, taking into consideration that the Fourth Judicial Circuit had not had a man on the bench in 60 years."

"In an excursion into its most remote imagination," Senator Ashurst insisted, "it would never have thought of naming this man."

Senator Ashhurst said he fully realized the seriousness of his charges about judgships being offered for votes, and that when he first heard of the incident Friday he was shocked but could not make up his mind as to whether he should say anything. He sought further evidence and counseled with one of the leaders of the Senate about it, he declared.

Senator Stephens lauded Parker's ability and cited statements of the Southern bar in support of his argument. Senator Waterman, of Colorado, also defended the appointment.

Senator Caraway, chairman of the lobby committee, said later that he had no plan for having his committee go into Senator Ashurst's charges. He had joined in the Stephens-Ashurst tilt to say that two former governors of North Carolina "have haunted the corridors and the offices of senators until it has become almost intolerable." He asked Senator Stephens if he thought their activities had been proper. Senator Caraway called them "candidates for office."

Tells of Talk With Judge Webb.

Senator Stephens said the only man with whom he had had a serious discussion about Parker was Judge Yates Webb, of North Carolina, former chairman of the House judiciary committee.

Judge Webb had said to him, Stephens said: "Stephens, there is not a better lawyer in the State of North Carolina, there is not a finer character in the State of North Carolina, there is not a man better fitted for this high position."

Attorney General Mitchell in his letter to Senator Stephens said that the Dixon letter "seems to have been sent over from the executive offices and placed in the files of this department as a matter of routine."

Indorsed By Both Parties.

When he was asked for suggestions for Justice Sanford's successor, he said, "I undertook an inquiry into the qualifications of a number of judges and lawyers, particularly from the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Ninth Circuits which are not represented on the Supreme Court. An impressive showing was made as to the qualifications of Judge Parker."

The fact that indorsements came from Democrats and Republicans alike, Mitchell said, is "evidence that no narrow politics entered into the matter."

Not only is the outcome in doubt but it is now problematical when a vote will come. It is doubtful if it will come today. The administration forces are understood to have refused any more pairs to absent opposition senators whereupon the opposition intends to keep up the debate until these senators get back.

Text of Mitchell Letter On Parker's Appointment

Following is the text of the letter written by Attorney General William S. Mitchell to Senator H. D. Stephens in reference to the appointment of Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme Court bench:

In view of the discussion as to the extent political consideration entered into the nomination of Judge Parker, it is desirable that the facts should be stated. This discussion seems to have been aroused by publication of a letter from former Gov. Dixon to one of the President's secretaries, advancing political reasons for the nomination. As to this letter, I can assure you that, prior to its recent publication, the President never saw it and knew nothing of it. It seems to have been sent over from the executive offices and placed in the files of this department as a matter of routine. Because one out of many hundreds of letters of indorsement gave political reasons for the appointment, the assumption is hardly justified that such reasons brought about the nomination.

Upon the death of Justice Sanford, in response to the President's request for suggestions as to a successor, I undertook an inquiry into the qualifications of a number of judges and lawyers, particularly from the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Ninth Circuits, which are not represented on the Supreme Court. An impressive showing was made as to the qualifications of Judge Parker. He has been indorsed by two United States circuit judges, ten United States district judges, a large number of State judges, the president and five former presidents of the American Bar Association, 22 presidents of State and county bar associations, a number of United States senators, including senators from his home State, and the governor and former governors of that State, and by hundreds of members of the bar and prominent citizens, not only from the Fourth Circuit, but from the country at large. These indorsements come alike from members of both political parties and are evidence that no narrow politics entered into the matter.

I made a painstaking inquiry into Judge Parker's judicial work and examined all of the opinions he has written as a circuit judge, numbering over 125. No fair-minded lawyer could read th opinions without being satisfied that Judge Parker has legal ability of the highest order, qualifying him to sit on the highest court. They show him to be a lawyer of sound judgment, fair-minded and sincere to a high degree, without any egotism or affectation, with a wide and accurate knowledge of legal principles, and a prodigious worker. They disclose all the qualities which, added to his vigorous youth, should enable him to serve with distinction on the highest court of the land. A study of Judge Parker's decisions reveals him as one of the outstanding circuit judges of the country. His personal character was shown to be above reproach, and his integrity unquestioned.

This information was laid before the President with the recommendation that Judge Parker be nominated. Justice Sanford was from the South and a Republican. While locality is not controlling, it is never ignored, and the Fourth Circuit had not been represented upon the court for 60 years. It seemed that the appointment of Judge Parker to succeed Justice Sanford would be in accordance with tradition and should be well received throughout the country.

With respect to the political faith of a successor to Justice Sanford, the tradition which requires that the Supreme Court be kept nonpartisan was fully satisfied by the presence of three Democrats upon the bench, and under these circumstances it was considered entirely appropriate and in accordance with tradition and historical practice for the President to nominate a member of his own party who possessed the necessary qualifications. Beyond this, no State or national politics entered into the matter.

time no one has ever told me what to say in advance of a sermon."

The audience was told that the lobbying charges and other criticisms made against the council are doing considerable harm, but that members should be ever alert to dispute the veracity of statements made by the critics of the council.

The bishop spoke briefly on the purposes of the Federal Council of Churches, saying that it in no way sought a forced union of denominations, but was interested in furtherance of a cooperative spirit among the Protestant faiths. He said that there must be an internal pressure for union before churches could be brought closely together, and that the council now "just holds our rules loosely."

Bishop William F. McDowell, chairman of the Washington committee of the council, presided at the Mayflower luncheon. District Commissioners Reichelderfer and Crosby were honor guests. The luncheon was described as a testimonial given the president of the council at the time of his visit to Washington every four years.

torn up for repairs. They returned to the building, barricaded it, climbed to the roof and showered stones on the law's forces. Thereupon the police and troops opened fire, shooting principally into the air to frighten the demonstrators.

Eventually the cobblestone ammunition gave out and the rebellious undergraduates came down from the roof and left the grounds for their homes, the police not interfering. By midafternoon the trouble was over, but a strong guard was kept over other student centers the rest of the day and night.

After the collegians had left, authorities found signs, urging a republic and attacking the monarchy, pasted on the w[illegible]s.

Gen. Berengue said stern measures would be the rule henceforth. "We have to stop this," he declared, "we have no other remedy, we are taking the necessary measures."

The Berenguer regime feels it has a grievance, for while students opposed Primo de Rivera bitterly in his regime there was no bloodshed under that dictatorship, whereas now, with a certain amount of freedom of speech and assembly, there is more trouble than the Primo government ever knew.

Five Men Are Drowned In Maine River Flood

Port Kent, Me., May 5 (A.P.).—Five men were drowned and two others were reported missing today as the St. John River, which reached flood pitch last night, slowly began to recede.

The drownings occurred 5 miles below here last night when a motor boat with ten men in it, seven of whom had just been pulled from the water, was swamped. Unconfirmed reports said that other river men had been drowned up river.

Concrete to Roof Ohio Cell Blocks

66 Mutineers Are in Solitary Confinement on Diet of Bread and Water.

Columbus, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Immediate construction of a steel reinforced concrete slab roof over the G and H cell blocks at Ohio Penitentiary, where 320 convicts lost their lives in the fire of April 21, was directed today by Hal H. Griswold, State director of public welfare. Griswold announced that work had started on the proposal to complete the new I and K blocks, and indicated the reinforced roof would be extended to cover these two blocks as soon as cells are completed.

Convicts who led the prison mutiny after the fire are still housed in tents with'n a barbed wire inclosure. National Guardsmen, under Col. Robert S. Haubrich, had placed 66, who refused to work, in solitary confinement on a bread-and-water diet.

Rufus Deeds, Lawrence County, serving 10 to 25 years for robbery, was in serious condition in prison hospital from lacerations about the head, suffered yesterday when he was attacked by fellow convicts while lying on his cot in the barbed wire inclosure. Physicians said the wounds required 63 stitches to close them.

Watch and Bracelet Reported Lost.

Mrs. Alixa Sternberg, of 2145 C street northwest, reported to police yesterday that she lost a wrist watch valued at $100, and a plain gold bracelet which she valued at $25 when she was on an uptown street April 30.

Nine Cities Show Wet Trend in Poll

Only Two Show Plurality for Enforcement of Dry Law.

New York, May 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Incomplete returns today from nine widely scattered cities in the Literary Digest's Nation-wide poll on prohibition—first reports on five cities and second on four—show a definitely wet sentiment in all the cities. York, Pa., and Morgantown, W. Va., gave a plurality of votes for enforcement, but the combined repeal and modification votes exceeded the enforcement votes in both cities.

Russian Flotation Is Held Worthless

Court, in Tax Appeal Case, Decides in Favor of Detroit Bank.

Right of the Commonwealth Commercial State Bank of Detroit to write-off $51,000 worth of bonds of the Imperial Russian Government, which it purchased in 1916 and 1917 and which were repudiated by the Soviet government was upheld yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The bank appealed from a decision of the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

Justice Charles H. Robb in setting aside the tax held that the Treasury Department's regulation on worthless securities provides that bonds purchased since February 28, 1913, when ascertained to be worthless, may be treated as bad debts.

Four other appeals from decisions of the Board of Tax Appeals, however, were denied, including Robert W. Chambers' petition for a redetermination of deficiencies for the years 1922, 1923 and 1924.

Holmes stated, "the word may be used in a looser way to express the whole process by which an article is made ready for sale on the open market."

Wider Interpretation Upheld.

The distinguished jurist declared the "affiatus" of the eighteenth amendment was controlling, and that the court was "of the opinion that the word was used in this looser way, and that if the empty containers and other objects seized were offered for sale in such a mode as purposely to attract purchasers who wanted them for the unlawful manufacture, as we interpret the word, they were designed for that manufacture and could be seized."

Mr. Lowman said the Treasury has sought to bring into the courts persons who sell beer-making devices and malt products to which yeast may be added to make intoxicants.

"So far, however," he said yesterday, "the courts have thrown out these cases. There are establishments which sell every article and product necessary for the manufacture of home brew. All the maker needs is to follow directions.

Decision Thought Potent Aid.

"So far we have been unable to stop that sort of thing, but the decision today may be the vehicle that will enable us to do so.

"We also have been unable to stop the sale of a long list of extracts to which alcohol may be added to make intoxicating liquor. It may be that under today's decision we will be able to seize such extracts and stop that sort of violation."

While the Treasury was considering what action it would take in the light of the ruling, the Senate judiciary committee reported favorably a House bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department. This is one of the recommendations made by the Law Enforcement Commission with a view to strengthening enforcement.

U. S. AGENTS HINTED AS SENATE RAIDERS

McKellar, in Talk on Floor, Infers Secret Service Men Rifled His Desks.

SMOOT ANOTHER VICTIM

Breaking into his office Saturday night, "secret service agents or somebody" rifled his desks and went through his papers and files, Senator Kenneth D. McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, declared in a speech on the floor yesterday.

The Tennesseean told his melodramatic story while the Senate was considering the Parker Supreme Court nomination. When he had concluded, two other senators declared that their offices also had been visited. They were Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, and Senator William E. Brock (Democrat), of Tennessee.

Capitol police immediately began an investigation, and in the meantime W. H. Moran, chief of the United States Secret Service, denied that his men were the culprits.

"On Saturday night," Senator McKellar said, "some one entered my offices and went through all my desks, files and papers. Of course, I do not know what they wanted; it was probably some secret service agents or somebody who wanted to get something for their benefit and to my detriment."

"It seems to me to be quite unnecessary to pull off raids in the Senate Office Building. If the raiders would notify Mr. Alden (the custodian), which offices they wanted to get into, I have no doubt that Mr. Alden, who is a very delightful gentleman, would arrange with the senators so that their offices could be examined by such secret service agents.

"Fortunately, so far as I know, there was nothing in my office that would interest anybody, and I am quite sure that whoever raided it got a water haul. I can not help but wonder in these days of secret service agents, when secret service agents are set upon our Federal judges, when they are set upon members of the Senate (I believe it was Senator Caraway's office that was gone through some time ago); when secret service agents are entering into every department of the Government—I can not help but wonder where it is all going to lead to and whether any good is accomplished by secret service agents.

"I was opposed to secrecy myself. I think the Government's business ought to be done in the open. It ought to be done in the open by the legislative branch, by the judicial branch, and by the executive branch. Secrecy in government means bad government.

"At any rate, Mr. President, all I desire to say here is that I can see no reason for the raiding of senators' offices, and I hope it may cease. I am told that we have a very efficient secret service. How true it is I do not know. It may be efficient, but certainly it leaves a man's office in a very disorderly condition.

"I may say to these secret-service agents of the Government—if they were the ones who raided my office—that if they will apply to me I shall be happy to let them go through all my papers and desks; let them just give me a little notice in advance and agree to put the papers back where they found them.

"Speaking seriously, if we had a Cheka, as they have in Russia, there might be some excuse for such a proceeding. I hope it will not occur again."

Senator Smoot did not get off as easily as Senator McKellar. The prowlers who went into his office stole two pens.

"Secret service men," said Senator Smoot, "would not have stolen a couple of pens."

Senator Brock arose after Senator Smoot to reveal that his office also had been visited over the week-end.

Appeals Court Refuses to Reverse Findings in Wardman Case.

Purchase by Harry Wardman and Thomas P. Bones of the Annapolis Hotel property, located at Twelfth and H streets northwest, at a recent foreclosure sale was upheld yesterday by the District Court of Appeals. The decision, written by Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, sustained the action of the District Supreme Court in dismissing a suit brought by the Annapolis Co. to set aside a trustees' sale of real and personal property under a deed of trust.

Justice Van Orsdel wrote: "Applying the rule that 'who seeks equity must do equity' to the plaintiff company, it is here confessing the debt and at the same time seeking in a court of equity relief against its collection by enforcement of the security given to insure its payment. Until tender of the payment of the debt is made, appellant is without standing in equity, and the decree below can be sustained on this ground alone. There is no theory, therefore, upon which the court would be justified in setting aside the decree dismissing the suit."

234,000 DIAL CALLS MADE IN FOUR HOURS

Curious Keep Lines Busy as New Phone System Is Inaugurated.

Blue Monday became a red-hot one yesterday for the telephone company when Washington tried out the new dial system.

It being the first experience of business Washington with dials, more calls were transmitted through the three downtown offices — District, National and Metropolitan—during the morning than are usually handled in all the exchanges during a normal day. Telephone officials estimated that 234,000 calls were handled between 9 o'clock a. m. and 1 o'clock p. m. yesterday. If this average had continued, a total of 702,000 calls would have been handled during the day in the three downtown exchanges. The average number of calls in a day in all the exchanges is 660,000.

Officials and employes of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. admitted that they had been taken for a ride by the Washington telephone public. Telephone users not only tried to call their friends "to see if it worked," but also experimented with the new system.

The avalanche of calls resulted in a slowing up of service during the morning. Many persons who were anxious to make calls found a long delay before the dial tone buzz was signaled. Telephone users are asked to cooperate within the next few days instead of experimenting in order to permit normal service.

One of the important things to remember, it is pointed out, is to dial only the first two letters of the station. For example: In calling a Georgia number, dial Ge. Instead of trying to memorize a number, it is suggested that the number be written down together with the first two letters of the exchange before the number is dialed.

Despite the burden placed on the dial system, the new mechanism was reported to be operating perfectly throughout the day. Thirty-five additional special operators have been put to work to assist dial novices in making proper connections. Remember to wait for the dial tone buzz, then dial correctly and wait for the ring tone.

Amos 'n' Andy Skit Costs Speeder $15

Policeman Takes Devotee of Radio Stars to Set at Station.

Clarence Milstead, of 3322 P street northwest, who is alleged to have told Policeman Frank J. Scoville, of the Traffic Bureau, that he had not missed Amos 'n' Andy in months, kept up with the two radio stars Saturday, but it cost him $15 in Traffic Court yesterday.

Scoville said that he stopped Milstead Saturday afternoon about 5:55 o'clock as the latter was making 40 miles an hour on Reservoir road northwest.

"What's your hurry?" Scoville quoted himself as saying.

"Amos 'n' Andy!" Milstead was said to have replied. "It's five minutes to six and I haven't missed them in months."

"Well, come on with me. We have a fine radio set at the Seventh Precinct station and we can just get there in time."

Officials' Right to Pass On Ergot of Rye Upheld

Ruling that the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Agriculture have judicial authority to decide on the quality of ergot of rye which it is sought to import into this country for the manufacture of medicinal fluid extract of ergot, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals yesterday held that their powers can not be curbed by injunction or mandamus.

The decision upholds action of the District of Columbia Supreme Court in dismissing a suit for injunction brought by Howard Armbruster, a New York importer of Spanish ergot of rye. Mr. Armbruster sought to estop the two Cabinet officers from permitting importation of alleged inferior ergot of ye.

Fire which was caused by a lighted cigarette being thrown on the roof from an adjoining building endangered the lives of more than 30 old men and women who live in a private hospital at 1819 Columbia road northwest, under the supervision of Miss Josephine Hunt, a registered nurse.

Prompt action of one of the residents of the hospital in calling the fire department, and in trying to extinguish the blaze, probably saved the building. The damage was estimated by police at $150.

TALKIES CAUSE BIG FILM INCOME JUMP

Half Billion Increase Seen as Result of Innovation, Technicians Hear.

CONVENTION IS OPENED

"Talkie" pictures have boosted movie income $500,000,00 annually and have attracted into playhouses an average of every person in the United States once a week.

These figures, interpreted as indicating the underlying properity of the country, were made public by Dr. Franklin S. Irby, of New York City, magazine editor, as principal speaker at the Society of Motion Picture Engineers in the opening yesterday of its four-day convention at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Sound pictures in reality have been responsible during the last two and a half years for doubling movie attendance, he added, declaring that "the total annual paid admissions to American theaters has reached the sum of $1,560,000,000, of which $500,000,000 can be attributed to introduction of sound pictures."

On the basis of the current trend, three-fourths of al lpicture houses in the Nation will have sound apparatus by the end of 1930, he said. He pointed out that at the close of 1929 there weer approximately 9,000 theaters with "talkies," out of a total of 22,600 movie houses.

A highly scientific moving picture, declared to be the first ever made of vocal cords in action, was presented by Dr. G. Oscar Russell, of the University of Ohio, the "star" of the film, and Clifton Tuttle, of the Eastman Kodak Research Laboratories.

Both told their audience of more than 300 motion picture technicians that information regarded as revolutionary in character had been obtained by the picture in revealing that physicians long have been wrong in the time-honored command to say "ah." They contended that the patient should say "eee" with the mouth wide open. They declared also that the film showed that the "false vocal cords" actually play an important role in the formation of speech.

The convention, opening with an address by Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, included various other technical talks. A feature of the gathering will be a banquet at the hotel tomorrow night with addresses by Will H. Hays, head of the industry, and C. Francis Jenkins, inventor of television, with Representative William P. Connery, jr., of Massachusetts, as master of ceremonies.

The car containing the trio is believed to have been crowded off the road by a truck, the driver being blinded by dust following in the wake of the larger machine. Miss Hall was thrown out as the car jumped an embankment and she sustained a fracture of the skull. She was to have been married this week end.

Hope Fades for Parent In Alleged Suicide Try

The condition of Harry M. Sears, 64 years old, of 63 W street northwest, who is said to have fired a bullet into his temple Sunday afternoon while in a garage in the rear of his home, is still critical and authorities of Casualty Hospital say that his chances of living are very meager.

Mr. Sears is alleged to have attempted suicide shortly after returning from the grave of his daughter, Mrs. Florence Darlington, who was killed in the explosion November 11 at the J. G. McCrory store on Seventh street. Despondency was thought to be the cause.

Richardson came to the hospital driving his own machine. He told the doctors that he had swallowed the tack while he was holding several in his mouth in the course of repairing a screen door at Twenty-fourth street and Benning road northeast.

Dr. Helen Montague, of Children's Court, New York City, discussing factors underlying delinquency in mentally defective boys said they are mainly, broken homes, brutal treatment and feeble-mindedness on part of parents. IT IS GIRL WHO HAS SAY IN MARRYING

Survey in 12,000 Cases Shows She Does Selecting of Her Spouse.

STUDY BY ENGINEER

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, May 5.—"Modern Women or Where to Hide" might easily be the title of a book J. G. Loeding could write were he a psychologist as well as an engineer who applies rather pure mathematics to the business of living.

Loeding has been prowling about in the devious ways of matrimony of late, and, smiling a little guiltily, has emerged with several thick tomes of statistics which tend to show that things are run just about as the girls want them.

Loeding, a mechanical engineer, is engaged as a consultant on safety work. He gathered his statistics in his years of work as an engineer.

His study was made of a group of some 12,000 persons.

The tenderer the years the more modern the girl, reasons Mr. Loeding, and the less chance you have of deciding things your way. Figures show that from fifteen to eighteen boys marry girls three years older in fact and more mentally.

"Assuming that the more mature mind maps the course, it is not hard to imagine what happens in these cases," said the engineer. "Very likely the girl picks out the boy."

Along in the early twenties you get as near an equal footing as you ever do in age. The age spread gradually increases until the dangerous forties. There Loeding's figures show that men want wives nine years younger than themselves.

Loeding points out that it is generally conceded that any bright young woman can take her pick of men about to assume the manners and responsibilities of middle age and thus his figures tell their own story. After fifty there isn't enough difference to matter, he finds.

The youth of fifteen (a basic age) has 999 chances in 1,000 to stay single during the next year and the figures show that he probably won't marry until he is 30. He may as well know, however, that at 53 there are only eight chances in 100 that he will be a bachelor. But should he be a bachelor, then the figures give him but six chances in 100 of altering his condition. So you see he has no escape from troubling figures. From 36 to 49 the odds are about even.

As for staying married, the figures are singularly happy ones. The first year is the hardest. After that the sailing is pretty smooth.

"The chances that a couple married for one year will stay so for fourteen more are 82 in 100," Loeding reports. "Age of the parties seems to have no influence, while the number of years they have been married does have.

"A man married fourteen years ago has 996 chances in 1,000 of staying so for fifteen years more, while a couple wed twenty-five years ago have an almost sure shot for a golden wedding celebration. There is only one chance in 10,000 that they will be divorced And as for the newlyweds—they're really not so bad after all. Only 17 in 100 are divorced in the first fifteen years."

He was unable to explain just how the accident occurred.

FRESH BEAR ATTACK REPULSED BY BULLS

HALTED IN FINAL HOUR

New York, May 5 (A.P.). — Bears launched a fresh bombardment which sent prices crashing to new low levels for the recent decline in today's stock market, only to be suddenly and thoroughly repulsed in the final half hour of trading. A long list of important stocks closed $1 to nearly $9 a share above Saturday's final prices, but these gains were counterbalanced by losses running to a maximum of $20 a share in some of the less active issues.

It was a day of enormous activity, total transactions on the New York Exchange aggregating 8,279,260 shares, the largest for a single day since the dark days of late October. Trading during Saturday's two-hour session and during several of the shortened trading days of last November, however, was relatively more active.

Heavy Selling Absorbed.

Saturday's abrupt decline brought a large volume of selling into the market at the opening, but the greater part of the distress selling by pools and large professional traders caught in last week's drop appeared to have been completed on Saturday, and prices made irregular and hesitant progress toward higher levels until early afternoon, absorbing heavy selling on the way up.

The upturn began to lose its vigor soon after midday, and bears seized the opportunity to launch their attack. The decline was accelerated by the dumping of weakened margin accounts which brokers had been holding until late in the day to give their customers time to put up additional funds.

Wall street had been expecting a fresh bear onslaught, for there had been little indication during the earlier hours of trading that shorts were buying stock to cover their commitments, and might make another drive against prices in the hope of widening their profit. When the drive came it failed to attract any large volume of selling. As shorts began buying speculators for the rise also started a feverish bidding for stocks and the bear retreat became a rout. Prices surged up spectacularly as shorts fell over each other to cover their contracts.

The swift advance was attributed in part to unconfirmable Wall street rumors that several leading bankers who acted to stabilize the market during the autumn crash were planning to place huge buying orders under the market to check the decline, orders which would be reminders of the 1,000,000-share order for Standard of New Jersey at $50 a share and 200,000 shares of United States Steel at $150, which halted the decline last fall.

While no public comment regarding these rumors was available, one banker prominent in the autumn banking sortie stated privately that the situation was not serious enough to warrant such action, and that he was convinced that there was no likelihood of such a situation again arising.

Wheat Sinks to Dollar.

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Dollar wheat was back in season today.

For the second time in ten weeks wheat futures sank to the dollar mark, but the descent today was not so violently precipitous as the collapse of February 25, when March contracts dropped 5 cents, to 98¾ before rebounding.

May was the low month today. It required a decline of only half a cent to carry the price down to an even dollar a bushel, the lowest recorded for May wheat on the present crop. July touched $1.01½ and new bottoms were found in wheat, corn, oats and rye futures pits alike.

The stock market depression was held chiefly responsible for the downward movement of grain, which has been gradual and persistent for days.

Action Deferred on Report of Conference Until Vote on Parker.

FOREIGN LANDS PROTEST

(Associated Press.)

The tariff bill was transmitted by the House to the Senate yesterday, but action on the conference report and six provisions still in disagreement was deferred pending disposition of the Parker nomination.

Meanwhile, protests from foreign governments against dozens of increased duties carried in the measure continued to be received by the Senate finance committee. Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, had placed in the Congressional Record the appeal of more than 1,000 American economists for a presidential veto of the bill.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, said he would leave it to the Senate to decide whether the bill would be considered on the floor before being returned to conference for adjustment of the remaining disputes.

He had planned to ask that it be sent direct to conference, but senators interested in silver, lumber and cement desire that the Senate vote first to instruct its conferees on these items. The committee chairman, therefore, will leave it to the membership to decide the procedure.

In any event, separate votes in Senate are assured on the export debenture and flexible tariff provisions, Senate amendments on which were rejected by the House last week along with the proposed duties on silver and lumber and the free listing of cement intended for public works.

Republican leaders are confident that the debenture farm aid plan is definitely eliminated from the legislation and they also believe a compromise on the flexible clause under which the President will continue to exercise authority to change duties will be agreed upon in conference and meet the approval of both branches.

The latest foreign communications protesting against rates came from France, Italy, Switzerland, and the Netherlands. Transmitted by their diplomatic representatives here on behalf of producing interests in their respective countries, the communications complain of increases on wrapper tobacco, watches, olive oil, cheese, canned tomatoes, cherries, lemons, shoes, glue and gelatin.

"Eat More Lettuce"

Health authorities advise a salad a day for physical well-being. Lettuce contains valuable minerals and vitamins needed for health. Keep heads of lettuce in cheese-cloth bags in your refrigerator. Before serving, put the lettuce in ice water so that the leaves may absorb the moisture and become crisp. To dry, before placing on table, pat it with crumpled paper toweling. This absorbs moisture quickly and does not bruise the leaves.

Use only the finest ice that you can buy—ice of the same high quality as your food. Then you can use it without fear for all table purposes. Sparkling American Ice is pure and safe.

THREE STATES FEEL FURY OF TORNADOES

Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebras Visited by Twisters; Two Dead.

PROPERTY DAMAGE HIGH

Kansas City, May 5 (A.P.).—Tornadoes swept into three States late today, causing at least two deaths and injury to several persons. Four tornadoes loosed their fury on western Oklahoma, wrecking city and rural homes, cotton gins and small buildings in their paths.

Mrs. C. T. Bush, 68, was killed when one of three twisters, which struck Blaine County, leveled her farm home, 8 miles northeast of Greenfield. An unidentified Negro man also was killed. A young boy by the name of Clevinger was reported missing after the storm.

Four men were injured, one critically, when a tornado struck Walters, Okla. The injured were Jack Hurley, Bill Smith, Bill Hood and a man named Dycus. Hurley, whose skull was fractured by debris tossed in a storm sewer in which he was woknig, was in a critical condition. Smith sustained a broken shoulder and Hood suffered several broken ribs. They were working in the ditch with Hurley.

City officials estimated the damage at Walters at approximately $150,000. Three cotton gins were razed, a fourth was damaged and a dozen homes were wrecked.

A girl was injured and five farms were damaged near Ellinwood, Kans. The twister swept 30 box cars from a railroad track and carried them 500 yards from the right of way. The wind also tore up the Santa Fe Railroad tracks between Chase, Kans., and Ellinwood. The farm home of Lawrence Tibbets, a mile west of Langdon, Kans., was destroyed by the storm.

In Nebraska, the storm swept through a farming section between Grand Island and Hastings, demolishing several homes.

Divorce Granted Sister Of Charles W. Cadman

Reno, Nev., May 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Maybell Cadman Schooley, sister of Charles Wakefield Cadman, American composer of music and herself a musician of note as well as a scenario writer, was granted a divorce here today from Edward Allen Schooley.

Mr. Schooley objected to her attending musical affairs or to paying any attention to music, Mrs. Schooley charged. She said he constantly criticized and on many occasions used violent and abusive language toward her. They married at Buffalo, N. Y., December 24, 1909.

Millet's Grandson Admits Faking Works of Masters

Paris Artistic World Astounded by Admission That Thousands of Supposedly Authentic Paintings by Immortals Are Only Copies; Fraud Revealed.

Paris, May 5. (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Discovery that three or four thousand supposedly authentic paintings by celebrated artists are only copies executed under orders given by the grandson of the famous painter Millet, author of the world-known "Angelus," has created the greatest sensation of years in artistic circles here.

Jean Charles Millet, initiator and leader of the organization which has been carrying on this wholesale traffic in spurious masterpieces, admits that it has been going on four years and has named as his principal collaborator a painter named Cazeau who has a studio in the Paris suburb of Maisons Laffitte.

Amazing revelations have been made as to the extent of the alleged frauds and the success with which they have been worked. It is affirmed that even in the Millet Museum at Barbizon, where the great painter lived and worked, many pictures attributed to him are mere copies executed by Cazeau. The latter appears to possess real talent. His copies have been sold for prices ranging up to $60,000.

Foreign museums and galleries as well as individual collectors possess some of his fakes, purchased at extravagant prices. Millett was not the only master copied. Fake Sisleys, Corots, Monets, Itrillos, Bonnais and Pissaros have been turned out and marketed by the organization, aided by a number of dealers and intermediaries acting apparently in good faith.

Millet's grandson had kept the artist's own signature stamp, "JFM" by means of which the pictures were made to look authentic, and as the copies were marvellous reproductions of Millet's style and young Millet would produce letters from his grandfather or other documentary testimony, purchaser never had the slightest doubt or suspicion.

The whole traffic was revealed when a wealthy French industrialist, an art collector, discovered by accident that one of the pictures attributed to Millet and sold to him by the master's grandson was a fake.

The custodian of the Millet Museum at Barbizon is dumbfounded by the revelations. He says that only recently he refused an offer of $15,000 from an American for one picture now alleged to be a copy. He also asserts that Millet's signature stamp was destroyed after the artist's death.

highways is that the number of motor victims mount each year," he said. We have not yet discovered a way for mediating them out of existence."

Mr. Fieser said that European chapters of the Red Cross have begun experiments with highway emergency stations. He explained that the service would not be a substitute for medical care, bu twould meet the need until a physician arrives on the scene.

A feature of the opening session was an address on Junior Red Cross work by 16-year-old Constance Payne, of Terre Haute, Ind., who insisted upon appearing on the platform in spite of injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday night. President Hoover comlimented her on her pertinacity.

Trophy Is Presented.

At last night's general session, Douglas Griesemer, of Washington, national roll call director, presented the Red Cross trophy to Judge Benjamin F. Prescott, chairman of the winning Milford, N. M., chapter.

The presentation was submitted on the program for an address to have been delivered by Dr. Rene Sand, technical counsellor of the League of Red Cross Societies of Pars, France. Dr. Sand's ship was delayed, and his address will be delivered tonight.

Juge John Barton Payne, national Red Cross chairman, presided at yesterday's session, and spoke briefly at the trophy presentation last night. Reviewing the organization's history from the time of its inception in Switzerland, he characterized the Red Cross as responding "when and where neede, with never a deaf ear."

Turkey Seeks to Join.

Judge Payne announced that Turkey had signified its desire to be the fifty-ninth nation to join the organization.

Other speakers on the opening program were Ernets P. Bicknell, vice chairman in charge of insular and foreign operations, and James K. McClintock, vice chairman in charge of finance.

The afternoon meeting was given over to group discussions, a round table discussion and a reception at which wives of various Cabinet officers assisted.

Convention officers chosen were: Mrs. Frank Evans, of the Salt Lake City, Utah, chapter, president; Dr. ThomasE. Green, of Washington, secretary.

Text of Hoover Address.

President Hoover's welcoming address was broadcast over both the Columbia and National systems. Its text follows:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to participate in the convocation of the meeting of the officers of the American Red Cross.

"The past fifteen years have seen a great change in the purpose and an expansion in the benevolent activities of this, our great official association for the administration of national charity.

"Originally designed for succor in war, it has now become also the national agency for relief of disaster in peace time, both at home and abroad.

"In the past decade it has distinguished itself a score of times by effective organization of the saving of life and suffering.

Nation's Confidence Expressed.

"Its ever-increasing strength represents the growing of the spiritual sense of responsibility of the Nation toward those who meet with disaster.

"The Nation has grown to complete confidence in the efficiency, ability and single-mindedness of the Red Cross.

"We have come to intrust it with a great responsibility, for the Red Cross is today the expression of the national will, the national sympathy, for all those overtaken by catastrophe of storm, of flood, of famine.

"It's call to charity to meet these emergencies is mandatory upon the heart of the Nation.

"It is a grave responsibility that the Red Cross holds for our country, and there is implied in it a preparedness for ready and instant action. And in discharge of this great responsibility it represents more than just cold-blooded efficiency. The American Red Cross represents the spiritual quality, the charity and sympathy of a nation to the helpless.

Cooperation Is Praised.

"Without question the Red Cross societies of many countries occupy an equally high place in the confidence of their people and governments.

"That these great national agencies should come together in the common purpose of preventing and ameliorating suffering throughout the world is in harmony with the spirit of the age. The Red Cross thus becomes the universal agency for giving practical expression to international good will and to that human sympathy which is the common heritage of all.

"Many years of acquaintance gives me knowledge of the effectiveness and devotion of your chairman, your staff, and the self-sacrificing service of your Nation-wide organization

"In the name of the American people I welcome you to our National Capital and wish you well in your deliberations."

JUDGESHIPS BAIT FOR VOTES IN PARKER FIGHT, CLAIM

dent's name into the matter, Senator Ashurst said all he would charge the President with was "to recommend an unfit and refuse to disclose those who recommended him."

Senator Fess wanted to know if Senator Ashurst meant that the President was concealing something because it was detrimental to Parker.

"Does the senator think that the Dixon letter influenced the President?" Senator Fess asked.

"All I know," Senator Ashurst replied, "is that the letter was written and the appointment was made."

Believes There Are Other Letters.

Furthermore, it just so happened that that letter came to the surface, the Arizonian continued. If that one was found "there are others more incriminatory and more damnable, I have no doubt," he said.

It had become apparent long before now that instead of quieting Senator Ashurst and have him withdraw his earlier charges that Senator Fess had only further riled the Arizonian.

"Call the lobby committee together and put senators on the stand," he shouted.

"Senators have told me that they have been approached and I believe them—and they've told me under such circumstances as would preclude any mistake," he declared.

Senator Ashurst said that he did not mean that any senators had made the offers, or that any senator had been influenced by them. He particularly exempted Senator Watson, the Republican leader. He meant some of the politicians who are working for Parker, he said, and it could easily be found out who they were.

Fess Cites Parker Supporters.

Reverting then to Senator Ashurst's characterization of Parker as a weakling, Senator Fess said it was Ashurst's view as opposed to the president of the American Bar Association, the North Carolina Bar Association and judges and lawyers who know him.

Whereupon Senator Ashurst exploded again and declared that a tremendous pressure had been brought on the American Bar Associatoion ior its indorsement, and that furthermore, the indorsement was so strained that "it does not stand up as it should."

As a matter of fact, he declared, "this nominee is persona non grata with the American Bar Association.

"I will propound this question to the senator," he continued, "if the American Bar Association has been asked to recommend a man does the senator think it would have ever named this man?"

They Would Have, Says Fess.

"Under the circumstances I think they would have," Senator Fess replied, "that is, taking into consideration that the Fourth Judicial Circuit had not had a man on the bench in 60 years."

"In an excursion into its most remote imagination," Senator Ashurst insisted, "it would never have thought of naming this man."

Senator Ashhurst said he fully realized the seriousness of his charges about judgships being offered for votes, and that when he first heard of the incident Friday he was shocked but could not make up his mind as to whether he should say anything. He sought further evidence and counseled with one of the leaders of the Senate about it, he declared.

Senator Stephens lauded Parker's ability and cited statements of the Southern bar in support of his argument. Senator Waterman, of Colorado, also defended the appointment.

Senator Caraway, chairman of the lobby committee, said later that he had no plan for having his committee go into Senator Ashurst's charges. He had joined in the Stephens-Ashurst tilt to say that two former governors of North Carolina "have haunted the corridors and the offices of senators until it has become almost intolerable." He asked Senator Stephens if he thought their activities had been proper. Senator Caraway called them "candidates for office."

Tells of Talk With Judge Webb.

Senator Stephens said the only man with whom he had had a serious discussion about Parker was Judge Yates Webb, of North Carolina, former chairman of the House judiciary committee.

Judge Webb had said to him, Stephens said: "Stephens, there is not a better lawyer in the State of North Carolina, there is not a finer character in the State of North Carolina, there is not a man better fitted for this high position."

Attorney General Mitchell in his letter to Senator Stephens said that the Dixon letter "seems to have been sent over from the executive offices and placed in the files of this department as a matter of routine."

Indorsed By Both Parties.

When he was asked for suggestions for Justice Sanford's successor, he said, "I undertook an inquiry into the qualifications of a number of judges and lawyers, particularly from the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Ninth Circuits which are not represented on the Supreme Court. An impressive showing was made as to the qualifications of Judge Parker."

The fact that indorsements came from Democrats and Republicans alike, Mitchell said, is "evidence that no narrow politics entered into the matter."

Not only is the outcome in doubt but it is now problematical when a vote will come. It is doubtful if it will come today. The administration forces are understood to have refused any more pairs to absent opposition senators whereupon the opposition intends to keep up the debate until these senators get back.

Text of Mitchell Letter On Parker's Appointment

Following is the text of the letter written by Attorney General William S. Mitchell to Senator H. D. Stephens in reference to the appointment of Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme Court bench:

In view of the discussion as to the extent political consideration entered into the nomination of Judge Parker, it is desirable that the facts should be stated. This discussion seems to have been aroused by publication of a letter from former Gov. Dixon to one of the President's secretaries, advancing political reasons for the nomination. As to this letter, I can assure you that, prior to its recent publication, the President never saw it and knew nothing of it. It seems to have been sent over from the executive offices and placed in the files of this department as a matter of routine. Because one out of many hundreds of letters of indorsement gave political reasons for the appointment, the assumption is hardly justified that such reasons brought about the nomination.

Upon the death of Justice Sanford, in response to the President's request for suggestions as to a successor, I undertook an inquiry into the qualifications of a number of judges and lawyers, particularly from the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Ninth Circuits, which are not represented on the Supreme Court. An impressive showing was made as to the qualifications of Judge Parker. He has been indorsed by two United States circuit judges, ten United States district judges, a large number of State judges, the president and five former presidents of the American Bar Association, 22 presidents of State and county bar associations, a number of United States senators, including senators from his home State, and the governor and former governors of that State, and by hundreds of members of the bar and prominent citizens, not only from the Fourth Circuit, but from the country at large. These indorsements come alike from members of both political parties and are evidence that no narrow politics entered into the matter.

I made a painstaking inquiry into Judge Parker's judicial work and examined all of the opinions he has written as a circuit judge, numbering over 125. No fair-minded lawyer could read these opinions without being satisfied that Judge Parker has legal ability of the highest order, qualifying him to sit on the highest court. They show him to be a lawyer of sound judgment, fair-minded and sincere to a high degree, without any egotism or affectation, with a wide and accurate knowledge of legal principles, and a prodigious worker. They disclose all the qualities which, added to his vigorous youth, should enable him to serve with distinction on the highest court of the land. A study of Judge Parker's decisions reveals him as one of the outstanding circuit judges of the country. His personal character was shown to be above reproach, and his integrity unquestioned.

This information was laid before the President with the recommendation that Judge Parker be nominated. Justice Sanford was from the South and a Republican. While locality is not controlling, it is never ignored, and the Fourth Circuit had not been represented upon the court for 60 years. It seemed that the appointment of Judge Parker to succeed Justice Sanford would be in accordance with tradition and should be well received throughout the country.

With respect to the political faith of a successor to Justice Sanford, the tradition which requires that the Supreme Court be kept nonpartisan was fully satisfied by the presence of three Democrats upon the bench, and under these circumstances it was considered entirely appropriate and in accordance with tradition and historical practice for the President to nominate a member of his own party who possessed the necessary qualifications. Beyond this, no State or national politics entered into the matter.

time no one has ever told me what to say in advance of a sermon."

The audience was told that the lobbying charges and other criticisms made against the council are doing considerable harm, but that members should be ever alert to dispute the veracity of statements made by the critics of the council.

The bishop spoke briefly on the purposes of the Federal Council of Churches, saying that it in no way sought a forced union of denominations, but was interested in furtherance of a cooperative spirit among the Protestant faiths. He said that there must be an internal pressure for union before churches could be brought closely together, and that the council now "just holds our rules loosely."

Bishop William F. McDowell, chairman of the Washington committee of the council, presided at the Mayflower luncheon. District Commissioners Reichelderfer and Crosby were honor guests. The luncheon was described as a testimonial given the president of the council at the time of his visit to Washington every four years.

torn up for repairs. They returned to the building, barricaded it, climbed to the roof and showered stones on the law's forces. Thereupon the police and troops opened fire, shooting principally into the air to frighten the demonstrators.

Eventually the cobblestone ammunition gave out and the rebellious undergraduates came down from the roof and left the grounds for their homes, the police not interfering. By midafternoon the trouble was over, but a strong guard was kept over other student centers the rest of the day and night.

After the collegians had left, authorities found signs, urging a republic and attacking the monarchy, pasted on the walls.

Gen. Berengue: said stern measures would be the rule henceforth. "We have to stop this," he declared, "we have no other remedy, we are taking the necessary measures."

The Berenguer regime feels it has a grievance, for while students opposed Primo de Rivera bitterly in his regime there was no bloodshed under that dictatorship, whereas now, with a certain amount of freedom of speech and assembly, there is more trouble than the Primo government ever knew.

Five Men Are Drowned In Maine River Flood

New York, May 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Incomplete returns today from nine widely scattered cities in the Literary Digest's Nation-wide poll on prohibition—first reports on five cities and second on four—show a definitely wet sentiment in all the cities. York, Pa., and Morgantown, W. Va., gave a plurality of votes for enforcement, but the combined repeal and modification votes exceeded the enforcement votes in both cities.

Concrete to Roof Ohio Cell Blocks

66 Mutineers Are in Solitary Confinement on Diet of Bread and Water.

Columbus, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Immediate construction of a steel reinforced concrete slab roof over the G and H cell blocks at Ohio Penitentiary, where 320 convicts lost their lives in the fire of April 21, was directed today by Hal H. Griswold, State director of public welfare. Griswold announced that work had started on the proposal to complete the new I and K blocks, and indicated the reinforced roof would be extended to cover these two blocks as soon as cells are completed.

Convicts who led the prison mutiny after the fire are still housed in tents with a barbed wire inclosure. National Guardsmen, under Col. Robert S. Haubrich, had placed 66, who refused to work, in solitary confinement on a bread-and-water diet.

Rufus Deeds, Lawrence County, serving 10 to 25 years for robbery, was in serious condition in prison hospital from lacerations about the head, suffered yesterday when he was attacked by fellow convicts while lying on his cot in the barbed wire inclosure. Physicians said the wounds required 63 stitches to close them.

Watch and Bracelet Reported Lost.

Mrs. Alixa Sternberg, of 2145 C street northwest, reported to police yesterday that she lost a wrist watch valued at $100, and a plain gold bracelet which she valued at $25 when she was on an uptown street April 30.

Russian Flotation Is Held Worthless

Court, in Tax Appeal Case, Decides in Favor of Detroit Bank.

Right of the Commonwealth Commercial State Bank of Detroit to write-off $51,000 worth of bonds of the Imperial Russian Government, which it purchased in 1916 and 1917 and which were repudiated by the Soviet government was upheld yesterday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The bank appealed from a decision of the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

Justice Charles H. Robb in setting aside the tax held that the Treasury Department's regulation on worthless securities provides that bonds purchased since February 28, 1913, when ascertained to be worthless, may be treated as bad debts.

Four other appeals from decisions of the Board of Tax Appeals, however, were denied, including Robert W. Chambers' petition for a redetermination of deficiencies for the years 1922, 1923 and 1924.

FREDERICK COUNTY MOUNTAINS ABLAZE

City Firemen and Civilians Go to Aid of Fire Fighters; Flames Spreading.

RICHEY CAMP MENACED

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., May 5.—The worst forest fire in the history of Frederick County was sweeping over the Catoctin and South Mountain tonight. Approximately 5,000 acres of small timber land was burned over, causing damage that can not yet be estimated with any degree of accuracy. Patrolmen are guarding the burned area to prevent a fresh outbreak, which is likely to occur in the event the wind rises while scores of others are fighting the main fire.

Discovered by towermen yesterday morning, three major fires, two in the Catoctin Mountain and one in the South Mountain, defied hundreds of firefighters. Scores of persons living on the mountain and as many as could be obtained in this city were rushed to the fire fronts where they worked under the direction of fire wardens until exhausted. Lunch was served to the men in squads of 25. The fire fighters were reinforced by crews from industrial plants and firemen of Frederick.

Richey Camp Threatened.

A crew of 25 men at the fishing camp near Catoctin Furnace of Lawrence Richey, executive secretary of President Hoover, made ready today to join the main force of fire fighters. They had been guarding the Richey property and the fire this afternoon was within one mile of the fishing camp, headed in that direction.

The big fire started about 2 miles beyond Hamburg, on the Catoctin Mountain, yesterday morning. It was discovered by Towerman Albert Harley, who sent word to the nearest wardens of the extent of the blaze. More firefighters were recruited and rushed to this area. The fire swept past Hamburg to the south and soon surrounded the tower. Harley, with one way left open for escape, made his way down the mountain to the city reservoir. At this point word was telephoned to Frederick for help.

Fanned by a stiff breeze, the fire spread very rapidly and within three hours had attacked the city watershed protecting the water supply of Frederick. About 150 men fought the flames by backfiring.

Time and again the flames leaped over the burned portion and took a fresh start. The fire got a firm hold on the watershed property late yesterday afternoon and burned toward the Fishing Creek and Tuscarora receivers. Two more crews, assembled in the city, were sent to the fire territory. In the meantime the Black Rock and Middlepoint fires were checked, and men working in this area were transferred to the Hamburg territory. Tonight the fire is a short distance north of the Fishing Creek receiver, within sight of the new 60,000,000-gallon reservoir. The line of the fire was about 1½ miles. One end was within a mile of the Tuscarora receiver.

Ablaze Near Cumberland.

Cumberland, Md., May 5.—A force of 125 men is engaged in fighting a forest fire on Tussey Mountain just over the Pennsylvania line, which has swept over a large area and destroyed much valuable timber. Much trouble has been experienced in saving houses and barns. Fire also has been burning on Martin's Mountain and Green Ridge, east of Cumberland.

According to forest wardens, this has been the worst spring in years for forest fires which have broken out almost simultaneously at many points. The observer from Dans Mountain Tower, near Midland, about 2,000 feet above sea level, yesterday reported to the Pennsylvania authorities fires in that State and two fires visible from the tower in West Virginia. He also reported fires near Westernport, Carlos on Bayon Backside Mountain, and the west side of the Savage Mountain, which have since been gotten under control.

Fires in the vicinity of Deer Park and Stricker yesterday have been extinguished.

was menacing the town of Mount Washington, Mass.

There was little encouragement to the fire fighters in the weather forecasts. Although thunderstorms were predicted in some sections there was no promise of rain in quantities large enough to be of much aid in putting out the fires anywhere along the seaboard.

Nashua, N. H., May 5. (A.P.)—Temporary shelter tonight was provided by charitable organizations for 1,500 homeless residents of this textile city who lost their all in a $4,000,000 fire Sunday.

The Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. aided the relatives and friends in caring for the unfortunate and every municipal department pressed their resources to provide relief. Latest estimates of the havoc wrought numbered the homes destroyed at 260. Six hundred of the 1,500 homeless are also jobless through the burning of shops and factories.

Streets in the Crownhill section, where the fire, urged by a 40-mile wind, cut a three-mile swath, today offered a colorless aspect of charred brick and twisted metal. Scarcely anything was standing save a charred chimney now and again, marking what had once been a home.

Churches, Factories Burn.

Two churches, a school, a convent and four large industrial plants were included in the structures that fell prey to the flames.

Mayor William F. Sullivan named a committee of more than 200 citizens to handle the relief work. He said that $2,000,000 of the damage was suffered by working men and women and that only about one-half of that amount was covered by insurance. He urged those desirious of helping to send their checks to the Nashua relief committee, Harry A. Gregg, treasurer.

Gov. Tobey placed the total property loss at $4,000,000 and emphasized that the victims of the disaster were largely working people who lived in their own homes or rented them from others.

Many Pleas for Clothing.

Tonight there appeared little danger of a food shortage but the authorities had had many requests from those who were in need of clothing. The board of aldermen planned to make an emergency appropriation of at least $50,000.

The stricken area was placed under quarantine tonight as a precautionary measure and National Guardsmen, armed with rifles, stood guard on every street in the district.

The United States Government established an unemployment bureau in the city hall, where every effort will be made to provide employment for those who have lost it.

The city has a population of 31,000.

St. Bonaventure Is Destroyed.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 5 (A.P.).—Fire, believed to have started from a short circuit in the wiring in the top floor of the monastery at St. Bonaventure College, west of Olean, today destroyed the monastery, the seminary and St. Bonaventure Church, with a loss estimated at $400,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The three buildings which were destroyed composed the central group of the campus. The structures were of brick, about 80 years old.

St. Bonaventure's has a registration of about 1,100 students.

232 Gold Star Mothers Ready to Sail Tomorrow

Broadway Stars Will Honor New York's Distinguished Guests Tonight at Reception on Eve of Trip to Visit Sons' Graves.

(Associated Press.)

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—From West and North and South today there came to New York the vanguard of a new pilgrimage "Over There."

Through this port thirteen years ago this summer began that immortal procession of America's young manhood, headed for the theater of war. And now come the mothers—6,000 mothers whose boys never came back—provided by a grateful nation with the means to visit the battlefield and cemeteries.

The first contingent, 232 Gold Star mothers, mostly from the West and South, will sail Wednesday on the liner America. Each week through the summer another unit will go until all 6,000 have made the trip.

Nearly 200 of those first 232 arrived in New York today. Tired after their journey—same had come from Oklahoma and Nebraska and Arkansas—and shy and bewildered by all the noise and hurry of the city, they were met by Army officers and escorted to hotels.

They are old, most of these mothers. The average age is 67. And some of them are past 70. And this trip—the first long journey many of them have ever taken—is no small undertaking.

In little groups of twos and threes, after they had registered and their brand-new baggage had been taken up to their rooms by bellboys, who gently refused all tips from those who wear the Gold Star badges, they gathered in the lobbies of the hotels to talk.

There was little Mrs. Sophia Johnson, of Brady, Nebr., who carried as tenderly as though it were a little baby, a long box in her arms. It contains flowers—flowers that were given her by her friends and neighbors to place on her boy's grave.

Mrs. William Sidell, of Newberry, Fla., carried in her bag a single pressed rose.

Mrs. Sidell's son, Lieut. James J. Sykes, was a companion of Quentin Roosevelt in the First Aero Squadron. He was killed August 1, 1918, after he had volunteered to go up for an observation to replace another casualty.

Mrs. Sidell also carried in her purse a letter from Miss Emma J. Lee, who is employed in the internal revenue office at Raleigh.

"Miss Lee and my boy were sweethearts," Mrs. Sidell said. "She has not married. And before I left she sent me this letter, asking me not to open it until I was aboard the ship."

While they are in New York, city officials have planned for this first contingent of the mothers an official reception of the sort that is given distinguished visitors. It will take place at the city hall tomorrow afternoon. Several Broadway stars have offered to contribute their services at a reception to be given in honor of the mothers tomorrow night.

Accompanied down the bay on the city tug Macom by a large delegation of New York Gold Star Mothers, they will sail Wednesday morning.

And overhead, as the America steams down the harbor, 42 airplanes will fly in formation, bombarding the ship with poppies.

RYAN'S HEIRS SEEK TO OUST GUARDIAN

ACTION IS DRAW TO DATE

grandmother, Mrs. Ellen M. Morse, of Valley View Farm, on Ridge road, Washington, and Herbert H. Vreeland, for twenty years the business representative of T. F. Ryan and a substantial beneficiary of the estate.

Today these children, the boy now 16 and the girl nearly 18, were represented by counsel who requested that Surrogate Foley withdraw the guardianship of their grandmother and make Mr. Vreeland their sole guardian. The matter of money, which has arisen so persistently in the relations of the various Ryans, was not mentioned in their affidavits.

They rather set forth that their grandmother, who is 74 years old and lives upon a farm near Washington, is too old-fashioned for their tastes, that she is not abreast of the ways of 1930.

Asking for a guardian "of more suitable age and a greater knowledge of the world," the Ryan children assert also that Mrs. Morse will not allow them to associate with the people they wish to know and that she is influenced in her treatment of them by her son, son-in-law and others, though these individuals were not named.

Guardian Files Unsworn Statement.

Unable to be present at the hearing, which was therefore adjourned by the surrogate, Mrs. Morse entered a vehement denial in the form of an unsworn and hence unofficial statement and letter to the court. Such a withdrawal of her guardianship, she averred, would be "most unseemly and contrary to the laws of common decency as well as to her grandchildren's best interests." The children have lived with her most of their lives, the statement said, and she is still the only one to provide proper chaperonage for Miss Ryan and guidance in her social life.

A breach between Mrs. Morse and her grandchildren is intimated in the grandmother's charge that since a year ago, when the extent of the children's ultimate fortune became certain, they have been influenced and their affections alienated by their paternal cousins and uncles.

Not a single member of their father's family had ever taken any interest in their welfare or upbringing, Mrs. Morse continued, until the Thomas Fortune Ryan trust fund was set up for them a year ago. Excepting for their grandfather, Thomas Fortune Ryan, she continued, the children were completely ignored by their father's kin up to a year ago.

Willing to Change Home.

Mrs. Morse further said that she would be willing to make a personal sacrifice and live with the children in New York (where they now reside at 1060 Fifth avenue), and she cited that she had also suggested that Clendennin Ryan, uncle of the two children, be made a third coguardian, so long as she retained nominal charge of the children.

This latter offer, which she said she made last January, Mrs. Morse said was ignored, though the children today declared their willingness to have Clendennin Ryan named as a coguardian in place of their grandmother.

Herbert H. Vreeland, the other coguardian, declined to comment on the children's petition. Royal Leale, of counsel for the children, denied Mrs. Morse's allegation that the children's allowance had been cut off since last June, making it necessary for her to support them from her own funds, explaining that in June last year the children's income began from the trust fund set up and that they had received ample funds in lieu of the allowance temporarily paid pending the trust settlement.

Elinor Ryan attended school at the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Washington, and Joseph, better known as "Jimmy," was for a time a student at the Georgetown Preparatory School.

RUM CHASER SINKING VEILED IN MYSTERY

ANOTHER STILL MISSING

Toledo, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Endeavoring to bring out the cause of the sinking of the Coast Guard speedboat CG-8010, which for many months had been a terror to rumrunners, Government investigators today were told that Gardner D. Young, chief boatswain, had died from exposure and exhaustion incident to shipwreck.

There was no indication of violence which might have attended a battle with the rumrunners, Coroner C. J. Yeisley, of Ottawa County, declared after a postmortem over Young's body.

The body of Young, along with that of William Pratt, chief machinist's mate, was picked up yesterday in Maumee Bay, where the boat is believed to have sunk. The third member of the crew, John C. Hay, first class motor machinist, was sought by Coast Guardsmen in the waters of Lake Erie today.

In order that guardsmen will be at liberty to continue the search, Lt. M. W. Rasmussen of Buffalo, Coast Guard Commander, delayed official inquiry into the tragedy from this afternoon until tomorrow.

The three members of the CG-8010 crew had left the rum chaser CG-173, which is stationed at Port Clinton, at Detroit harbor light last Thursday afternoon. They left in the smaller craft ostensibly in search of rum runners who might be in hiding close to the shore.

At 11 a. m. Saturday, search was started when apprehension for the safety of the men was felt.

Eighteen boats took up the search Saturday and one of them found the body of Young Sunday afternoon. About the same time a group of Toledo yachtsmen picked up the body of Pratt.

In his petition, Mr. Shelley announces himself a supporter of President Hoover and Republican principles.

CITY WILL PAY COST OF CHANGING TRACKS

LAW DECLARED LACKING

The District Court of Appeals yesterday ruled against the District of Columbia in its efforts to compel the Tennallytown Railway Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to pay $59,756.55 for relocation of the companies' tracks on Wisconsin avenue northwest between Massachusetts avenue and River road.

Action of the appellate court in dismissing the appeals affirms a decision of Justice Wendell P. Stafford, of District Supreme Court, in which he held that there is no provision of law which requires the traction companies to pay for the relocation of their tracks because the municipality wants to improve a thoroughfare.

Under an act of Congress $350,000 was appropriated for paving Wisconsin avenue. The act provided that a refund was to be obtained from the street railway companies "as far as provided by existing law." At the beginning of the work the companies were notified by the District that it was estimated $55,000 would be required to move the tracks and that unless they did the work the municipality would have it done and would seek to recover from them.

The railway companies admitted they were liable for costs of paving between their tracks and for paving for two feet on each side of the rails, but insisted that no law required them to pay for the relocation of tracks. After paying $160,408.72 for the paving the companies told the District to sue for the balance.

"DEADWOOD DICK," 83, DIES OF PNEUMONIA

years had been pointed out to tourists as the last landmark of the old West. Early last year he made an airplane trip to Washington, where he was received by President Coolidge. It was the last long trip he made from the Black Hills.

Death, after an illness of several months, was due to a lung infection and old age.

He was born in Hansborough, England, December 15, 1845, and came to the United States when 16 years of age. Joining a party of prospectors in Illinois, when a young man, Dick made the long overland journey to the Black Hills at the time when the excitement of gold discovery was at its height.

During the years that followed he was a pony express rider, Indian fighter, guide and assistant to United States marshals.

As Richard Clarke, he was connected with the stage coach line that terminated at Deadwood, where his headquarters were for many years. Because of this he became known as "Deadwood Dick."

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULMAN

A driver's permit must be carried on one's person at all times when operating an automobile in the District. It is required as evidence that the driver has been granted the privilege of operating a motor car.

To be stopped by a policeman and have no permit to show him, makes a motorist liable to arrest and fine. According to the Traffic Act, the penalty ranges from $2 to $40.

Example: A driver starts across an intersection against the signal of the policeman directing traffic. He is told to pull to the curb and is unable to produce his permit. The policeman will charge the driver not only with disobeying his signal but with driving without a permit, though he may have one at home.

Murder Plot Seen In Acid on Balloon

Adopted Son and Another Accused of Trying to Kill Performer.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 5 (A.P.).—Charges of attempting to murder C. C. Bonnette, 57, balloonist, by soaking his balloon and parachute with strong acid, were filed late today against Louis La Point, 21, Bonnette's adopted son, and E. E. Fairbairn, 50.

Fairbairn and La Point are being sought by county officers. The alleged plot to kill the aged stunter was narrowly averted when a rainstorm Saturday afternoon made Bonnette's scheduled ascension at a local amusement park impossible.

Bonnette said Fairbairn joined him and his adopted son at Corpus Christi, Tex., a month ago. The damaged condition of the balloon was discovered after the decision was made to omit the ascension.

Boston's Police Head Is Removed

Commissioner Found Lax in Administration of His Office.

Boston, May 5 (A.P.).—The executive council today removed Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, of this city, on the basis of findings by Attorney General Warner in the so-called Garrett investigation. The council thus sustained Gov. Allen, who demanded Wilson's resignation.

No successor for Commissioner Wilson was named.

The attorney general, after his investigation into the affairs of Oliver B. Garrett, former chief of the headquarters liquor squad, found Commissioner Wilson had been inefficient and lax in the administration of his department and negligent in the investigation of complaints made against police officers.

final progressed 40 minutes when a crowd of excited spectators rushed the field forcing the umpires to call off the match.

The tense atmosphere which everywhere pervaded important centers tonight found a measure of vent at Bombay when 100,000 Gandhi supporters assembled in a mass meeting this evening to hear Tyabji, Mme. Sarioji Naidu and others exhort the loyal to continuance of the struggle for independence. At early evening no reports of disturbances in this connection had been received.

Bombay in Mourning.

While Bombay, in common with some other cities, was observing a hartal in sorrow over the arrest of the "holy one," which was expected to continue through tomorrow, all shops belonging to Hindus and many owned by Moslems remained closed.

At Jalalpur followers of Gandhi today were given copies of his message to "Mother India" dictated at Dandi when rumors of his pending arrest were circulated. In the communication Gandhi says if an auspicious beginning such as the civil disobedience campaign has been given, is carried to its full conclusion, "complete swaraj" (independence) is a certainty and "India will have set to the whole world an example worthy of her."

Government Comment on Riot.

Simla, India, May 5. (A.P.)—The first complete and official report of serious native revolutionary agitation in the northwest frontier province of India was issued today in a communique by the government of India.

The communique also gave "the facts as reported to the government" about the riots in Peshawar on April 23. It declares that National Congress workers and the Naujawan Bharat Sabha, native organization, "have been fomenting open rebellion against the government."

Both these organizations have been declared "unlawful associations under the provisions of the criminal law" by the local authorities in the northwest provinces. They are accused in the communique of "propagating Communist doctrines and displaying Communist standards and symbols."

In connection with this purported Communist menace, appearing openly along the Afghanistan frontier, the communique accuses members of the two organizations of having carried on active revoluntionary propaganda in cities and villages of the Peshawar district and of attempting to influence "some transborder tribes against the British government."

After describing the behaviour of the Indian crowd while the arrests were being made on April 23 the communique continues:

"A deputy commissioner, in the desire to avoid the necessity of firing, risked his life in endeavoring to persuade the hostile and excited mob to disperse. The first shot was fired from the revolver of a member of an armored car crew purely in self-defense, when subject to a murderous attack.

"The orders for the firing by the armored car was given only after British soldiers had been killed and another armored car set on fire and the crew was being attacked.

"The death roll among the missing is believed to be about 20 and in addition 30 wounded received medical treatment, probably the number of wounded is 60. There is no truth in the malicious rumor that a large number of rioters was deliberately shot down in cold blood."

Court Denies Bail To Foster and Aids

Communists Claim Their Detention Is Violation of Statute.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Freedom under bail pending appeal from undetermined jail sentences was denied William Z. Foster, Communist leader, and four of his lieutenants in a decision handed down today by Supreme Court Justice Gavegan. The Communists were sentenced for unlawful assembly growing out of the "red Thursday" riot March 6.

In their motion for bail on appeal, the five men declared they had been imprisoned illegally since the State constitution grants the right of march to the seat of government to present a petition of grievance.

The court's decision made no mention of this plea. The court held that the severity of sentence was not for its constitution.

have done more to relieve human suffering than any other application of science.

"It is short-sighted to put the life of a guinea pig against the life of a baby, and in our experimentations every precaution is taken to guard the animal against unnecessary pain."

Dr. Welch said that a dog is never used in an experiment when some other animal will serve the purpose.

Dr. Kober told the committee that the experiments, whether in private or government laboratories, are made under the most humane conditions. The animals, he said, except in rare cases, always are put under the influence of anesthetics.

"For many years," he said, "there has been a costly propaganda to stem the tide of medical progress. It goes back to the time when the powers of the Public Health Service were enlarged. I make no direct charges, but I think that this propaganda is probably traceable to the opposition to medical progress that was inspired by the purveyors of patent and proprietary medicines."

Dr. C. S. Butler, of the Navy Medical School, appeared to deny that cruelty had been practiced on animals in that school.

Creager's $1,000,000 Libel Suit Under Way

Brownsville, Tex., May 5 (A.P.).—The $1,000,000 libel suit brought by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman from Texas, against the Crowell Publishing Co. and P. F. Colliers & Sons, distributing company for Collier's Magazine, got under way in Federal court here today. The defendants announced they would present special and general demurrers.

Creager's suit arose from publication by Colliers of two articles, one entitled "Jobs for Jack," by William G. Shepperd, dealing with alleged conditions of Republican patronage in Texas, and another, "High-Handed and Hell Bent," by Owen P. White, containing alleged references to Hidalgo County politics.

DEAREST Genevieve: Gay colored raiment of summer time is beginning to be the order of the day. Wherever we went over the week-end there were men in white flannels and linens, and girls in sleeveless frocks and white shoes. The preferred show for wear with summer dresses is once more the flat pump with appliqued toe and heel of brown leather. It was the sensation of last summer, and is favored again this year. Other shoes in vogue for regular wear are medium heeled oxford ties of linens and silks.

Look in the window at Underwood & Underwood's this week, and see the display of pictures made with this marvelous camera. The pictures are all of the same subject, a wonderful child, photographed in ten different poses, finished in various sizes and in the popular book form. This book of pictures enjoys the most tremendous vogue with fond parents. They like the book to keep for themselves, or to give to grandparents. It is handsomely done and makes a memento of childhood unequalled.

You will be interested, when you see the window of pictures, to know how charming the same picture can be in a variety of sizes, and also how many exquisite poses of the same child can be made with this remarkable camera. The result is a most lifelike photograph.

—at The Hob Nob, 1010 F street, where in the tea room, on the second floor, you have the privilege of enjoying the fountain service from 11:30 to 8 in the evening. The Hob Nob is just across from Woodward & Lothrop's, certainly a convenient location, if you are shopping in that neighborhood.

The Hob Nob Tea Room is as different and unusual as it can be, and is like a cool, alluring cavern at this time. The most delicious iced drinks are served, and you will certainly go back again and again once you have tried them.

Luncheon, tea and dinner are served in the tea room during its open hours, and in The Hob Nob Cafeteria, on the first floor, service continues from 11:30 to 2:30 and from 4 to 7:30.

SCHOOLS IN FAIRFAX TO BE CONSOLIDATED

JURY LISTS COMPLETED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2

The Fairfax County School Board, at its regular monthly meting yesterday, voted to consolidate the Floris Vocational High School with the Herndon High School, and the present high school departments at the Forestville School with some school to be selected later. The board voted, 7 to 2, in favor of this consolidation, Trustees Joseph Murphy, of Dranesville district, and F. W. Robinson, of Herndon, voting against it. The question of consolidating the Floris School has been a troublesome one to the board for the past two years. Hardly a meeting was held without this question being discussed, and many delegations have appeared before the board regarding it. The Floris School is the only one in the county offering an agricultural course. The high school at Floris will be discontinued and a new laboratory will be built at the Herndon School. Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson was authorized to have the plans drawn.

The board also considered consolidating the elementary school at Oakton with the school at Vienna and converting the Oakton building into a high school. Both high school and elementary grades are conducted in the Oakton Schoolhouse at the present time. The board would transport the elementary pupils to the Vienna building, which is large enough to accommodate them without any changes being made. Then there would be a teacher for each grade. This plan would mean closing the one-year high school at Fairfax and transporting several of the high school pupils from Centerville, Burke and Fairfax Station that are now being transported to the Clifton High School.

The board will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening, May 14, in the Fairfax Courthouse to consider this project and the consolidation of several of the elementary schools.

A committee was appointed to consider plans for new buildings to be erected in Fairfax, Herndon and Dranesville district. The committee will consist of the divisional school superintendent and the trustee in that district or town.

The board was of the opinion that the tuition to be charged other towns and counties for pupils next year would be the per capita cost of education of the children in the schools of the county this year. This will affect the pupils from Loudoun County especially.

A delegation from Clifton appeared before the board, urging them to erect an auditorium and build a basement for the present school, if they contemplated spending any money on the school at this time. Miss Dorothy Otley, principal of the school, appeared before the board.

The board authorized the payment of bills amounting to $8,044.42.

Robert Guthrie, of the 1200 block of Tenth street northwest, Washington, was arrested on the River road near Belle Haven by Traffic Policeman Finks for driving while drunk. Justice of Peace A. C. Ritchie, at Fairfax, ordered him held for the action of the grand jury. Everett Beach, of Woodbridge, and Earnest English, of Lorton, were arrested by Policeman Finks at Cameron Run for being drunk. They were fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace John B. Dowden at Baileys Cross Roads.

According to the record in the headquarters of the county traffic police, the automobile of Carl Hoyt, of Bliss Electrical School, Takoma Park, D. C., sideswiped the car of John G. Andes, of Remmington, Va., who reported the accident. The report shows that a warrant for Hoyt's arrest will be issued. Marion Crew, of Chestertown, Md., was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace George K. Pickett at Groveton for reckless driving. The arrest was made by Policeman Finks.

Crockett C. Carr, of Fairfax, was reelected president of the District H Education Association which met recently at Lincoln, Va. More than 250 delegates from Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun, Fauquier, Prince William, Rappahannock and Culpeper Counties and Alexandria City attended the conference. They voted to change the name of the association from District H to the Northern Virginia District Cooperative Education Association, which includes all school and community leagues in this territory. Culpeper County has been withdrawn from this district and placed in another. Other officers elected were Mrs. W. L. Lloyd, of Prince William County, vice president, and Miss Harriet Wharton, rural supervisor of schools in Loudoun County, secretary and treasurer.

The clerk of the Fairfax County Circuit Court has certified to the names of 24 persons to Sheriff E. P. Kirby, from which he is to summon 20 for duty on the criminal jury at the May term of court, opening May 19. They are N. P. Young, of Fairfax B. H. Bready, of Herndon; J. M. Mason, Merrifield; B. F. Elliott, Falls Church; H. W. Hutchison, Chantilly. Irving Cummings, Dranesville; Irvin Payne, Baileys Cross Roads; Franklin Boushee, Vienna; P. N. Mohler, Centerville; Floyd Kidwell, Navy; G. L. Hummer, Baileys Cross Roads; Edward H. Henry, Falls Church; J. J. Bennett, Annandale; William C. Walker, River Bend; J. E. Bruner, Falls Church; D. J. Smithers, Fairfax; Harry B. Mitchell, Herndon; H. B. Gray, Oakton; W. C. Tubaugh, Merrifield; Norman Corbin, Ardrich Corner; B. H. Dyer, Vienna; J. H. Shotwell, Georgetown pike; A. B. Statts, Vienna, and T. E. Anderson, Legato.

The following persons will be summoned to serve on the civil jury: C. E. Neitzer, Mount Vernon; G. H. Bayliss, Lorton; Hugh W. Gimmell, Vienna; R. E. Rector, Pleasant Valley; David O'Roark, Fairfax; Paul Alider, Pender; D. J. O'Neil, Mount Vernon; George F. Byrne, Pender, and Earl W. Saun.

County Clerk F. W. Richardson was notified yesterday that the census enumerators have completed their count in three of the magisterial districts in Fairfax County.

The census in Mount Vernon district, including Fort Humphreys and Fort Hunt, which have a population of 1,340 persons, shows that on April 1, 1930, the district had a population of 4,925 persons as compared to 3,826 on January 1, 1920. One hundred and seventy-five farms are located in that district.

Falls Church district, including part of the town of Falls Church and the Grundy School, now has a population of 4,768, as compared to 3,731 in the 1920 census. Ninety-four farms are located in that district.

Providence District, including the towns of Fairfax, Vienna and part of Falls Church, according to this census, has 7,075 persons, compared with 6,010 in 1920. Three hundred and ninety-five farms were listed.

The three other districts, Dranesville, Lee and Centerville, have not been completed, but it is expected that these returns will be announced within a short time. So far Fairfax County has shown an increase in population of 3,201 persons during the past ten years.

Continuing his campaign against alleged liquor dealers and manufacturers in Fairfax County, State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams led the Fairfax County police in a raid on the home of Guy Staats, at Vienna, where a small amount of alleged liquor was found. Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman, at Fairfax, held him for the action of the grand jury.

The officers also raided the home of Karl Lesny, known as the Fairhill Inn, on the Lee highway, where 16 pints of alleged liquor was seized. Lesny was taken before Justice Chapman and was held for the action of the grand jury.

Horace G. Dye, of the 1200 block of North Capitol street northwest, Washington, was arrested on the Washington-Richmond highway near Hunting Creek by County Traffic Policeman Louis L. Finks for driving while drunk and transportation and possession of ardent spirits. He was held for the action of the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Harry Shephard at Accotink.

A play will be presented this evening by the pupils of the Herndon High School, entitled "Be an Alchemist." The cast includes: Martha Clarke, Kathleen Smith, Edith Retzer, Elanie Tate, Elizabeth Harrison, Aileen Orrison, Anna Day, Robert Bready, Richard Mahoney, Charles Hutchison, Henry Kirkpatrick and Culver Gates.

The Piedmont Convocation of the Episcopal churches which includes 22 rectors of the churches in Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun, Prince William, Fauquier, Culpeper Counties and Alexandria City will hold its annual spring meeting today and tomorrow at St. Mary's Church near Rixey Station. The meeting will be opened this morning by the Rev. J. G. Sadtler, rector of the St. John's and St. Mary's churches.

A large class of candidates will be initiated tonight at the meeting of the Pioneer Grange at Masonville. During the lecturer's hour a short Mother's Day program will be given. The last meeting in the month the grange will hold a banquet and the third and fourth degrees will be conferred on several candidates.

ALEXANDRIA DRIVE TO REACH CAPITAL

Virginia Chamber Will Ask Donations of District Business Houses.

CITY TO BE ADVERTISED

Development of the Virginia territory just south of Washington, including a portion of the City of Alexandria, into a "Greater Washington Industrial District," which was inaugurated a month ago by the Chamber of Commerce of Alexandria, has gained such impetus that it has been determined to extend the campaign to the business men of Washington who do business with Alexandria people. After months of study of the labor and transportation facilities, available factory sites and market conditions in and about Alexandria, and following a complete investigation by experts, the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce presented a three-year plan looking to the securing of industrial enterprises for Alexandria.

An important feature of the plan calls for the immediate employment of an industrial manager whose duty it will be to present the advantages of the locality to manufacturers who are seeking new locations. It is the intention of the Chamber of Commerce to secure the best man available for this work and to provide him with a fund for advertising and promotion purposes. To provide the amount estimated as necessary for the Forward Movement program, $25,000 a year for three years, a campaign was inaugurated in Alexandria last Wednesday, and in three days $18,000 was subscribed. It is now proposed to approach interested Washington businessmen Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce has emphasized particularly the fact that the proposed industrial program will not in any way conflict with the plans of the Federal Government for the beautifying of the territory contiguous to the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard, now under construction. Certain portions of Alexandria on the river front are particularly adapted to manufacturing purposes, leaders declare, and it is proposed to locate the new industries in these sections.

The program adopted by the Alexandria trade body contemplates a city-wide educational campaign to encourage all citizens to speak a good word for Alexandria wherever they go; a reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce to a Democratic organization with a largely increased membership; and to carry on a program of industrial development, commercial expansion, cultural advancement and other needed activities.

The duty of the industrial manager will be to secure new industries, to cooperate with present manufacturing plants and industries in every way within the power of a modern chamber of commerce; to set forth the manufacturing and distribution advantages of Alexandria based on recent industrial survey information, and the enlistment of transportation and power companies and the State Chamber of Commerce in the city's industrial development.

The program of the rejuvenated Chamber of Commerce includes many other important features, among which are the exploitation of the equable climate, close proximity to 25,000 people, efficiency and skill of available labor, the great trunk line railway systems which pass through the city, coastwise steamship service, adequate banking facilities, nearness to and availability of raw materials, potential industrial sites in "100 per cent" locations, unlimited supply of water for manufacturing purposes, strong cooperation of well organized Chamber of Commerce industrial staff, and very low taxes.

Robert S. Barrett is general chairman of the campaign, with F. Clinton Knight, chairman, in charge of solicitation, Clyde C. Lamond in charge of the initial investment committee, and John Barton Phillips, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Do This, Daughter, for LIGHT and FLUFFY MACARONI"

"What is the secret, Mother, of your light and fluffy Macaroni?" "No secret at all, daughter. Just ask for Mueller's when you order from your grocer. Then your Macaroni will be just as light and fluffy and tasty as mine."

MOTHER is right! There's no secret to cooking really delicious macaroni or spaghetti—no skill required to achieve a delightful lightness and fluffiness in these nutritious foods.

For many years, wise housewives have known that the way to win praise with their macaroni and spaghetti is to ask for Mueller's when buying. Here are macaroni and spaghetti so vastly superior to any other that they have leaped into first place in public favor wherever they have been offered for sale.

Cooks in Nine Minutes

It's delightfully easy to prepare a delicious, energy-building meal with Mueller's Macaroni or Spaghetti. These tasty foods cook up light and fluffy in nine minutes. American housewives often overcook macaroni. Follow the directions on the package and boil for nine minutes—though if extra tenderness is desired, one or two minutes more may be allowed.

A warning from Spain's great beauty specialist

NIRAUS of Madrid

"Don't use 'just any soap' ...Use Palmolive"

"All my clients are asked to use no soap except Palmolive. The fine palm and olive oils of which it is made give the skin deep thorough cleansing. Daily cleansings with Palmolive have a tonic and rejuvenating effect on the skin."
Niraus
MADRID

In the Madrid salon of Niraus, this expert himself supervises the important treatments. He is shown here overseeing a facial massage. Niraus, though a Frenchman, has worked for many years in Spain. His salon is frequented by the smartest Spanish women.

"VEGETABLE oils in soap are best for your skin," says Niraus, of Madrid. "Palmolive is made of the cosmetic oils of palm and olives. It is pure. Substitutes may be harmful. Don't experiment with them. You are risking too much."

When this distinguished skin specialist speaks with such emphasis every woman who values skin beauty should heed the warning. For Niraus is regarded, in Madrid, as an authority of great consequence. His list of clients includes many names of royalty. And he continues:

"No soap but Palmolive"

"All my clients are asked to use no soap but Palmolive. This is the treatment I advise: work up a smooth lather from Palmolive Soap and warm water and massage this gently into the skin with the finger tips. Rinse it off, after a minute or two, with warm water; then with cold. An easy way, indeed, to keep skin from irritation, to protect it and freshen it."

Unless the skin is carefully cleansed, carefully protected, there is a gradual—and dangerous—change in its texture, color, in every way it feels. Coarse pores, blackheads, muddiness, take the place of youthful freshness. That is why more than 19,800 experts, the world over, insist on the use of Palmolive Soap twice daily. These experts know what is best for the skin. They have experimented, have studied the results of various methods. And 19,813 of them agree that nothing can take the place of Palmolive.

To protect skin from the abuses of weather and make-up, you should use this soap with its safe, non-irritating olive oil lather.

Consult your beauty expert

Be sure to see your beauty expert regularly. And take her advice. Use Palmolive not only for the face, but for the bath as well. Millions do. They find it the best safeguard for natural loveliness.

Never was there such a tremendous professional endorsement of any product as this! 19,813 beauty experts advise Palmolive Soap.

STUDY OF THE MIND.

The human mind offers a world of mystery for the exploration of science. The first international congress dealing with mental hygiene has opened in Washington, with delegates from many countries. The gathering of 4,000 delegates, all of them devoted to this branch of study, can not fail to contribute to the knowledge of them all, by the mere collation of what has been discovered; and the stimulation to research will be accelerated by thousands of suggestions.

Psychiatry has demonstrated the dependence of mental normality upon bodily normality. A great advance has been made in the restoration of good mental condition by removing physical deficiencies or perversions, but the field is of such enormous extent that no one can define its boundaries. For the most part it has not even been reconnoitered, much less mapped. Thousands of eager investigators are at work, in all parts of the world, and with the true democracy of science all the discoveries are made available to humanity everywhere.

The most fascinating subject in the world, bearing in mind both its mysteries and its possibilities, is the study of the human mind. The nature of the connection between the physical brain and the phenomena emanating from it is still an insoluble mystery. No one knows how thought actuates muscle. The method by which the immaterial takes hold of the material is a secret which, if it could be discovered, might relieve humanity of a thousand ills, enable it to develop new capacities, and point the way to radical reforms in the way of living.

Progress is to be expected in the treatment or prevention of epilepsy through the exchange of ideas and information thus far obtained by students of the brain. This advance alone would warrant all the labor that could be devoted to it. The world sadly needs an answer to the enigma of epilepsy.

The mass treatment of the insane and feeble-minded is a field of research in itself. Here is room for practical planning, which need not wait for further knowledge before applying reforms. Ancient superstitions concerning the insane persist in all countries. The international congress can do much to remove these stumbling-blocks to the humane treatment of those whose minds are diseased.

TRENDS OF POPULATION.

As figures from the 1930 enumeration begin to trickle into the Census Bureau the force of the migration from rural to urban communities that has taken place in the last decade becomes apparent. In 1920 there were 746 cities of 10,000 or more inhabitants in the United States. Since returns from less than 12 per cent of these cities have been tabulated, the average increase of 22.5 per cent may be far below the ultimate average. The first returns are usually from the smaller and less progressive communities.

Rural areas have increased their population only in rare instances, notably in Florida. Country villages which have no particular advantages to offer either industry or agriculture are disappearing. Final returns will no doubt show scores of new cities in the 10,000 population class, especially in the South and the West, where industry has taken a strong foothold in the last ten years.

Students of population movements have forecast unusual growth for cities of medium size whose location gives them advantages for industrial development. According to this theory the larger cities of the country have become so congested with traffic and their municipal functions so complicated that they are no longer desirable for location of an industry. To avoid overhead expense many industries are locating in smaller cities, as may be seen in the recent development of the South. The tendency has brought many to look for a leveling-off process, in which growth of the large cities will be checked and that of smaller cities stimulated.

Like all theories, this may be easily carried to absurd extremes. Indications are that the census figures will show remarkable growth in most of the country's great cities as well as in those of the second class. This may be accounted for by the fact that manufacturing is not the only industry that stimulates city growth. Commerce invariably becomes an important factor in the development of great urban centers, for commerce thrives best in dense population. Every great city has established a trade territory for which it functions as a market place, a distribution pivot, and a financial power plant. These factors will probably keep the great cities growing, even though manufacturing does swing toward the less populous cities and towns.

THE NATION'S ALMONER.

The Red Cross movement grew out of a war, and for years the organization functioned exclusively on the field of battle. Today, however, the Red Cross takes charge whenever an emergency brings distress to a people, in addition to which it carries forward at all times campaigns of health education, first-aid training, rehabilitation and relief. Opening the annual convention of the organization yesterday, President Hoover said:

> The past fifteen years have seen a great change in the purpose and an expansion in the benevolent activities of this, our great official association for the administration of national charity. The Red Cross today is the expression of the national will, the national sympathy, for all those overtaken by catastrophe of storm, of flood, of famine.

The Nation turns instinctively to the Red Cross in hours of need. Congress may be called upon to make appropriations for the relief of those distressed; the Army may make available planes and motor trucks and the Navy boats for use in stricken areas, but it is the Red Cross that is called upon to take charge of the humanitarian side of disaster relief, to house the homeless, to relieve the suffering of the injured, to console the survivors, and set in motion forces for the reestablishment of order and tranquillity in an area rent by storm, flood or fire. No call is so small that it is ignored by the Red Cross. None is so large as to overwhelm it.

Calvin Coolidge once said: "Much glory has been added to our Red Cross emblem. More and more it is coming to be recognized universally as the symbol of love, sympathy and charity for all those in suffering and distress. Its benign influence reaches out to touch and soften our daily lives, dispelling envy and malice, so that we think less of self and more of others, bringing more of peace on earth and good will toward men."

The delegates to this convention may talk of mundane matters, but they will invest them with a spiritual quality that will lift them above the commonplace. Washington welcomes the American Red Cross in national convention.

UNIFICATION OF TRADE BODIES.

The commercial and industrial tendency is toward consolidation. Chain stores are coming more to the forefront every day; branch and group banking has progressed to a point where it is being investigated by a committee of Congress, and in every field of endeavor the benefits accruing from cooperative purchasing and marketing are under scrutiny. If unified control and management or cooperation has been found efficient in commerce and industry is it not reasonable to suppose that unification or, at least, close and formal cooperation would be efficient if applied to business, trade and civic associations? That is the question implied in the suggestion that Washington's numerous trade, civic and business bodies be united into a single compact unit, or that a single council be created through which the various organizations could function as one with respect to matters affecting the general well being.

In the past there has been no "voice of Washington." One body advances a proposal, contending that its adoption would be in the public interest. Another, however, rises in opposition, sometimes justified, but sometimes patently because there is nothing else at the moment that holds the attention of its membership. As a result, Congress frequently is confused as to what Washington actually needs or wants. The municipal airport is a case in evidence. Does Washington want an airport? Is it willing to pay part of the cost? Various organizations have undertaken to answer these and other questions in behalf of Washington, but no unanimous opinion has been brought forward.

Practical considerations may stand in the way of actual unification of the numerous civic, trade and business organizations. It is pointed out, for example, that certain organizations carry on highly technical activities. It would seem, however, that such organizations would sacrifice none of their technical efficiency through membership in a unified council but that, on the contrary, the city would gain if their technical skill and knowledge were applied to solving public problems. The suggestion that trade, civic and business bodies be united deserves thorough consideration.

COMMUNIST COAL.

Soviet Russia is dumping cheap coal on the New England market in competition with the American product. Importations are not yet sufficiently large to cause serious alarm, but the communist regime at Moscow intends to increase its output of coal by more than 100 per cent. It is well to anticipate the situation that this threat against the American industry may bring about.

Russian coal is produced with communized labor. The miners are virtually slaves of the government at Moscow. In some cases coal is a product of convict labor. By compelling its subjects to work for their meager existence the communist regime is able to produce coal at very low cost. By subsidizing carrier vessels this coal may be transported through the Black Sea, the Mediterranean and across the Atlantic at a cost below the freight charge on anthracite coal from the Pennsylvania fields to New England.

While only 113,000 tons of Russian coal was imported to the United States last year, there has been a rapid increase in recent months. Heavy shipments are being made to Canada, thus curtailing the use of American coal in that country. If the Soviet is allowed to dump coal on the American market it may seriously affect the domestic industry. The United States has ample coal for its own needs. Nothing could be gained by opening the domestic market to coal produced by enforced labor in Russia.

It is timely to ask the Tariff Commission to look into this situation. If the commission should find that Soviet coal is a real menace to the domestic industry, importation could be halted by an embargo under the antidumping provision of the tariff law. The Soviet government delights in dumping its surplus goods produced by enslaved labor on the markets of the so-called capitalistic nations. That is part of the communist's program for world revolution. The Government should not hesitate in protecting American industry and labor from competition with any and all products of communism.

STREET AND HIGHWAY SAFETY.

For years the Nation has been striving desperately to reduce the toll taken by the automobile, but the casualty total has continued to mount. It becomes increasingly apparent that ordinary remedies will be of little practical effect. Considering its size, the automobile strikes with the force of a projectile. So long as such units of brute force must be allowed in areas from which pedestrians are not barred, and since each individual automobile can not be isolated, there are bound to be accidents.

The national conference on street and highway safety will meet in Washington the latter part of May. The governors of the 48 States and the mayors of many cities have accepted the invitation to send delegates to the meeting and representatives of a number of associations and organizations concerned with street and highway traffic problems will also be in attendance. "The matter of street and highway safety," said President Hoover recently, "is entirely within the responsibility of State and local authorities." The Government, however, quite properly lends its official sanction to the conference and extends its assistance to the end that information may be widely disseminated and the activities of local and State agencies may be coordinated.

The cause of safety may be advanced by improved methods of street and highway construction. Blind spots may be removed, curves may be widened and banked, railway over and under passes may be constructed and traffic control devices may be installed at dangerous intersections. Safety may also be increased by improved methods of manufacture and maintenance of motor vehicles and by barring incompetent drivers through license restrictions from the highways. But safety, in the final analysis, depends largely upon the individual. The death and accident toll taken annually by the motor car will not be reduced until each and every driver is impressed with his personal and individual responsibility for the safety of those in his car, in other cars that use the highway, and of pedestrians. How to make individual drivers realize a sense of responsibility is the principal problem to be solved by those who would make the highways safe.

PROBLEM OF FILIPINO MIGRATION

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

Admitting the existence of a Filipino migration problem on the Pacific Coast and the impasse to which the suggested government measures have reached, it was recently suggested by the writer, as a partial solution of the problem, that the Hawaiian sugar planters, who are responsible for the migration of so many Filipinos, should secure their Filipino labor on the coast and not in the Philippines as they are doing now.

It is contended the plan won't work because Filipinos simply will not go back to the Hawaiian plantations on the ground that the wages prevailing on the coast are higher than those in Hawaii.

The contention is easily answered. It is true that the scale of wages on the coast is higher, but it is also true that the cost of living is correspondingly higher—and more. In Hawaii the Filipinos are welcome, while on the coast they are not, and living in an atmosphere of hostility is expensive in every way.

Filipinos in Hawaii have steady work; on the coast the jobs open to them are mostly temporary or seasonal. The best proof that the economic advantages in Hawaii are better is that the 50,000 Filipinos there send home more than $5,000,000 yearly, while the 40,000 on the coast send hardly any.

Hawaii is dependent on overseas labor. The Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association brings in around 10,000 Filipinos yearly to take the places of those who either return home or go on to the Pacific Coast. It has just renewed its license to recruit laborers this year, which was granted it with certain restrictions based on the growing demand for labor of Philippine agriculture.

The planters do not now advance the fare. They encourage their men to return home on the expiration of their contract. A steamship company has temporarily closed their steerage accommodations from Honolulu to the mainland. These measures are commendable, but they will not stop the migration. Every Filipino who goes to Hawaii intends to go right on to the coast, which most of them succeed in doing. If this process goes on indefinitely it is clear a most serious problem is bound to arise.

The adoption by the Hawaiian planters of the plan of reemploying their former workers who are now on the coast will start a rotative movement of workingmen from the Philippines to Hawaii, thence to the coast, and from there back to the homeland via Hawaii. It will give them an assured labor supply, obviate possible restrictive measures by the American and Philippine governments, ameliorate and stabilize the Filipino labor situation on the coast, and save the Philippine man-power from biologic and economic depletion.

Does the plan mean dumping a lot of bad men on fair Hawaii? Assuredly not. Most of these Filipinos are not by nature bad. Selective employment will weed out the congenital malcontents. Idleness is the chief source of most of the troubles now.

Hawaii will get men who are already acclimated and experienced, the wiser for their disappointments on the mainland. Impregnated with the spirit of home-coming, these Filipinos will labor under the urge of good behavior, thrift and application, making them cheerful and efficient workers.

They will eventually return to their homeland as small capitalists, men forged on the anvil of work and privations, with their desire to see America satisfied, and experienced in the major industry of their country. Thus the Hawaiian planters, while serving their own economic interests, will also contribute to the welfare of the Philippines.

THE TAILOR'S DIFFICULTY.

I've never understood it quite,
In the tailor shop the suit looks right
And hangs without a crease.
Before the beveled glass I stand
The while my smiling tailor, bland,
Admires his masterpiece
And calls in visitors to note
The perfect collar on the coat.

He pats it here and strokes it there
And finds no wrinkle anywhere.
I happily admit,
Despite the failures of the past,
That I possess one suit at last
That is a perfect fit,
I strut about and can not find
A flaw or fault of any kind.

But when at home that suit I don
It seems to be a different one;
I look at it and frown.
Across the vest huge wrinkles fall;
The collar does not sit at all
The way it did downtown.
I pat and pull, but can't detect
A semblance of that smart effect.

And this it is that puzzles me:
Why should that suit so splendid be
And fair to look upon,
Because the tailor's standing by,
But promptly lose its charm when I
Attempt to put it on?
The answer is: No tailor can
Make suits to fit a sloppy man.

The Horse Hasn't Much Chance If the Jockey Is Discouraged.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE wife's clothes ofttimes make the man.

That isn't written in an effort to say something smart.

It is a serious psychological truth.

There is a belief, common in Europe and among the less thoughtful critics of America, that the successful married men of this country who delight in dressing their wives well are inspired by vanity alone.

"The American wife is a clothes rack," the critics say, "used to display and advertise her husband's success."

That is true, but it isn't the whole of the truth.

Much of the satisfaction of financial success consists in letting the world know about it, and in this land and age the easiest way for a man to declare and demonstrate his solvency is to let his wife dress the part.

Thus the wife's clothes make the man's reputation, but that is a matter of secondary importance.

The point made by the psychologist is that the wife's clothes can play a large part in making the man successful.

Observe the effect of a $29.50 hat.

That is a big price to pay if the husband has a hard time making ends meet, and seems especially ridiculous in view of the fact that a hat of the same general appearance can be purchased elsewhere at $1.49.

But the dealer is justified in charging that much, for he must offer an assortment and the hats he doesn't sell during the short season are so much junk at the end of it.

The wife who buys the hat looks, in the language of our day, like a million dollars; she knows she looks like a million dollars and the fact makes her happy; and her happiness and her million-dollar look combine to give her husband the cheerful courage essential to success.

Many a man has a dismal, unsuccessful day because he left at home a wife depressed and miserable for want of the right clothes.

In America the life of married people is so intimate that a husband's success or failure depends in large measure on the atmosphere of his home.

The man who leaves home in the morning saddened or irritated by a petty, undignified scene with his wife is whipped before his day begins.

The man who knows his wife is happy, and knows he made her happy, is thrice armed to lick the world—and when you arm him further with pride in his wife's appearance, he is unbeatable.

This may sound like an ad for the milliners, but it is the solemn truth that many a man's up-and-at-'em courage can be traced to a bit of straw and ribbon.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ROUND BY ROUND STORY OF A DEMPSEY-LION BATTLE.

"Jack Dempsey is going to Africa on a lion hunt."—News Item.)

Dempsey is first in the ring. He appears very nervous. The lion comes in a few moments later, and by another aisle, at Dempsey's request. The lion seems quite confident. Dempsey looks very good—to the lion. Jack goes into a conference with the referee. He wants to know how long since the lion has been fed.

• • • •

They are both in the center of the ring now. Dempsey is getting instructions. What he needs is a springboard. Four of Dempsey's seconds leave the ring. They have gone out for animal poison.

ROUND ONE—Dempsey is slow coming from his corner. He is being criticized for coming from it at all. The lion is sizing up Jack. Evidently it is having trouble trying to place him. Dempsey lets go with everything he has and lands a left on the lion's jaw. The lion thinks Jack is trying to pet it. They circle around the ring. Suddenly the lion stages a savage attack and chases Jack all over the enclosure. A Dempsey second saves Jack by tossing the lion a steak. Lion's round.

ROUND TWO—Dempsey is very cautious. Nobody blames him. The lion is roaring for its mate. Dempsey wishes it would get an answer. The crowd is impatient. It is yelling for Jack to go in and bite the lion. The bout is very slow so far. It is evident that the lion was fed before leaving the dressing room. The boys in the $2 seats are yelling for action. The lion seems to lack aggressiveness. This is very pleasing to Dempsey. This was an even round, with Dempsey under the greater nerve strain.

ROUND THREE—The lion bounds from its corner and leaps at Dempsey. Dempsey ducks and hides under a chair. The lion knocks away the chair and drags Dempsey out by the neck. The crowd seems to think Dempsey is not doing his best. The lion now has Dempsey down and is sitting on him. The fans boo Jack and yell, "Get up and fight, you big bum!" Dempsey tries to get up but the lion paws him savagely. It is the lion's round.

ROUND FOUR—The lion has finished Dempsey and is starting to gnaw on the referee. The ring is a shambles. The lion, having tasted blood, is now running amuck. The fans, disappointed at the failure of Dempsey to eat the lion, are crying "Fake!"

The police have stopped the bout and awarded the decision to the lion. Young Stribling has challenged the winner. Pa Stribling indorses the challenge but insists that the boy will fight the lion only through Mlle. Adgie.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Progress Toward Temperance Was Noticeable Before Volstead—It Is an Evolutionary Movement, Not Mere Written Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The fact that before we had any eighteenth amendment there was steady progress toward actual temperance has more than once been mentioned in your letter column.

With a view to holding popular consideration of the prohibition question within common sense limits, it can not be mentioned too often.

According to Dr. E. S. Case, of Curtis, Nebr., one of a number of medical practioners who submitted an opinion with their votes in the Literary Digest prohibition poll, this temperance drift is evolutionary. He says:

"The evolution of mankind, I believe, is distinctly away from the use of alcohol in excessive dosage. I believe as we move from the lower to the higher, from the homogeneous to the heterogeneous, which is our inevitable line of development, that excessive drinking by the general population will be steadily curtailed, and it will be used in ever-increasing moderation. This will be brought about by the increasing mental and nervous strain of the increasing complexities and engendered strenuosities of our materialistic and machinery-run civilization, which the scientific spirit will dominate and make permanent for the future."

This summary is interesting and plausible. But in one important particular it seems lacking. It does not give sufficient credit to the moral sense—to that developing social refinement which even in pre-Volstead days had reached a point where the idea that a man might "get drunk like a gentleman" was no longer tolerated.

Senators "Studying" Retirement Problem, While the Robins Nest Again and Again.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have recently seen by the papers that senators are still "studying" the retirement annuity bill. The natural inference is that the consulting actuaries and Government personnel experts are are still more or less on the job. This strikes me as evidence of incompetence somehow if not somewhere. Perhaps it merely proves the contention of those who insist that the transaction of ordinary business is not a proper function of the Government. Imagine a big corporation consuming more than one or two, not to mention ten, years in perfecting a simple annuity scheme for its employes. So long ago that it is becoming difficult to remember, I thought I was going to get my $200 raise when "the robins nest again." They have nested several times since then, and, if the "studious" senators don't wake up pretty quick, I guess they'll nest above my grave before the annuity bill is properly formulated.

Voters May Change Legislative Doctors in Order to Save the Patient.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our population is now showing the bad effects of remedial legislation on two important matters, and our national lawmakers, so called, don't seem to think they are important enough to solicit either revision or complete repeal. To be plain, these matters are immigration and prohibition. The laws were made after it was clearly shown that remedies were badly needed. But any schoolboy knows that the legislative remedies applied have only made the patients worse. In one case they have had ten long years to study the patient's condition, and he seems to be sinking as the years roll by.

Do these legislative physicians need changing on account of administering alleged legislative nostrums? This question may be answered next November when the voters look them over and decide that the only way to obtain efficient remedies is to completely change the legislative doctors before fatal results appear. Then it may be too late.

Public Schools Should Fit Children for Practical Duties as Citizens.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statement of John B. Colpoys, chairman of the citizens' committee on vocational education in which he says that the present system of training Washington school children for trade and industry is a "hodge-podge," should receive the serious attention of parents as well as of the authorities. As I understand it the original idea in establishing public schools was to furnish the children of parents in moderate circumstances with enough education to fit them for the ordinary practical activities of good citizens. It may be that in giving undue prominence to "academic" studies, the tendency is to get too far away from that idea. In these days the well-to-do and the wealthy send their children to the public schools preparatory to continuing their studies in higher institutions of learning. This is all right if the taxpayers are satisfied, provided the cultural as well as the vocational needs of those whose schooling must be limited are given proper attention.

Suggests Island Camps for Prisoners.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With the fact of a great prison disaster still in mind, the present overcrowding of Federal prisons and the coming of summer, resort to relieving this condition could be taken in a very simple way. During war times prisoners are confined in prison camps with camping equipment and surrounded with barbed wire fences, located on islands. The same thing could be done in peace times with Federal prisoners. The prisoners would be in a healthier condition when they finished their terms and there are plenty of short-termed prisoners that could be taken care of in this way, thereby relieving the overcrowded condition during this summer, and in States like Florida they could be out in the open air all the year round.

EARLY MAIL PILOTS LAUDED AT AIR SHOW

Postmaster General Brown Traces Aerial System's Growth Since 1918.

TAXPAYER BEARS COST

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Tribute to the men who pioneered the air mail was paid today at the New York air show by Walter F. Brown, Postmaster General, and other speakers.

"We have yet to hear of an air mail pilot who quit or even flinched in the face of the many dangers incident to his calling," Mr. Brown said, in tracing the growth of the air mail from 1918, when the first experimental route between New York and Washington was established.

"Silently and reverently we join tonight in honoring the three score of brave lads who have sacrificed their lives in the postal service of their country."

Air Mail's Growth Cited.

From a small beginning, Mr. Brown said, the air mail has grown until today it is carried daily on 25 domestic air routes, totaling almost 15,000 miles in length, and weekly or oftener on 5 foreign air routes totaling approximately 13,000 miles.

"In 1918 the air mail carried about 700,000 letters," he said. "In 1929 it carried more than 300,000,000 pieces of mail."

The taxpayer is still standing the major expenses of the air mail, Mr Brown said, the air mail users contributing probably not more than $7,000,000 to reimburse the Government for the $19 000,000 it has appropriated for air mail pay this year. The money is well spent, the Postmaster General believes, in that it is a stimulant to commercial aviation.

Mail Pilots Speak.

Today was air mail pilot's day at the show and W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General, E. Hamilton Lee, ranking air mail pilot, and James E. Edgerton, the first air mail pilot, also spoke. All four addresses were broadcast over a nation-wide network.

More than two million dollars worth of planes are on exhibit in the garden, ranging from multipassenger transport planes to single-seater sport planes which take up little more space than a good-sized automobile.

Visitors to the show can do everything but fly. The transport planes are open to walk through, and there is a special training plane, which does not fly, but in which one may get all the sensations of flying and handle the controls.

Curtis Disbarment Is Upheld by Court

Attorney's Appeal Against Action Loses Before Higher Tribunal.

Action of the District Supreme Court in disbarring George P. Curtis from practicing as an attorney was upheld yesterday by the District Court of Appeals.

Four justices of the Supreme Court acting on a complaint of the grievance committee of the District Bar Association heard the evidence supporting the alleged charges some time ago and ordered the attorney's disbarment. Curtis then appealed.

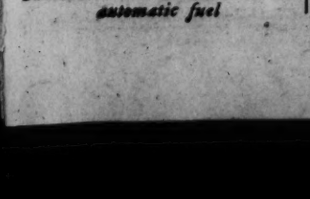

The lawyer was accused by the grievance committee of making a false affidavit in a Municipal Court suit. Mr. Curtis was alleged to have sought to obtain a $600 judgment against Mrs. Anna M. Griffith, a former client, on the claim that that entire sum was due him for professional services, when, in fact, he had received a $100 retainer and an additional $75.

Justice Charles H. Robb, who wrote the decision, held that a review of the evidence showed that the lower court had been justified in its findings that Curtis was guilty of knowingly making a false affidavit, and therefore guilty of "conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice."

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

WELL now, not desiring at all to be let in for the charge that we, too, are attacking the judiciary, there is the little incident Saturday down in Police Judge Mattingly's court.

Some erring soul was before the judge on some charge or another which was duly disposed of, and undoubtedly with justice's customarily unblinking eyes. Then the judge noticed a handkerchief fashioned after the British flag, in the defendant's front pocket.

Immediately the court wanted to know what it was doing there and when the defendant explained that his sweetheart had given it to him he was ordered forthwith to remove it, with the suggestion that he had better fly it over his hen house.

* * * *

A HASTY search through the various codes, the Federal court, the District code and the annotated code, does not reveal any law against wearing a handkerchief fashioned after any flag in the pocket, or compelling one to fly same over one's hen house.

This being the case, the question quite naturally occurs: What business of the judge was that flag, the manner in which it was worn or what should be done with it in the future?

The inescapable answer is that it was none of the judge's business at all.

OF course, it being Judge Mattingly in this instance, the likable fellow that he is, the American Civil Liberties League will be called into action.

But this can not be permitted to stand as a precedent. Such encroachment as this upon one's liberty of wearing a handkerchief in any manner, and of any fabric or design, can not be permitted to occur again. For one thing, it would be a blow at the curio shops on lower Pennsylvania avenue, where they have handkerchiefs with Mr. Hoover's likeness, to say nothing of the likeness of flags.

THE police judges have always been sort of an institution in this country, particularly those in the South. The breezy and biting comments of some of them as they have dished out summary justice as one might handle flap-jacks have become famous. And at least one Virginia police jurist became so well known in this respect that an actor took his lines and went into vaudeville and made more money than he would have ever made on the Supreme Court.

The serious thing about Judge Mattingly's action, of course, is that some of the senators may cite it as another instance of how judges make law and use it as an argument against Judge Parker. And, of course, Judge Mattingly may as well give up his Supreme Court aspirations right now. That present bunch at the Capitol never forgets.

CITY CLUB PROPERTY BOUGHT AT $633,500

James A. Purcell, Only Man to Bid, Says Purchase Is Investment.

FIRST TRUST ASSUMED

The City Club property at 1312-1320 G street northwest was sold at public auction yesterday afternoon for $633,500 to James A. Purcell, an attorney.

Although more than 200 apparently interested persons witnessed the sale, Mr. Purcell was the only bidder. His bid was $1,000. The sale price, however, amounted to more than this, as the purchaser took over a first trust and accumulative interest and taxes amounting to approximately $632,500. Mr. Purcell announced that he had bought the property as an investment, and denied that he had purchased for some one else.

The City Club will lease the third floor of the building and retain it as headquarters. The entire property consists of four stores and the clubrooms. It is constructed in such a way that it can be divided into five separate business establishments or thrown into one, serving as a department store.

The building was erected in 1920 by the Samuel J. Prescott Co., Inc. Frederic B. Pyle was the architect. The last appraisal of the property was slightly more than $1,000,000. The first trust comes due in June of this year. The second trust amounts to $200,000. Adam A. Weschler conducted the auction.

Minister Given 20 Days For Criticizing Judges

Los Angeles, May 5 (A.P.).—The Rev. Robert P. Shuler, Methodist minister, today was sentenced to twenty days in the county jail for contempt of court and fined $100 by Superior Judge C. S. Tappaan.

He was tried last week as the result of his radio speeches criticizing two superior court judges concerning their actions in various phases of the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock over issue scandals.

Steel Directors Meet in Secret

Proponents and Enemies of Merger Report Very Agreeable Session.

Youngstown, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Directors of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., divided for and against the company's merger with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, had "a very agreeable meeting" today, according to Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and leader of the opposition, and adjourned with both sides pledged to secrecy as to what took place. Eaton's statement was the only one issued. Sheet & Tube officials said merely that there was nothing for publication.

No one would comment on whether the three-hour session and the ensuing silence meant that a compromise had been reached in the merger fight, or meant merely a deadlock in a plan for arranging a separate form of stock certificates for stock which opposes the merger.

It had been reported that the meeting would deprive the opposition holdings of dividend and voting rights, but later it was pointed out that under Ohio law such stock already is shorn of these rights.

Aid to War Victim Weighed in Geneva

Subcommittee Gets Plans for League to Assist Nations in Peril.

Geneva, May 5 (A.P.).—The arbitration and security committee of the League of Nations tonight completed general discussion of the formulation of a convention by which financial aid would be given by the league to a country threatened by a warlike aggressor.

Proposals were referred to a subcommittee for drafting. Representatives of all the 29 governments present took part in a lengthy discussion of them. A number of differences of opinion were developed, which the drafting and subcommittees must reconcile.

Three chief problems stood out. The first is whether the council "may" or "must" decide when financial assistance is to be given to a state victim of an aggresion. The second is whether actual war or only threat of war would be the occasion for such assistance, and the third whether the convention shall become effective before a general disarmament treaty has been completed or not.

S. S. Migrant Drops Anchor In City Waters

Tucker Craft Equipped With Every Comfort for Guests.

By JEAN ELIOT.

NOT since Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis' yacht, the Lyndonia, weighed anchor after her annual springtime visit to Washington, has so graceful a craft put into the Potomac as the Migrant, which now rides at anchor below the War College. Flying the flag of the New York Yacht Club, she is the property of Mr. and Mrs. Carll Tucker, who seem to be living aboard and occasionally entertaining groups of their Washington friends.

A three-master, long and rakish, painted black and with her brasses agleam in the sunshine, the Migrant is as beautiful a craft as one might see in a day's journey. She's seagoing and could easily cross the Atlantic at her owner's whim.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker live in New York and they have a summer home at Mount Kisco. Mrs. Tucker, who was Miss Marcia Brady, is a sister, I believe, of the late Mr. Nicholas Brady.

A more familiar craft now tied up off Potomac Park is Col. Robert M. Thompson's Everglades, aboard which so many Washingtonians have been entertained in years gone by. Just now Col. Thompson, who is staying at the Mayflower, is ill, so no parties are being given aboard the Everglades this year except when Col. Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Stephen H. P. Pell, who is with him here, slips away for a short cruise with a few guests or sends some of her friends for a bit of a sail on a pleasant afternoon.

The Everglades, which was built on Col. Thompson's own specifications some 25 years ago, is designed for comfort and not for speed, although she makes good time for a houseboat. Col. Thompson usually spends the winter aboard her in Florida waters and brings her north to Southampton in the summer, usually stopping in Washington for a springtime visit. Her usual course is in sheltered waters, although she is quite seaworthy and negotiates some 150 miles of open water going to and from Florida every year.

With a half dozen or more comfortable cabins, a charmingly appointed lounge and saloon and wide deck space, set about with easy chairs under shaded awnings, the Everglades is a pleasant spot on a long summer afternoon. She boasts, moreover, a famous collection of autographed photographs of princes and potentates, which Col. Thompson has collected in the course of a long career in which he has traveled all over the world. Royalties are among them and also famous athletes. For Col. Thompson has done a great deal for development of amateur athletics and has on several occasions underwritten America's participation in the Oylmpic games. Many naval heroes are also included, for the colonel is a graduate of the Naval Academy and has always kept up his associations with the sea dogs of his class. Moreover, he was president of the Navy League for a number of years.

Hung with some of these portraits is a letter, the ink somewhat faded, which reads. "Midshipman Thompson plays so abominably on the fish horn that unless he practices out of limits, he will find himself coming out of the little end of the horn." It is signed, David Porter, vice admiral, superintendant.

The Allegro, aboard which Mr. Eugene McDonald, of Chicago, entertained so lavishly last spring, has been sold, and Mr. McDonald, whose home is in Chicago and who is distinguished as an explorer, has bought what has been described as a "bigger and better yacht," the Zenith. However, the Allegro, with twelve masters' cabins, each with its bath, would be hard to beat. Not only did Mr. McDonald give many parties on board when he was here last spring, but Representative and Mrs. Fred Britten, who are great friends of the owner, entertained aboard a great deal.

Senator and Mrs. Jesse Metcalf's Felicia is another yacht which has not thrust her bow up the Potomac so far this season, but which was the scene of many pleasant parties last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Joyce, jr., entertained at a supper party last evening for 40 guests who were asked to meet Mrs. Phyllis Lamar. Mrs. Lamar will sail shortly on the S. S. Rochambeau to spend the summer on the continent.

T. D. Thachers Plan to Lease Robbins Home

Residence Is Regarded as One of Choicest in Georgetown.

When Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins leave Washington early in June for Central America, their handsome Georgetown residence, known to the cave dwellers as "the old Dodge house," will be leased to the new Solicitor General and Mrs. Thomas D. Thacher.

Judge Thacher succeeded Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, jr., when he resigned from the post of Solicitor General with his father's appointment to the Supreme Court. He and Mrs. Thacher are staying temporarily at the Mayflower, but wish to have a house in which they can entertain. And surely they have chosen well, for the old mansion with its large high ceilinged rooms, its pleasant garden and its "atmosphere," will be a perfect setting for discriminating hospitality.

The Thachers have two daughters, Mary—a "daisy chain girl at Vassar" this year, and Sally, who is a bit older. The latter has been an occasional visitor in the Capital, but is said to have so little liking for official life that she is planning to resume a course at college interrupted in order that she might make her debut.

It seems too bad that such an attractive pair as Mr. and Mrs. Warren Robbins should be so much out of Washington. Mr. Robbins is United States Minister to El Salvador and will resume his duties there after having been on leave of absence for several months and having served during most of this period as ceremonials officer at the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins have a daughter, Helen, just growing up, and two sons, who will return to schools in this country in the autumn.

Mrs. John Lord O'Brian, wife of the Assistant to the Attorney General, will return to her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel the end of the month after visiting her home in Buffalo.

Mrs. James E. Fechet gave a luncheon yesterday for Mrs. Eugene J. Fellowes, of San Antonio, Tex., having as guests Mrs. John L. Clem, Mrs. J. B. Ritter, Mrs. Anton Cron, Mrs. W. E. Gilmore and her sister, Mrs. Borden, of New York; Mrs. Henry K. Lynne, Mrs. Frederick Bassett, of Annapolis, and Mrs. Arthur J. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ormond Lawson-Johnston, who are at present in New York, expect to sail for England this week. Mrs. Lawson-Johnston, who was Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall until her recent marriage, entertained at tea yesterday afternoon at the Plaza Hotel.

Whips from the various hunt teams in Maryland and Virginia will take part in a picturesque hunting scene to be featured at the hunt ball to be held at the Mayflower on Saturday evening, May 17, as a climax to the festivities of horse show week. Prizes will be awarded for the smartest riding togs—masculine and feminine—worn at the ball.

Among those who have taken boxes are Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, jr., Mr. and Mrs. George T. Marye, Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Coolican and Mr. Charles Delmar.

WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?

WHEN the above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge, South bid one Heart, West passed and North bid one Spade, East passed and South bid one No Trump, which ended the auction.

In the play West led his Trey of Clubs. East won with the Ace and returned the Jack, West won and led a third Club, which East won with the Ten, and led the Eight to the fourth trick. West played his Nine and then cashed his thirteenth Club, so the adversaries started by winning five Club tricks. Closed hand, embarrassed by being obliged to make three discards, parted with two Hearts and one Diamond.

After that, West led a Spade and Declarer finessed the Queen in dummy; East won and led a Heart. Again Declarer finessed, playing the Jack; and West won with the Queen. This made seven tricks for the adversaries. Another Spade was led by West, but this time the Declarer did not finesse; he took with dummy's Ace, South discarding a Diamond. Dummy, then led a Diamond, and that finesse succeeded; so Declarer made the remaining tricks and went down one.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT BIDDING AND PLAY.

Declarer stored up trouble for himself by his second bid. Two Diamonds would have been much better than one No Trump, and game would have been made at Diamonds without difficulty because the Diamond finesse would have been the only one necessary to try. After capturing the adverse Diamonds in two leads by finesse, dummy would have two trumps left to ruff South's losing Hearts; consequently the adversaries would win only the two Club tricks that they would take at the start.

Had the hand been played in a game of Contract, the sound bidding would have been: South two Hearts, West pass, North two Spades, East pass, South three Diamonds, West pass, North four Diamonds, East pass, and South five Diamonds.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

COCONUT SNOW BALLS.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

These delicious coconut cakes will be appreciated by any one who likes the flavor of fresh coconut. Bake an angel food cake by any preferred recipe, such as the one found in Farmers Bulletin 1450-F, "Home Baking." Make vanilla frosting by the method recommended by the bureau, putting all the ingredients into the top of a double boiler and beating them over hot water with a dover beater for 7 or 8 minutes until they begin to thicken. The amount needed will require 3 cups of granulated sugar, 3 egg whites, 12 tablespoons of cold water, a pinch of salt and a teaspoon and a half of vanilla, added when the frosting is nearly thick enough. This frosting is made after the cake has become cold and has been cut up into 75 or 100 pieces of uniform size.

Keep the frosting over hot water and drop in two or three pieces of the cake at one time. Turn the pieces of cake over with a fork until well coated. Remove from the frosting and roll the cake in finely grated fresh coconut. Press into the shape of a ball with the tips of the fingers. When well-coated and evenly-shaped place the cake on waxed paper. Allow them to dry for 2 or 3 hours.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, May 3, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 15.00 cents to 22.50 cents per pound and averaged 19.01 cents per pound.—Adv.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Frills to delight the feminine heart in this grey georgette afternoon frock. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris).

Paris, May 5.

COMING to Paris this summer to while away a few summer suns and low-hanging moons? Going to that newest and smartest of all cafes, where princesses who really have titles, and Cinderellas who dream that they have, glide gracefully to the beat of a lazy tango? And after a round of luxurious living, sail back again on one of the luxurious steamers, perhaps, where evening finds you dressing for dinner and the dance in one of your heavenly new gowns with a Paris label in it?

Or are you just too busy at home with a round of social functions to get away right now? But still evening finds you dressing for dinner and the dance—and your gown must have a Paris look even if it hasn't a label!

You may choose for this gown a printed taffeta, printed chiffon, heavy crepe marocain, georgette or crepe de chine, a tulle or coarse fishnet or lace, perhaps a satin, but probably not. That for materials! For colors, there'll be lots of black, a bit of brown and all the pastel shades and white.

Back decolletage is still smart, but not inevitable. The silhouette is slim in the bodice and waistline and then begins to flare into much fullness at the bottom. I won't even tell you that the skirt must be very long, down to the ankles all around usually, or a slight rise in front is permitted—for you know all about this length business by now.

Our favorite color! Yes, you've guessed it . . it is gray with silver buckles, hand hemstitched and flounced all over the place without being fussy. Martial et Armand is the designer, and nobody else in the whole wide world is ever going to sketch it for you but me!

• • • •

Mme. LeMonnier has designed and had woven a special kind of crepe for hats, that is constructed to lend itself to hats and hat-making, to pleats and LeMonnier manipulations. So I have sketched one of her cute little hats made of two shades of crepe, red and blue. And then another hat, whimsical and chic, and likewise very typical of this house, made one side of light blue horsehair with a cunning little bow, and the other side of light blue felt.

• • • •

Maybe the woman whose clever fingers made the last hat you bought wasn't exactly born a milliner . . . she probably didn't even have a grandmother or a great-grandmother who was a milliner. But some one told her how to go about it, and now she's making delightful little hats that you don't mind paying lots and lots of money for. But if she can do that, then all you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and with the illustrated leaflet you get in return, and so many yards of horsehair braid and a few flowers or a feather you'll soon have an adorable dinner hat! So send that envelope!

• • • •

Our Mode Primer.

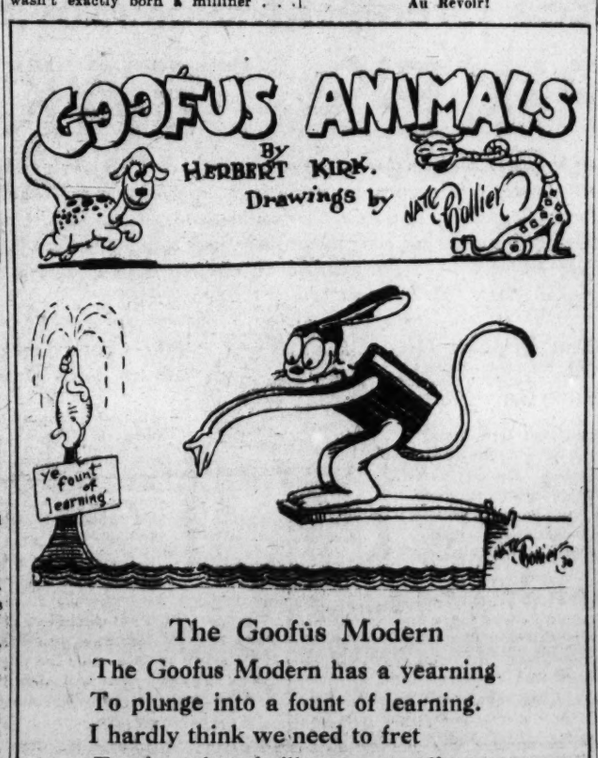

Riding togs have not changed materially except that there is a general air of more informality when informality is in order. A soft felt hat or beret, for instance, may be worn in place of the tricorn, and an open-throated crepe de chine blouse in place of the more formal four-in-hand or stock

Riding suits of pastel colored shantung or linen for summer wear, though not new, are more generally worn.

• • • •

Then there's the weekly Dare fashion letter which you should read every Sunday in the big Washington Post.

Au Revoir!

The Goofus Modern

The Goofus Modern has a yearning
To plunge into a fount of learning.
I hardly think we need to fret
For fear that she'll come out all wet—
For founts of learning, much like fire,

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:40 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Influences for this date are positive, but their forces are misdirected, and will bring about chaos. Few of yesterday's prophesied certainties will materialize. Avoid travel if possible. Postpone anything requiring careful thought.

The child born on this May 6 will have a pugnacious nature, a superiority complex, and will always want to appear greater than it really is. If allowed, it will have temper tantrums, at which time it will try to overcome all measures of discipline. It will have a quick mind.

You have mastered the art of living gracefully. Your healing powers of fine sense and tact win all along the way. Because of your dextrous touch of understanding, and the knowledge of when to keep silent, and when to hold one's peace, you are an ideally happy companion. You realize that so many things can be set right by never mentioning them. You never ruffle and you never intrude. You do not thrust ugly facts in front of others. You give your associates a pleasant sense of security in themselves, because you spot in them the little hidden charms and strengths they are scarcely aware of and ignore the defects. If one dares to think differently than you, they are not thought "funny." You know how to be sincere without being blunt—you soften your criticisms by emphasizing other charms or good points.

You are not afraid to take chances in life, and if your gamble fails your morale is not shattered. You usually know your hand, and you do not overbid it, in the bigger games of life. Although sometimes large, your risks are sound. There is a great deal of enthusiasm in your nature, but you do not allow yourself to be carried away by your exuberances. If a woman, you will make your home a cozy, kindly shelter against the storms of life.

Successful people born May 6:
1. Robert E. Peary, Arctic explorer.
2. Edward Thomas Devine, lecturer and author.
3. Crown Prince of Germany.
4. William Bowie, engineer.
5. William Edmund Scripps, president, Scripps Motor Co.
6. Oscar W. Underwood, senator.

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to prevent asters from blighting.
MISS SARAH B. T.

One of the best authorities in the horticultural world tells us to "put the seed in cheesecloth and soak same for 30 minutes in 90 degrees Fahrenheit warm water. Then dissolve 15 grains of bichloride of mercury (poison) in warm water and soak seed for 30 minutes in this solution, and rinse in clean water. Dry the seeds in a cool and shady place." With this treatment he suggests that we will have only a few diseased plants in a large patch.

During the early fall I cut some begonia plants back almost to the roots. Then transplanted the roots. These plants are now about 10 inches high. Now I notice worm holes in the soil and I find that the main stems of the plants are being eaten away. Please tell me how to get rid of these crawlers.
MRS. WILLIAM H.

Pour about three applications of weak lime water over the soil in sufficient quantity to moisten all the loam in the pots. Make these applications about three days apart.

Please tell me the name of the plant of which I am inclosing a few leaves, also its care.
MRS. W. E. D.

The leaves were from a maidenhair fern (adiantum). This variety is really only fitted for conservatory or greenhouse use. It requires a warm moist atmosphere and a great deal of moisture. It is impossible to supply the warm, moist atmosphere in a modern dwelling.

Please tell me what to do for my Easter lily. Having the bulb in a dry cellar, it began to sprout. That was about two months ago. I immediately potted it and now see that it has long shoots which appear quite healthy. Please tell me the next step in the care of the plant. MRS. A. P.

Keep the plant in a warm, sunny, well-ventilated place and water it every day. It will likely bloom in the pot, after which permit the bulb to rest for at least two months. It will then be ready to plant in the open border. Here, with only a little winter protection such as dead leaves or litter, it will continue to bloom each summer.

Please tell me something about the culture of heleniums. I want to grow some this season for the first time.
HELEN D. L.

Heleniums are vigorous-growing plants which thrive in any soil and even under adverse conditions. They should be transplanted frequently because they spread rapidly.

Please tell me if the sweet rocket requires a shady or a sunny location.
MISS ANN K. L.

Sweet rockets thrive in sun or shade in any good garden loam. Being closely related to the cabbage, they are sometimes affected with the cabbage worm, in which case they should be sprayed with arsenate of lead.

Please tell me how to grow marsh mallows successfully. MABLE D. K.

Mallows prefer a moist soil, although they will do well in a dry soil and in sun or partial shade. The plants die down to the ground during the winter. They grow very rapidly and require very little care. Before severe weather sets in mulch the plants with dead leaves or litter. Keep them well watered the first season.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Hebrew Congregation Plans Benefit.

The Sister of Washington Hebrew Congregation will stage "A Day in Monte Carlo" at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Woodmont Country Club. A style show will be a feature of the benefit presentation.

Wives of Tomorrow

"Are We Inconsistent."

Mrs. "T. J. M." accuses us of rank inconsistency because we advised a young mother to remain with her husband despite his infatuation for a young girl, while we advised another to leave her husband under similar provocation. Apparently Mrs. T. J. M. believes our advice to women should be based upon our personal approval or disapproval of divorce, and that we should administer the same dose regardless of the diagnosis.

Well that isn't the way it works at all! We may or may not consider divorce the universal cure-all for domestic ills. But whatever one's personal opinion we try to consider the actual facts involved. If a husband is flagrantly and habitually unfaithful, that is one set of circumstances. If he is definitely guilty of infidelity that is a set of circumstances. If he is just temporarily entangled that is a different set of circumstances, and if he is repentant and is a good father that is another set of circumstances, and so on, while always the number of helpless children involved in the upheaval, the ability of the mother to improve her condition, and the general rating of the man as a man rather than merely a husband all must be considered.

If our experience in these matters was less comprehensive we might be found handling out set formulae—divorce for this, and for that regardless. But we have seen enough of domestic tangles to know that some men deserve a second chance and some do not, and that sometimes the wife is the one to blame for man's misdeeds, and that in all cases, reconciliation is the best solution if there is even one child involved.

So in justice to those who seek help from our experience we must continue to appear "a most inconsistent writer" for to us no two cases seem just exactly alike.

Sorry Mrs. T. J. M. but this is serious business!

ELBOW MACARONI SALAD.

½ package Elbow macaroni
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup chopped celery
¼ cup diced pimento
¼ cup chopped sweet pickle
½ cup tomatoes, cut in pieces
1 cup Thousand Island Dressing.
1 head lettuce.

Boil the Elbow macaroni for nine minutes in 2 quarts rapidly boiling water, to which ½ tablespoon salt has been added. Drain and chill. Cut in small pieces and season with salt and pepper. Add the celeery, pimento, pickle and tomatoes. Mix with Thousand Island Dressing, tossing together lightly with a fork. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Capers make a good addition to this salad and the tomato may be omitted if desired. This is an excellent way to use macaroni left over from the day before.

POLI'S

Several members of the original company staged a revival of "Abie's Irish Rose" last night in Poli's before an appreciative audience. Of course, there were several of the original company—some members of other companies that have played "Abie" here, there, and yon. It is, perhaps the most played of all plays American-made, and it still carries a punch.

The story of the marriage of an Irish girl to a Jewish boy and the long and bitter wrangling that goes on between the heads of the two houses is one that ranks almost with the celebrated feud between the Capulets and the Montagues—if Shakespeare has no objection to this. At any rate, it's a great conflict—and of these things, conflict and contrast, drama is born.

In the cast this time are Harry Mark Stewart as Isaac Cohen; Ida Kramer as Mrs. Isaac Cohen; Jack Berten as the rabbi; Alfred White as Solomon Levi; William McFadden as the boy in the case; Kathleen Robinson as Rosemary Murphy, the girl; Charles W. Ritchie as Patrick Murphy, the Irish father, and Harry Bradley as Father Whalen.

'Twas Harry Brady who first appeared in the robes of the priest, played the part some five years on Broadway and is still at it. There is a saying that he has played the part so long he look's like a cleric even when he is in street garb. The other old-timers here are Ida Kramer and Alfred White.

Naturally, these people play "Abie" as "Abie" is supposed to be played.

NATIONAL

"Wooden Kimono," introduced by the National Theater Players last night, is an uproarious combination of the conventional mystery play and slapstick burlesque. There has been nothing quite like it seen in these parts since the late lamented "Gorilla," which started out to be a mystery thriller when it should have been a farce and ended up by being both.

All of the usual thrill-producing apparatus, secret stairways, mysterious openings in walls, a stethoscope which serves as a dictaphone, hands reaching out of coffins, dead men that disappear, &c., are utilized to their full effect. In fact, they would appear to be overtrained were it not for the saving garnishment of humor. The piece is so chock full of mystery that it would be funny in spite of itself, so the author very wisely decided to introduce a little more humor and produce the combination result heretofore mentioned.

Plots should not be discussed in reviews of mystery plays, of course, which is no handicap in this particular instance for the plot is nothing to produce a riot. To be specific, it has a lot of loose ends trailing hither and yon when the final curtain falls but the audience doesn't mind that. Everyone has had quite enough by that time.

The regular performers of the National Theater group turn in their usual workman-like performances. ness, Freddie Sherman as the conventional hick sheriff, Walter Gilbert and Romaine Callender in twin versions of the same character, Marion Wells as the heroine, and Edith Gresham as the heroine's neurotic traveling companion, and several others.

The audience last night demonstrated that there are plenty of folks hereabouts who like their entertainment after a roly poly model. For such this piece is highly recommended.

Court Absence Reveals Detective's Marriage

The secret marriage of Detective William McEwen, of the Eighth Precinct, was revealed yesterday in Police Court when he failed to show up to testify in several liquor cases which were scheduled for trial. Detective W. R. Raflin, also of the Eighth Precinct, McEwen's running mate, broke the news to Assistant United States Attorney Julian I. Richards when the latter was preparing to call one of the cases for trial.

McEwen, according to Laflin, was married several days ago to Miss Dorothy Bowers, of Richmond, Va., and they are now honeymooning at Ocean View, Va. Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of Municipal Court, officiated at the ceremony.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IT seems to me that Bert Lahr, the broadly comic funster with whom Kate Smith is now playing in "Flying High" at George White's Apollo Theater in New York, is laying it on a bit thick when he berates Joe E. Brown for having appropriated some of his mannerisms and stage business in the screen version of "Hold Everything," now at the Metropolitan.

In the first place, to these aged eyes Bert and Joe are not so much as one small whit alike. In the reading of one line there may be a slight similarity in intonation, but, even so, more than one person might be able to give the same sound to that gem of humor, "Whassa idea?" Whether they could or not, how does Bert Lahr get that way?

Since when has it been theft for a stock actor, a lead in a number two company, an amateur, or any one else sanctioned to play a part, to play it with the same reading and the same stage business as was originated by its creator? According to Mr. Lahr, every time a new actor essayed any given part he would have to create a complete new treatment of that part. If the part is any good at all, it will not be amenable to that many treatments.

Perhaps the trouble is that Mr. Lahr has just discovered that Mr. Brown is as funny as he is himself. Or maybe funnier!

While a great deal of the crass suggestiveness and needless vulgarity has been deleted from the camera version of Ursula Parrott's fable of "Ex-Wife," current at the Columbia under the title of "The Divorcee," with Norma Shearer in the name role, it has been rendered so vivid in another regard that one sequence is no less than harrowing.

In the scene where Conrad Nagel, driving while drunk, wrecks his car and hideously disfigures the girl whom he subsequently marries, the accident is lent the last word in blood-chilling realism by the manner in which it has been enacted, under the direction of Robert Z. Leonard. Never have I heard such agonizing shrieks as smite the ear when Dorothy's sister realizes what has happened and tells Paul what she thinks about it.

In the old silent days this would have been an episode of no particular novelty or impressiveness, but made audible, the chills are still chasing each other up and down my back after thirty-six hours!

Having taken special pains to write it "If" in Monday's review, underline it with pencil and mark the copy "lit." in the margin, the inspired compositor, who rewrites all of my stuff for me, made me say that Joe E. Brown bragged about having "it" in "Hold Everything", at the Met.

If you are looking for a spot where you can have your gags denatured and rendered completely and permanently null and void while you wait, I can show it to you.

The Society of Motion Picture Engineers, boasting a total membership of some 700, is holding its twenty-eighth annual spring meeting at the Wardman Park Hotel this week, Monday through Thursday. In excess of 300 members are in attendance, including among the leaders C. Francis Jenkins, of Washington, famous for his developments in the field of the motion picture and television. Mr. Jenkins was one of the founders of the society fourteen years ago.

During their meetings more than fifty papers will be read setting forth the latest developments in talkies, color photography, television, home radio movies and other new phases of the industry.

If the lads in the projection booths were ever good in their lives they had better be this week!

Sign in front of a movie theater: "'The Good-Bye Kiss' with sound'!"

And then the radio announcer said, if Mr. Heinl will pardon the intrusion, "'Singing in the Bathtub,' by permission of the copyright holder'."

Since the palaces of the cinema are all still operating their heating instead of their cooling systems, if I was sure this weather was on the level I'd try leaving off the spats.

And how are you getting along with your dialing?

CONOCO'S CHALLENGE CONFIRMED!

PIKE'S PEAK!

Now it can be told... the true story of motor oil merit! For this was a test of America's representative motor oils in competition! A daring thing for CONOCO to do, done in confidence. Confidence based on the now-proven advantages of Germ-Processed oils... These tests brought out facts about motor oils which should affect the pocketbook of every motorist . . . Facts which we believe should force a swinging to Germ-Processed Motor Oils by every reader of our message.

Three Other Popular Oils Were Tried . . . Side By Side With CONOCO Germ-Processed

Other oils often have been "tested" on speedways, in cross-country dashes, and over the ocean. But they were "tested" only against operating conditions! CONOCO'S Germ-Processed oil was proven against operating conditions, and in comparison with other oils as well!

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST
All performance claims herewith made are based on a Certificate of Performance issued by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association
No. 2260

The CONOCO Germ-Processed oil proved its superiority in the Pike's Peak Tests and with such finality, that now all motorists will know the facts . . . know how the wearing grinds up to the top of Pike's Peak and down again, up and down again, and again, showed each oil in its true colors . . . and how the Germ-Processed film so defied the clawing talons of friction that test thermometers showed lessened water and oil temperatures, to the amazement of disinterested engineers!

Pike's Peak Tests Conducted Under AAA Supervision . .

American Automobile Association observers purchased all oils used in the open market, placed them in separate containers, marked them with a code letter, and locked them up. All crankcase fillings were made by AAA observers who then sealed the inlets and outlets of each motor. All gasoline allotments, every temperature reading, every micrometer measurement, every test was checked by an AAA observer. During every moment of the test, an AAA observer was riding in each car. The records of this test were initialed by an AAA observer as each entry of fact was made, and will be shown to any person on request to the company.

Motor Parts Were Measured After Each Oil Was Tried

Cylinders were measured with a micrometer, at top and bottom, pistons likewise, and the cylinder taper accurately recorded, after each oil was tested. These measurements were accurate to one ten-thousandths of an inch. This is what the reports of the test developed. Comparing the wear with the use of CONOCO Germ-Processed oils against average wear with the other oils, showed a decrease in wear in favor of CONOCO Germ-Processed oils of 76.4%.

CONOCO'S Superiority Was Proven Under AAA Supervision

Lubricity means slipperiness, smoothness, and lower co-efficient of friction, as compared to another oil. The Extra Lubricity of CONOCO'S Germ-Processed oils is due to its amazing ability to penetrate metal surfaces! Thus, we believe Germ-Processed oil brings a lubricity, a minimum of friction to your motor because it becomes a part of the motor metal.

CONOCO gives you facts... The Pike's Peak Tests reveal that your automobile motor can last longer . . . that your operating expenses can be lowered! Will you drive in today, at the Sign of the Red Triangle?

Fire Insurance
a Key to Low Prices

Few have a true appreciation of the far-reaching effect of Stock Fire Insurance in holding down the cost of all merchandise.

No less authority than the Encyclopedia Britannica contributes a "testimonial" as follows:

"In the United States, as in no other country, has insurance in all its various phases become universally recognized as an essential of commerce and industry. To this fact may be attributed in large measure the achievements of America in business enterprises.

"Insurance encourages men and corporations to hazard their resources on new developments without fear of loss from natural and unavoidable catastrophes."

At every turn in the processing of materials—storage, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling, retailing—the protection of Stock Fire Insurance contributes that indispensable element of certainty without loading prices for speculative risk.

By paying a premium which on the average is only a fraction of 1% of the amount insured, business transfers to the Stock Fire Insurance companies what would otherwise be an oppressive carrying charge against the risk of destruction by fire.

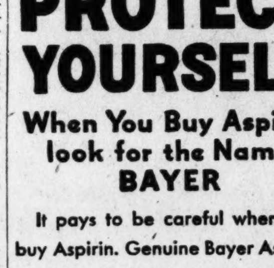

The 239 Stock Fire Insurance companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters have rendered their services at an average price that has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kittaning paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Bassett, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.

HIGH LIGHTS OF GREAT WORLD WAR

Vive La France

After eighteen days aboard the S. S. Covington (formerly the Cincinnati) we landed at St. Nazaire, France, in the latter part of October, 1917. Our commanding officer called us together and gave us some good advice about our conduct ashore before giving us a few hours' liberty in the town. We immediately met up with some French soldiers and joined them on a tour of the town.

We finally arrived at a typical French bar and seated ourselves at a long table. French on one side and Americans on the other. After a few rounds of drinks a French soldier got up and made a speech which was evidently one of welcome, although none of us understood a single word. At the conclusion of the speech each Frenchman leaned across the table and kissed the American opposite. (I drew a bird with big long whiskers all wet with wine).

Of course, this was much to our embarrassment until one of our compatriots arose to the occasion and recited "Ten Nights in a Barroom" —with appropriate gestures. * * * Evidently the French understood as little English as we did French and the oratory went over big.

A Blighted Romance

One morning I entered the French Officer's ward of our improvised hospital in Royaulieu, near Compiegne, where I was doing American Red Cross Aid work. As I entered I became conscious that all the men were silent and all were looking at me I approached the bed of one Major—a strikingly handsome man who had lost his right hand. In answer to my usual greeting of "How are you today?" he shook his head and looked at me very seriously.

"You loved me once when you were young and foolish" he solemnly said.

It rather took me off my feet and I was speechless for a moment as I had spent considerable time in France when I was young—and probably more or less foolish—and I groped in my mind to see if I could recall ever having met this man before. Then he repeated it and by this time I was annoyed.

He saw how I felt and suddenly said, "Isn't that right," while he pulled an English book from beneath his pillow. Then he read the words slowly "you-loved-me-once-when-you-were-young-and-foolish.

Needless to say every one in the ward gave me a merry Ha, Ha . . . but, I had my innings later when I saw him try the same thing on other American girls.

An Ill Wind, &c.

During the war the Atlantic fleet led a monotonous existence. Based at Yorktown, Va., it cruised in the general direction of Bermuda, made a wide circle and cruised back to that desolate spot of pines and mud banks. When the fleet weighed anchor the hope was invariably expressed by officers and enlisted men alike that it would anchor next at Port Jefferson, N. Y., known as Base 10. However, nothing was ever confided to them as to their destination, and when land was seen next it was the good old York River. Therefore leave and recreation elsewhere were something to dream about.

One day I was on watch in the cage mast of the U. S. S. New Jersey, having under my command four bluejackets. Our duty was to watch for submarines and in case we sighted any to direct the fire of the torpedo defense battery of light guns on the deck below. We were cruising in line of bearing with the other ships of our division, the Virginia, flagship, being just ahead of us. "Line of bearing" is a diagonal formation, in which ships heading in the same direction of the compass have the ship ahead on the starboard bow.

Admiral Mayo, commander of the Atlantic fleet, was cruising in the Pennsylvania, with the three oldest ships in the fleet, as was his custom. These four ships were about a mile on our right hand and cruising parallel to our course. Without warning the Pennsylvania made a 90-degree turn to the left, which made her head directly across our bows. As the other ships of that division followed suit, this maneuver placed us in a right angle made up of these four ships under Admiral Mayo. A heavy gale was blowing at the time, and as it takes some time to stop the headway of a battleship which is cruising at full speed, we could see that our entire division was in danger of a collision with Admiral Mayo's division. Almost before we could realize it we were nearing a collision. From our point of vantage in the mast we could see the whole situation clearly and we could see no way out of a collision.

Capt. Charles B. McVay, captain of the U. S. S. New Jersey, now an admiral, and a very efficient officer, saw the danger and coolly gave instructions to the helmsman as the Virginia, turning, headed toward our bow. If she had struck us as she was headed, serious damage would have resulted and our ship might even have been sunk. But Capt. McVay, working the New Jersey's engines astern, backed her around so that when the Virginia crashed into us she struck us broadside instead of with her sharp nose, and although the concussion was terrific, no serious damage resulted.

Through all the suspense of this inevitable collision, the enlisted men with me in the mast top looked on with great interest, speculating on our chances. When the two vessels struck, the mast quivered violently for a moment and then was still. Immediately one "Gob," hungry for shore leave and looking forward to the joys of being ashore in a city, exclaimed, "Hurray! Now we'll have to go to a navy yard for repairs!"

Elevated food shelves that eliminate stooping.

Permanently quiet operation —the result of recent and outstanding improvements and refinements.

Low cost. Frigidaire prices are low and the operating cost is but a few cents a day.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

May 6, 1905.

With the Monument Lot covered by 71 buildings, large and small, containing machinery of 275 exhibitors and representing the highest mechanical developments of the modern railways; with 2,000 feet of track supporting the latest models of steam engines, freight, passenger and mail cars, with hundreds of flags flying over the miniature city and several hundred of the world's foremost railway officials in the city, the American Railway Appliance Exhibition was opened to the public today.

George W. Beavers, former head of the division of allowances and salaries of the Postoffice Department, yesterday pleaded not guilty to the seven indictments against him and was released on $20,000 bond furnished for him by former Chief of Police Samuel H. Walker.

Tech defeated Eastern in the opening game of the interhigh series. Commissioner MacFarland threw out the opening ball.

James J. Jeffries, champion heavyweight, will retire from the ring to go on the stage it was announced today. Jeffries is quoted as saying his retirement from the ring was due to the fact that the ring did not pay.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

CHASING FLU TO SOURCE.

DRS. E. F. TRAUB AND R. D. HERROLD think they have discovered either the cause of influenza or an important contributing cause. They go a step further, reporting successful efforts to prevent influenza by the use of a vaccine. A skin test for diagnosing susceptibility similar to the Schick test for diphtheria. They even tell about the use of a serum for the disease.

The cocci which they think is a cause is one of the streptococci and probably one that has been under suspicion for several years. It is suggestive that this streptococcus group furnish all the microbes except one accused of being the cause of this desease during the past thirteen years. They found two cocci growing together on culture media and presenting to the unaided eye an appearance by which diagnosis could be made.

From these cultures they made a vaccine which they found to be of great service. Some people they thought were immune as the result of attacts of influenza years before. Others were immune because of exposure during the earlier days of this epidemic. Still others they made immune by vaccination. They go on record as favoring vaccination. Of the many methods used against influenza in 1918 none accomplished anything except vaccination and it made no showing that could be boasted of. At that, since 1918, it has been the one ray of hope for deliverance from future epidemics.

Drs. Traub and Herrold commit themselves to the skin tests. The men fighting influenza need a good, simple, diagnostic test more than they need a vaccine or a curative serum. As to the curative serum, or whatever one chooses to call it, these investigators briefly tell of their experience and let the facts speak for themselves. They express no opinion. It is now sixty-six weeks since the 1928 epidemic was at its peak. It seems certain that the Brownlee theory will not hold true for this spring. The end of the next thirty-three week period will fall in October, 1930.

THAT DOES SETTLE IT.

Mrs. M. O. S. writes: I have seen letters several times about warts. I have a very simple and sure remedy.

Take a piece of bacon rind and rub over the wart, and then bury it on the east side of the house, (deep enough that nothing will scratch it out), and as the bacon decays the warts will disappear. Do this only once. I had warts on the end of two fingers for months. They would crack and bleed at times. A friend told me about this and in a month my fingers were all clear and I have had no return. My son had a hanging wart just below the eye for several years. I used the bacon rind on it and it disappeared.

I think this is too good to keep and that is why I am sending it to you for your readers.

REPLY.

That settles it.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The notorious fraud, the heavyweight championship of the world, is to be awarded again this year with an official department of the New York State government serving as a party to the match. The power of this imaginary title to fascinate the customers would be beyond the understanding of any one who approached the subject believing prize fighting to be a sport.

Fortunately for the gentlemen of the racket, nobody regards prize fighting as anything but a racket nowadays, and the heavyweight championship is quite plainly understood to be just what it is.

In all respectable sports the champions put their titles up for challenge in regular annual tournaments of one kind or another and play through from the opening round until they are beaten, as many of them are, or prove their right to another's possession.

Champs in Other Sports Put Title in Jeopardy.

If Bobby Jones meets an unknown golfer who is playing over his head on a day when he, Mr. Jones, is not at his best and is beaten, as he was in the opening round of the national amateur tournament last year, he drops out. Mr. Jones will not be amateur champion until he plays through another tournament and wins his title back in the final match.

Similarly in the national amateur boxing tournaments, all champions cease to be champions unless they appear to defend their titles, and if they do appear they must fight through every round, barring byes. Neither is the man who beats the champion in the opening round allowed to walk off with the title, as he would be in the prize fight racket. On the contrary, he must go on fighting, subject to the usual risks.

In professional and amateur baseball the clubs which win the pennants place their championships in competition on the opening date of the season next ensuing, but in prize fighting the champions operate under a special immunity in which they are protected by the very people who, of all people, should exert themselves to compel some pretense of sporting competition, the prize fight commissioners.

N. Y. Boxing Body's Approval Worth Million.

Of course, the commissioners, as a class, are mere policemen appointed to regulate a racket, and while nobody can expect them to impose the ethics and customs of sport on a racket which draws so many of its leading spirits from the dives and the rogues' galleries, the least that can be expected of them is that they turn in their commissions and resign.

In the present instance the New York prize fight commissioners who hold appointments from the governor of the State have lent the authority of their office to a prize fi[illegible] between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey, calling this a heavyweight championship contest. In doing this they have conferred a value of at least $1,000,000 on a victor in a bout between two sets of business men who, naturally, would go to extraordinary lengths to acquire a $1,000,000 asset.

In fact, I do not know of any group of business men who would not go to extraordinary lengths to acquire a million-dollar property, but in this case it was not actually necessary for the prize fight commissioners to set up such a temptation to larceny, nor was it any of their duty to create a heavyweight champion. He will be recognized readily enough, you may be sure, when a real one comes along.

O. K. Seen as Compliment To Muldoon.

I suspect that the New York prize fight commissioners decided on this as a personal compliment to one of their number, Mr. Muldoon, who takes great pride in his personal honesty, and by a strange contradiction also takes pride in the fact that his name stands on the Muldoon-Tunney Trophy, a rather dull monument, done in bronze, which stands as a convenient match striker in the lobby of the new Garden, the trophy of success in the racket. Mr. Muldoon probably wants some action and

Hilltop Tennis Team Beats G. W., 5-4

Mangin in Straight-Set Victory Over Considine.

Close Doubles Play Decides With Foes Tied at 4-All.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY'S TENNIS TEAM withstood a determined attack of the George Washington University netmen yesterday on the Columbia Country Club courts when, with the match standing square at 4-all, the doubles team of Gregory Mangin and Kip Callan defeated Bob Considine and Larry Phillips in the deciding set of the last match of the day.

The last set gave the Georgetown twosome two out of three sets and the Hilltop team the decision, 5 to 4.

It was only the third defeat in two years on the court for the Colonials, who were meeting the Hilltoppers for the first time.

The George Washington pair made a great bid to bring fame to their school when they rallied to take the second set at 9—7 after losing the first, 6—3. Spectacular tennis was on exhibition with sparkling bits of play by making seemingly impossible shots which drew forth applause from the gallery.

G. U. Can Not Hold Lead In Decisive Set.

After getting a 1—0 lead in the final set, however, the Buff and Blue Team was unable to stem the tide of victory scented by their opponents. Mangin tied the score on his serve and when Phillips lost his serve, the Georgetown Team took a lead which was never overcome. Considine's serve brought George Washington to within one game of the leaders at 3—2, but Georgetown won two of the next three games and gained victory when Callan's serve made the final set 6—3.

That George Washington made such a bid to keep on even terms with the Hilltoppers is due entirely to the work of its second-string players who brought victory in three singles matches and one doubles affair. Both Considine and Phillips, Nos. 1 and 2 of George Washington, lost their singles matches, the former bowing to Mangin in two straight sets in the feature match of the day. However, Edge, Seidell and Allan came through for George Washington in the singles and Edge and Allan triumphed in the doubles.

SINGLES — Mangin (Georgetown) defeated Considine, 6—2, 6—3; Mitchell (Georgetown) defeated Phillips, 6—3, 6—1. Doyle (Georgetown) defeated Staubly, 7—5, 8—6; Seidell (G. W.) defeated Callan, 6—2, 6—3; Edge (G. W.) defeated Pougnet, 6—4, 6—2; Alan (G. W.) defeated Berberich, 6—3, 5—7, 6—2.
DOUBLES—Edge and Alan (G. W.) defeated Yeomans and Berberich, 6—4, 6—2; Doyle and Mitchell (Georgetown) defeated Staubly and Seidell, 6—2, 5—7, 6—3; Mangin and Callan (Georgetown) defeated Considine and Phillips, 6—3, 7—9, 6—3.

BOZEK STARS AS G. U. NINE WINS, 8-3

His Al-lAround Play Feature as Temple Is Defeated.

WHEN Johnnly Bozek hit a home run for Georgetown against Seton Hall last Saturday, he started coming out of a slump that had been one of the few disappointing features of the Hilltoppers' play this season.

Yesterday found Johnny still coming out and when Georgetown had finished administering an 8-to-3 defeat on Temple University's Nine, he had left the slump flat in the dust of Washington Barracks diamond The victory was Georgetown's sixth straight and sixteenth in eighteen games

It was a clear, hot day, but Johnny's bat made thunder and his feet clattered noisily on the base paths and the plate. He blasted three singles in as many official times at bat stole three bases, scored three runs and made a sacrifice fly that accounted for another run.

Bozek Makes Fanciest Catch of Year.

That wasn't all. Our boy John also turned in the fanciest catch seen in a Georgetown game this year. He did it at the expense of Pete Leaness, Temple third baseman, in the third inning, galloping miles to his left to haul down a foul fly which the breeze was apparently carrying out of his reach.

While the former Gonzaga High flash was disporting so cleverly, the rest of the Hilltoppers were not loafing, as the final result indicates.

Capt. Ralph McCarthy, center fielder, the leading local college hitter, with an average of over .400, prolonged his safe swatting streak to eighteen games, all that Georgetown has played to date. He poled out a home run with Bozek aboard in the first round and singled twice thereafter. The outfielder who chased his home run should have been allowed a motorcycle to make the return.

Phil Mooney, first baseman, continued his recent heavy hitting, smashing a circuit drive and a single, while Frank Bauman, midget shortstop, who has been subbing for the injured Johnny Dunn, made three singles in four turns at the tee, and handled nine fielding chances without a slip. He figured in all three of Georgetown's double plays, once spearing a liner over his head and doubling a runner at first.

Bill Melrose, sophomore righthander, was the Temple pitcher used so roughly. The Owls' coach kept him in there, however, until the bases were loaded and all of Georgetown's sixteen hits had been chalked up in the eighth inning. Cy Williams relieved him and retired the side.

Gomez, of Yanks, Halts White Sox, 4-1, in Debut

New York, May 6 (A.P.).—Making his first major league start, Vernon Gomez, 19-year-old Yankee rookie southpaw, held the White Sox to five hits today as New York defeated Chicago, 4 to 1. The victory gave the Yanks three out of four in the current series at the stadium.

The youthful discovery, who last year led the Pacific Coast League pitchers as a member of the San Francisco Seals, gave a masterful exhibition of hurling. In addition to giving the Sox but five hits, he struck out six batters, including the first three men to face him in the opening inning. Faber also fanned six batsmen, but an error by the veteran spitballer in the seventh paved the way to his downfall.

GIANTS BEAT PIRATES FOR LEAD, 9-1

Pitcher Walker Wins Own Game by Home Run With 3 On.

PITTSBURGH, May 6. (A.P.)—Bill Walker's southpaw slants abetted by his home run with the bases full sent the New York Giants into first place in the National League pennant race today as the Pirates were defeated 9 to 1.

Walker blanked the Pirates for eight rounds, handing out only three hits. George Grantham's home run in the ninth, however, spoiled the otherwise brilliant performance. In addition to giving a masterful exhibition of holding the usually hard hitting Pirates, Walker won his game in the fourth with his home run with the bases loaded.

Larry French pitched eight innings for Pittsburgh and was combed for six of the nine runs. He retired in the eighth for a pinch hitter and Heinie Meine finished, being scored on three times in the last innings.

Ford's 4 Long Hits Help Reds Win, 10-6

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 5 (A.P.).—Four extra-base hits by Horace Ford, Cincinnati short stop, who punished the ball for three doubles and a triple and drove in four runs besides scoring twice himself, today aided the Reds to drive Burleigh Grimes from the box and win a 10-to-6 slugfest from the Braves. Red Lucas was hit freely but had only one bad inning, the sixth, when Boston scored five runs. Berger, pinch hitting in that inning, knocked a home run with two on base.

Macks Defeat Browns, Tie For Lead

Champions Score All Runs by Homers Off Crowder.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5 (A.P.)—Scoring all their runs on homers, the Philadelphia Athletics today won their fifth game in succession and the opener of the series from the St. Louis Browns by the score of 4 to 3 in twelve innings, and went into a tie for the league lead with the Indians, who lost to Boston.

St. Louis got to Lefty Grove for one run in the first inning and two in the second for a 3-to-0 lead. The Mackmen then began to club their boundary blows. Joe Boley hit the first of his two in the third inning, and his second followed in the fifth.

Mule Haas lashed his first home run of the season in the sixth, tying the score at 3 to 3. Al Simmons, first up in the twelfth stanza, broke the tie by hitting his fifth circuit drive of the season into the stands behind centerfield. Both Crowder and Grove went the distance on the hill.

Red Sox Rout Tribe, 18-3, to Halt Streak

Boston, May 5 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox found four Cleveland pitchers for 23 hits to win the final game of their series with the Cleveland Indians, 18 to 3, here today and break the Indians' winning streak, which had extended to six games.

Half of Boston's runs were scored in the fifth inning, when Hudlin, Shaute, and Miller all were hit hard. Milt Gaston scattered the Indians seven hits effectively. One of them was the only home run of the day, a long one over the left field fence from the bat of Jonah Goldman, Cleveland shortstop.

De Mar Will Compete Here in 15-Mile Run

Clarence De Mar, considered the outstanding American Marathon runner and winner of scores of long distance races in the past decade, will compete in the national 15-mile championship race here on June 7, officials of the District Association of the Amateur Athletic Union announced yesterday. De Mar has communicated with the officials in charge of the event and has announced his intention to compete, it was announced.

Other outstanding distance runners have notified the committee that they will race for the championship. The entry of De Mar would make the field one of the best ever to compete in the national championship event.

Fields and Thompson Agree to 5-Minute Rest in Case of Foul

DETROIT, Mich., Mayp 5 (A.P.).—For the first time in fistic history, an agreement has been reached to eliminate the danger of a malodorons decision on a foul in a championship bout.

The management of Olympic Stadium, where Jackie Fields will defend his welterweight crown next Friday night against Young Jack Thompson, Francisco Negro, announced tonight that the managers of both fighters had agreed to substitute a five-minute rest period for a decision in case of a foul.

Tomorrow the Michigan Boxing Commission will meet here to consider such a ruling. A favorable decision is anticipated, since James "Bingo" Brown, chairman, has expressed himself as favorably impressed with the suggestion, which emanated from Gig Rooney, Fields' manager.

It was after Rooney's announcement that he would request a "no-foul" ruling by the State commission that Ray Alvis, Thompson's manager, let it be known that he not only would accede to such a ruling, but would join in the request.

Southpaw Battle Is Broken Up in 8th by Tigers.

Hogsett Is Master in Last 3 Innings as Nats Threaten.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

EVER since the windstorm hit the Griffith Stadium while the opening game of the series with the Browns was being played last Friday, dust or something has remained in the Nationals' batting eyes. Previous and on this day, Johnson's team had looked like a collection of Babe Ruths—with the Babe hitting on all cylinders—but since then safeties have been as scarce as hen's teeth.

Yesterday, with a chance to go back into first place, in view of a Red Sox massacre of the Indians, the Nats simply could not get a hit when they needed it, the result being a 3 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Tigers, with the Athletics, who beat the Browns, passing them in the race to go into a tie for the lead with the Tribe.

The game was a rather listless affair for the first five frames, with Lloyd Brown and Elon Hogsett, a Cherokee Indian, staging as pretty a southpaw duel as one could ask for. In the sixth the Nats pulled out of a tight hole and there was plenty of action crowded in the three remaining frames.

Detroit Scores Its Runs In Seventh and Eighth.

Detroit's three runs were molded in the seventh and eighth, while the Nats were within a hit of winning the game in both of these frames and within a long one of tying the count in the ninth. Excitement was tense in all of these rounds with practically all of the 4,000 or so on hand holding their seats until the finish.

Both of the starting pitchers were relieved, although not actually pounded, in the eighth, and then came a parade of them along with much so-called managerial strategy. Garland Braxton and Carlos Moore finished up for the Nationals, while Harris used Arthur Herring, a righthander; a Phil Page, a southpaw, before the eighth was completed, and Charley Sullivan, of orthodox persuasion, in the ninth.

As the first shift was made, Johnson withdrew Bill Barrett, who he had sent as a pinch hitter, in favor of Sam West, when he discovered Harris had countered by sending a righthander up, while he sent Tate to the tee and then recalled him in favor of Spencer after the Tiger leader had called a port-sider into action. West drew a walk, but Spencer hit into a double play, so Harris must be given first prize in this strategical battle.

Nats Have 13 Men Left on Bases.

All told, the Nationals had thirteen men left on the paths and it was heartbreaking for the faithful to see opportunities blown in rapid succession in the final-frame sessions.

In the seventh, with two dead, successive doubles by Brown and Loepp gave the Nationals what proved to be their only run. Then both Rice and Goslin walked, filling the bases, and Hayes missed getting a hit by inches, due to his lack of spec[illegible] afoot, for he tapped a hump-back bounder over Hogsett's head which Gehring snared on the shortstop side of second, following through with a truly great peg to first.

Cronin opened the eighth with a single, and after he had been forced by Judge, Bluege singled and the bases were filled when West coaxd a pass. It was here that Spncer drove into a double play. Harris had sent Herring to the hill just before West came up, while Page pitched to Spencer.

McManus' error gave Loepp life starting the ninth, and after Rice lofted to left Goslin walked. This brought Sullivan in the game, with Barnes facing him. The latter hit into a force play, on which Loepp went to third. Cronin then taking a third strike to end the game.

Brown Pulls Out Of Hole in Sixth.

Marberry Gets Task of Halting Nats Setbacks

IN an effort to break the Nats' three-game losing streak, Manager Walter Johnson plans to use Fred Marberry on the hill this afternoon against the Tigers, the big pitcher having been kept out of action yesterday with this start in view. Marberry failed to last in either of his two starts thus far. Manager Bucky Harris plans to use Vic Sorrell on the hill for his team.

While completing a most helpful double play in the sixth inning yesterday Buddie Myer was hurt in a collision with Outfielder Funk. The wind was knocked out of him and he was badly shaken up, being forced to leave the game in favor of Jack Hayes. The regular second sacker will be back on the job again today, however.

In view of the weak hitting which his team has shown in the last three games, Manager Walter Johnson has decided to resume morning practices, in which wand drills will form an important part. All of the Nats have been told to report at the stadium this morning at 10:30 and probably will be out after each breakfast for the remainder of the week.

Rookie Pitcher Returned To Nationals.

Pitcher Harold Heidelbach, Gadsden rookie, signed by the Nationals last season and sent on option to the York Team, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, has been returned, and President Clark Griffith is now busily engaged trying to peddle the youngster. Indications are that he will have to give Heidelbach away, as no offers for him have been received.

Just as the Nats came to bat in their first yesterday the fans broke

Ned O Second After Poor Start

Ragged Getaway Is Fatal to Polygamous, Favorite.

Phillip Goes to Front Early and Scores by Length.

By J. B. SNODGRASS
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 5.—The eighth running of the Rennert Handicap, the 6-furlong feature, which attracted 20,000 spectators here today saw W. E. Caskey, jr.'s Phillip running the distance in 1:12 1-5 to backers $50.10 for every $2 wagered.

However, the race was marred by the poorest start of the spring season. The field of 15 were taken to the end of the three-quarter mile chute. An effort was made to walk them to the barrier, but within a few yards of the wire, the webbing was released. Some horses were in motion and immediately piled by half the field, including Polygamous, the favorite, who was shipped here from New York, especially for the race.

Phillip, With Two Others, Rushes to Front.

Favored by the start, Mucker, Al Green and Phillip rushed into a long lead. Far back in the pack, and taking the overland route came Ned O, Maryland's Kentucky Derby hope.

Phillip moved to the front at the turn for home. There was a shout as Ned O loomed up and fighting his way through the pack he was second at the sixteenth pole.

Although running fastest of all through the stretch, Ned O was unable to catch Phillip before the latter was safely under the imaginary wire by a length.

Mucker saved the show money from Al Green. Several of the field, including Polygamous, who were caught in the jam at the start were not hurried and just galloped back of the field to the wire.

Ned O's performance stamps him real Derby timber. He will be shipped to Churchill Downs the end of the week and should be heard from in the mile and one-quarter test to be run there a week from Saturday.

Woodcraft Gets Home By a Nose.

The worthington, a mile and 70 yards race, attracted four candidates for both the $50,000 Preakness here on Friday and the $50,000 Kentucky Derby on May 17 at Churchill Downs.

It found the Audley Farm's Woodcraft, with 108 pounds up and receiving 15 pounds from T. M. Cassidy's Crack Brigade, whipping the latter by a nose.

Crack Brigade rushed off to a ten-length lead at the first turn. When the field moved down the back lane, Ellis had a snug hold on Crack Brigade, which appeared to be crying to run.

At the far turn, Robertson made his move with the lightly weighted Woodcraft to have him second at the turn for home. In the meantime, Desert Light, with 127 pounds up, was floundering around, being a half dozen lengths back of Michigan Boy, who was fourth.

Crack Brigade saved ground at the turn for home, where Robertson brought Woodcraft up on the outside. It was a ding-dong battle right down to the wire, with Ellis looking back at the sixteenth pole. This seemed to slow Crack Brigade up momentarily, and Woodcraft was able to get up in the final jump to take the purse.

Michigan Boy, under Curran's energetic ride, was coming fast along the rail, but although he was gaining rapidly on the first two he was unable to finish better than third. Colossal easily took fourth money from Desert Light, the only other starter.

Spirit River Captures Maryland's Own.

Maryland's Own, the 4-½-furlong sprint which opened the seventh day's racing, saw Al Weston's Spirit River with Sonny Workman booting leading home eight others.

The score enabled Workman to tie with Jason Eaby for the honor of being the leading winning rider here. Both lads have been aboard five winners.

Ruth Tidings outran the field from the break. She looked like the winner at the turn for home, but when she went a bit wide, Workman rushed Spirit River up fast on the rail, to win going away P. S. Randolph's Gay Pal, also closed gamely to take the place from Ruth Tidings.

Fair Orb Closes Gamely in Second.

E. M. Doumani's Fair Orb, favorite in the wagering, closed gamely through the stretch to whip the Alwington Stable's Alwington Dolly, a long shot, in the six furlongs of the second. Third money went to W. C. H. Snyder's Guilder.

Alwington Dolly cut out the early pace, but half way through the stretch, she started shortening her stride and Fair Orb closed gamely to take the purse.

The Mackenzie, a four furlong sprint, saw the form players collecting their wagers when B. F. Randolph's Noisy Miss led from flag fall to wire.

Louis Schaefer let the 2-year-old daughter of Royal Canopy-Fracas step at her best lick when the webbing ascended and at the end she was a handy winner over Leader, with Rolypoly third.

Charles Amory's Shepherdess made Charles Amory's Shepherdess made every pole a wininng one in the final event here today, leading My Scoop to the wire by a length with Francis St. L. a close third. The other four starters were completely outdistanced. The winner paid $8.20, $4.60 and $2.70.

Apprentice Jockey Gloriso sent Shepherdess to the front at the break and kept the 4-year-old Royal Canopy—Herd Girl filly well to the fore from the start to finish. When My Scopp challenged the leader in the stretch, Shepherdess responded gamely, while My Scopp hung near the wire and just nosed out Francis St. L. for the place money.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR ORB, $5.90, $3.90, $3.10; ALWINGTON DOLLY, $16.20, $12.30; GUILDER, $9.40.

FAIR ORB LOOKS MUCH THE BEST IN THE SECOND EVENT.

FAIR ORB, allowed to race under slight reserve in the early racing, came with splendid speed when called on, wore ALWINGTON DOLLY down steadily and was under pressure at end. ALWINGTON DOLLY set a good pace while saving ground and continued with good courage when collared. GUILDER made a determined bid at the far turn, but hung in the stretch run. SETA was going resolutely nearing the finish. WIG was used up forcing the pace and tired.

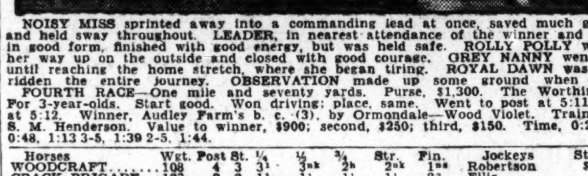

THIRD RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Mackenzie. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:39. Winner, B. O. F. Randolph's ch. f. (2), by Royal Canopy—Fracas. Trained by E. Williams. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NOISY MISS, $4.60, $2.80, $2.60; LEADER, $4.00, $3.80; ROLLY POLLY, $9.00.

NOISY MISS BIG NOISE IN THIRD ON DAY'S CARD.

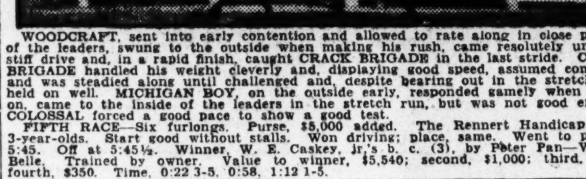

NOISY MISS sprinted away into a commanding lead at once, saved much ground and held sway throughout. LEADER, in nearest attendance of the winner and going in good form, finished with good energy, but was held safe. ROLLY POLLY worked her way up on the outside and closed with good courage. GREY NANNY went well until reaching the home stretch, where she began tiring. ROYAL DAWN was hard ridden the entire journey. OBSERVATION made up some ground when clear.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. The Worthington. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:11. Off at 5:12. Winner, Audley Farm's b. c. (3), by Ormondale—Wood Violet. Trained by S. M. Henderson. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:44.

WOODCRAFT NOSES OUT CRACK BRIGADE IN THE FOURTH.

WOODCRAFT, sent into early contention and allowed to rate along in close pursuit of the leaders, swung to the outside when making his rush, came resolutely under a stiff drive and, in a rapid finish, caught CRACK BRIGADE in the last stride. CRACK BRIGADE handled his weight cleverly and, displaying good speed, assumed command and was steadied along until challenged and, despite bearing out in the stretch run, held on well. MICHIGAN BOY, on the outside early, responded gamely when called on, came to the inside of the leaders in the stretch run, but was not good enough. COLOSSAL forced a good pace to show a good test.

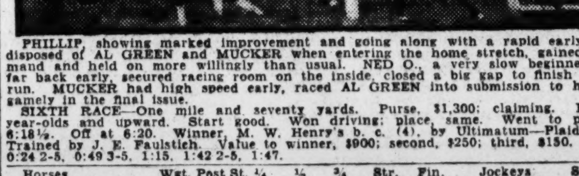

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. The Rennert Handicap. For 3-year-olds. Start good without stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:45. Off at 5:45½. Winner, W. E. Caskey, jr.'s b. c. (3), by Peter Pan—Washoe Belle. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $5,540; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $350. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:58, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PHILLIP, $50.10, $20.60, $13.60; NED O., $12.30, $11.10; MUCKER, $26.00.

PHILLIP AND NED O. FIGHT THINGS OUT IN FEATURE.

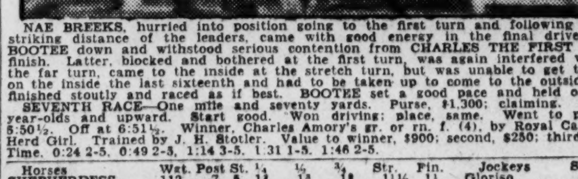

PHILLIP, showing marked improvement and going along with a rapid early pace, disposed of AL GREEN and MUCKER when entering the home stretch, gained command and held on more willingly than usual. NED O., a very slow beginner, was far back early, secured racing room on the inside, closed a big gap to finish full of run. MUCKER had high speed early, raced AL GREEN into submission to hold on gamely in the final issue.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:18½. Off at 6:20. Winner, M. W. Henry's b. c. NAE BREEKS MAKES CHARLES THE FIRST SECOND IN SIXTH.

NAE BREEKS, hurried into position going to the first turn and following within striking distance of the leaders, came with good energy in the final drive, wore BOOTEE down and withstood serious contention from CHARLES THE FIRST at the finish. Latter, blocked and bothered at the first turn, was again interfered with at the far turn, came to the inside at the stretch turn, but was unable to get through on the inside the last sixteenth and had to be taken up to come to the outside. He finished stoutly and raced as if best. BOOTEE set a good pace and held on well.

SHEPHERDESS LEADS FLOCK HOME IN FINAL OF DAY.

SHEPHERDESS, rushed to the front going to the first turn, opened up a good lead, was rated along and continued with good courage when forced to a drive in the stretch run. MY SCOOP, reserved off the pace, moved to the leaders in the final furlong, but hung nearing the finish.

—Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 5.—Tomorrow is the only day of the Maryland Jockey Club's spring meeting that a stake will not be run. The Patapsco Steeplechase is carded while the best flat race will be the Harford Purse, a dash at a mile and 70 yards for 3-year-olds and upward.

Seventeen leapers are scheduled to start in the Patapsco, which will be run as the second race. The Harford, sixth event, attracted an overnight entry list of seven.

Hot Toddy and Sun Vir, K. E. Hitt's candidates for the Pimlico Spring Handicap to be run next Saturday, and Walter M. Jefford's Preakness hope, Armageddon, will meet in the Harford. Sun Vir may be in a little deep.

FEATURE RACE.

The race narrows down to HOT TODDY and ARMAGEDDON. They meet at scale weight and we are predicting a close finish. HOT TODDY received a good conditioner in the Dixie Handicap. ARMAGEDDON was third to Swingfield and Woodcraft the other day. He was beaten a long way. If the Jeffords colt did his best last Thursday, then we believe HOT TODDY can lick him tomorrow. SHIPMASTER may finish back of Hot Toddy and Armageddon. He didn't run his race last out. SUN VIR is preferred over Razzle, Black Abbott and Promandale, the others named to start in the Harford.

FIRST RACE—GLIDELIA showed a liking for the Pimlico track when she beat Spirit River, Summer Day and others last Wednesday. She has only to repeat that effort to account for tomorrow's opener. ALL HAIL was poorly ridden Saturday. You can toss that effort out. She was second to Happy Scot in her previous outing. AVALON may outlast SNOWWHITE. AVALON has the most early speed, we believe. VOLTABUSH ran in a claiming race the other day. She may be better than we rate her.

SECOND RACE—The Patapsco Steeplechase has attracted a large field. The outcome of a race like this is very uncertain. BROWN STOUT stopped as though short in the Linstead Steeplechase the second day of the meeting. Maybe he can win tomorrow. STALKER fell in the same race while running in a good position. POPLAR CREEK started during the recent United Hunts meeting. SMART SINNER is reported as having schooled well for the Patapsco.

THIRD RACE—OVERSHADY has finished second in her three Maryland starts. Such a consistent horse can't be a maiden long. The Nevada Stock Farm's filly goes in the third number, a four and a half furlong dash for 2-year-old maidens. FOURTH WARD has been placed over his head in two previous starts. He has a good chance tomorrow. BLIND PLAY showed a lot of early foot in his initial start. He will likely hang on longer this time. DUNLIN'S LAD is another which showed speed last Friday, but he was racing with platers.

FOURTH RACE—FAIR ALBERT has only to repeat his race at Rejuvenation to be home first in the fourth number. The Bedwell plater is fresh, fit and well placed. We rate him the most probable winner of the day. IMBROS was second to Ruban Rouge the other day. Can't give the Seagram racer much off that effort. ONE CENT may surprise. FRIEDJOF NANSEN will be dangerous if he is fit.

FIFTH RACE—NORMA JEAN was a little short last Wednesday. That was her first start of the year and after showing good speed she was beaten less than a half length by Sun View and Fair Orb. She is most certain to improve with that race under her belt. We believe she will outfoot the fillies and mares she will meet in the fifth race. TEWSENELDA is the one we fear. This miss broke slower than usual when Norma Jean and Fair Orb beat her.

SEVENTH RACE—FAIR ORB had no excuse last Wednesday. RUBY KELLER likes the Pimlico Track, but she's coming off of long races to a sprint. FAIR BOB has been doing well in sprint races. He may be good enough to beat the field of platers carded to go in the nightcap. DUBLIN SHOW, if started right back, may be the one to beat. LAURIE will be hard to keep out of the picture if she runs her race. HEDGEFENCE hasn't been doing so well this spring.

"Curly" Brown, Noted Turfman, Dead at 67

Glendale, Calif., May 5 (A.P.).—H. D. "Curly" Brown, 67, wealthy California sportsman, died last night in a Glendale sanitarium, where he had been confined for several months. High blood pressure was given as the cause of the death.

Brown, whose home was in Shasta County, was well known as an owner and breeder of race horses. Ill health during the past two years, however, had kept him from active participation in the sport.

Brown was widely known as a builder of race tracks. He built the Arlington track at Chicago and the Tia Juana, Mexico, track. He sold the Arlington track less than two years ago for a price said to have been $1,000,000.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOCTOR BIDENCOPE, $7.86, $4.14, $3.92; DOROTHY MAC, $5.22, $4.08; WILLING, $5.10.

DOCTOR BIDENCOPE had most speed from start and drew away in final eighth to win as rider pleased. DOROTHY MAC raced close up on outside, lost ground but outgamed WILLING in long hard drive. WILLING gained slowly and loomed up strong in stretch, but tired under pressure. LANG raced well after throwing her rider before the start and after running away about a mile and one-quarter.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:47. Winner, J. M. Reed's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEAU ASPIN, $12.28, $5.82, $4.26; PADDY FLAHERTY, $13.98, $9.98; MOZART, $9.82.

BEAU ASPIN forced the pace from the start and when ready in the stretch, overtook SUN DANCE and won going away. PADDY FLAHERTY was unable to save ground from the start and held on well. MOZART closed a good gap and finished fast. THEO FAY went well to the stretch, but tired. SUN DANCE had speed and opened up a lead, but quit in the final eighth.

THIRD RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $900; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start poor from gates. Won handily; place, same. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:20. Winner, Miss B. Watson's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZEBRA, $6.74, $3.90, $2.60; TALENTED PRINCE, $3.88, $3.02; WITTORA, $3.04.

ZEBRA, away poorly, was outrun to the final turn but, going as if much the best, closed much ground, wore down leaders and won in hand. TALENTED PRINCE had speed from start, and held on strongly. WITTORA opened up commanding lead in first three furlongs, but tired and weakened in the drive. MAUD DRAPEAU showed early speed and had no excuse.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $900; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:47. Off at 3:47½. Winner, Mrs. J. Lee's ch. h. (7), by Underfire—Silver Shapiro. Trained by G. Owens. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 1-5, 1:16, 1:44 1-5, 1:49 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOB ROGERS, $4.52, $2.66, out; TANIST, $3.30, out; CHATTERING, out.

BOB ROGERS held sway in strong fashion to final eighth but, tiring thereafter, was ridden out to hold TANIST safe. Latter raced in closest pursuit, could never reach leader, but finished going the fastest. CHATTERING was taken wide at various stages and failed to improve her position. BRIDEGROOM raced sluggishly and was beaten off throughout.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Riverside Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but First Mission. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:20½. Winner, C. B. Irwin's ch. c. (4), by Morvich—Sun Caris. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:49 1-5, 1:02 4-5, 1:10.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MORSUN, $8.84, $5.02, $2.86; OLD KICKAPOO, $4.06, $2.86; CHRISTIE FLANAGAN, $3.16.

MORSUN opened up strong lead at once, drew away at will entering stretch and had much in reserve at end. OLD KICKAPOO was allowed to weave and swerve uncertainly, made a late challenge and easily disposed of CHRISTIE FLANAGAN. Latter had speed, but tired in final quarter. ANDROMEDA disliked the slow footing. FIRST MISSION began awkwardly and was out of it from the start.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:39. Off at 4:49½. Winner, Impressible Stable's b. m. (6), by Sarmatian—Stellata. Trained by H. A. Cotton. Value to winner, $625; second, $118.75; third, $62.50; fourth, $25. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STURDY STELLA, $6.94, $3.38, $2.98; ORMOGIRL, $3.68, $2.98; BALLOT GIRL, $4.04.

STURDY STELLA drew away fast in first six furlongs, and was never threatened, to win eased up. ORMOGIRL worked her way up gradually, closed a good gap and was going gamely at the end. BALLOT GIRL came fast in stretch, but could not reach leaders. MONA began weakening when put to a drive in the final eighth. HUON TIME had early speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:00. Off at 5:01½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LUCKY DRIFT, $3.92, $3.14, $2.84; RAMONA S., $5.02, $3.58; LYDIA MAE, $5.68.

LUCKY DRIFT, at home in the going, was rated to stretch and, never in danger, held sway easily. RAMONA S. gained gradually, was not able to threaten winner, but easily bested others. LYDIA MAE, racing much improved, kept close up three quarters and held on fairly well. NAMA could never get up. HAZEL DENSON raced poorly and seemed to dislike the going.

DUNN SHINES IN GONZAGA VICTORY

G. U. Prep Bows, 3-2, as Pitcher Leads Rally in 9th.

AFTER pitching lamest perfect ball for nine innings, Tom Dunn, Gonzaga High School hurler, scored from second base on a wild throw after doubling in the ninth inning to give his team a 3-2 victory over Georgetown Prep in a great uphill battle on the Monument Lot.

With the exception of the fourth and eighth innings, Dunn set the losers down in order, allowing only three hits and a single walk over the entire route. Two of the prepmen's hits came in the fourth, during which they secured their only two runs, while another measly single was added in the eighth.

Pyne Beats Out Bunt.

Entering the ninth on the short end of a 2-1 score, Gonzaga immediately opened fire when Danny Pyne beat out a hit to the third baseman. Barker was sent in to run for him and went to third on Dunn's two-bagger. Here, Coach Orrell Mitchell added another piece of strategy and sent in Howell as pinch-runner for Barker.

The strategy worked when Rice laid down a perfect bunt in front of the pitcher's box, allowing Howell to score before the hurler had reached the ball, and when Pitcher Crowley finally did pick up the horsehide, he lost all sense of direction and threw into right field, allowing Dunn to cross the plate with the winning tally.

SPENCER, BALTIMORE PRO, WINS M. A. GOLF EVENT

Al Houghton Trails by 2 Strokes

Mrs. Haynes Medalist, 1st Flight Winner at Columbia.

Additional Entries Received for Woodmont Tourney.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

GLENN SPENCER, professional at the Maryland Country Club, Baltimore, was the winner yesterday in a 36-hole medal competition at the Congressional Country Club staged under the auspices of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association. With a card of 72—70—142, he led the field by two strokes. A. L. Houghton, Harper, finished second with two consistent rounds of 72 each for a total of 144.

J. Munro Hunter, Indian Spring, should have divided the second money prize, but he missed a 3-foot putt on the thirty-sixth green and the lost stroke landed him in third money with 71—74—145.

More than a score of professionals from the District section and Maryland participated in the tournament.

Spencer's victory was due not alone to the fact that he played fine golf throughout the two rounds but because he had the good fortune not to miss a single putt. When he played the second round in the forenoon competition he finished 3—3—3, a par and two birdies.

Sinks 20-Footer for Birdie on 16th.

In the afternoon he took an unfortunate 6 on the long tenth hole, when his ball hit the green and bounded off into the semirough, but this was compensated by the fact that on the sixteenth green he ran down a 20-footer for a birdie 2. On the eleventh, when his ball was almost buried out of sight in the side of a trap, he played a powerful stroke to blast his ball to the green and secure a 4, and made a Garrison finish with a birdie 3 on the thirty-sixth hole with a 2-foot putt.

Houghton might have finished with 143 if he had not missed a short putt of not over 14 inches on the final green, but he still remained in second place when Hunter also missed a short putt for his finishing stroke. The Indian Spring professional, by the way, missed a short putt on the first green of the afternoon for a disastrous 6 and he had another bad 6 on the long twelfth when, owing to a misjudged approach, his ball was not on the green with his third shot. The cards of the three leaders were:

Episcopal Wins, 12-3, From Hyattsville High

Waiting until the late innings to open a terrific assault on Pitcher French, Episcopal High School's nine defeated Hyattsville High yesterday at Alexandria, 12 to 3.

The hitting of Holland, Episcopal third baseman, featured the game, which was one of the best played to date by the winners. Holland smashed out two home runs, a double and a single, in four times at bat. Hooff also hit a homer for Episcopal.

Hyattsville, aided by Episcopal errors, scored three runs in the second, to take the lead. Episcopal tied the score with single markers in each of the first, third and fifth innings.

The eighth straight victory of the undefeated Western High School tennis team was annexed yesterday at the expense of the Baltimore Polytechnical School netmen, who were defeated 5 to 2, on the Sixteenth Street Reservoir courts.

Although Western was handicaped by the absence of Capt. Barney Welsh, who has not yet returned from the tournament at Penn, where he met defeat because of cramps, it was not extended at any time, winning four of the five singles and one of the two doubles.

The results:

SINGLES—Nicholson (Western) defeated Fahey, 6—1, 6—2; Lamasure (Western) defeated Neale, 6—2, 5—7, 6—2; Battle (Western) defeated Hess, 6—2, 6—1; Seth (Baltimore) defeated Holman, 6—2, 6—2; Lynham (Western) defeated Hasenahl, 6—3, 6—2.

NATS DROP TO THIRD AS TIGERS TRIUMPH

soms snappy fielding, pulled out of a hole in the sixth. Alexander and Fothergill opened this round with singles, Loepp's error on the second of these clouts letting Alexander continue on from second to home and the batter advance all the way to third, from where Pinch-hitter Uhle's scratch hit scored him. A fast double play stopped this rally from growing.

Hogsett's opening single, Funk's suicide and McManus' double gave the Tigers their run in the eighth, while Moore retired them in order in the ninth.

Rice, with three successive singles early in the game, led the Nats at bat, their other five hits being divided by as many players. Hogsett, McManus and Alexander, with two each, were high guns as the visitors extended the Nats' losing streak to three in a row. In double plays the natives led, 3 to 2, one for each team ending a threat.

SAINTS ON WAR PATH.

The St. Stephen's Club Junior Nine, a contender for Capital League honors, is seeking games with strong teams, especially the Lionels. Call Potomac 4457-J for arrangements.

Virginia Medicos Win From Shepherd Nine

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., May 5.—Virginia Medical College baseball team, of Richmond, Va., won a loosely played game from Shepherd College here Saturday, 11 to 8. Both teams hit well. Poor defensive work was the chief cause of the local's downfall. Bland pitched the greater part of the game for Shepherd, being relieved toward the end by Main. Spencer went the full distance for the visitors. The batteries and score by innings:

NATS' FANS CHER ROUT OF INDIANS

out in a cheer, noticing by the scoreboard that the Red Sox had enjoyed a 9-run, fifth-inning rally over the Indians, putting them in the lead, 13 to 2, at the time. This promise of defeat for the Tribe meant that a home victory would put the Nats back in first place.

Manager Bucky Harris is shuffling his line-up almost daily in order to discover, if possible, a winning combination. With his reputed sluggers not having done any slugging to speak of, his task has been a hard one.

Harris, by the way, was given a big hand when he went to the plate at the start of the game to give Umpire Bill Dineen his line-up. As the Detroit climate did not agree with Mrs. Harris and Bucky, jr., last summer, the former Nat leader has rented an apartment here for them.

Tigers Boast Loudest First-base Coach.

The Tigers may not have the best team in the league, but they carry with them the most enthusiastic and loudest first-base coach in "Bow-wow" Myers. You can not yell your way to an American League pennant, however, the Detroiters probably will discover.

George Rensa, who started behind the bat for the Tigers yesterday, made his big league debut after graduating from the Toronto Internationals. At bat, he did not start off very impressively, working the count to three and two and then fanning. Harris must not have learned that Muddy Ruel's arm is functioning well this season, for Rogell went down with the pitch and was nipped, making the second attempted stealer to be caught in three frames.

Shortstop Joe Cronin raced all the way to short center to make a nice over-the-shoulder catch of Forthergill's looper in the fourth, ending the frame with two Tigers on the runways.

Outfielder Funk went almost to the scoreboard for Goslin's liner to end the fifth with two Nats on.

Panic on Bases Results In Double Play.

There was plenty of excitement in the alien seventh when the Nats stopped a Tiger rally with a double-play, their third of the game, with every infielder taking part. Johnson was on second when Rensa hit sharply to Cronin, who made a bluff throw to first and then trapped Johnson between second and third. He tossed to Bluege, who ran the batter back to second, Hayes making the out there. Meanwhile, Rensa had rounded first and he, too, was trapped, Cronin, Hayes and Judge handling the ball on this rundown with Judge making the putout.

Pitcher Lloyd Brown's double with two gone in the native seventh was the first extra base hit of the game. It was a Texas Leaguer down the left-field foul line. Loepp then followed with another double, the ball clearing Fothergill's head and almost bounding into the stands for a homer.

Loepp backed up to the fence to the left of the flagpole for Alexander's high one in the eighth with McManus on second at the time. The blow would have been a homer in most of the other parks in the league

Business Bows, 10-5, To Emerson Prep Nine

Scoring five runs in the seventh inning on two hits, three bases on balls and two errors, Emerson Prep's Baseball Team took still another high school nine into camp when it defeated the Business Team, 10 to 5, yesterday on the Monument Lot. Business used three pitchers during the fray, Pete Loftus, who entered the box in the seventh, being blamed for the defeat.

Although losing the game, Loftus was one of the leaders of the Business attack, pounding out three hits. Singman also collected three singles. None of the Emerson players were able to get over one safe blow apiece.

John Marshall High Beats Va. Frosh, 5 to 2

Charlottesville, Va., May 5. — Virginia's heavy hitting freshman nine was held to four hits today and was forced to bow to John Marshall High, of Richmond, 5 to 2. Davis' circuit clout in the first frame looked big until the fourth inning, when three hits, coupled with two errors, gave the Richmonders four runs. After that Bruer went to the mount for the Young Cavaliers and held the visitors to two hits.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 5.—Episcopal High School Baseball Team will meet another Washington high school tomorrow afternoon when the Business High School goes to Hoxton Field to cross bats with the Episcopalians. This will be the first home game for the local team.

Coach Callaway's boys have been playing heads-up baseball. Tilton will more than likely oppose the Washington boys, with Carter doing the receiving.

Alexandria High School Baseball Team will face one of Washington's best high school teams tomorrow afternoon when they play Western High School on Hayden Field, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

Lack of pitchers has been Coach Reynold's trouble this season since the balance of the team is showing up well.

The Tri-State Golf Association that has been organized for the past four years has dwindled to four teams, those being Alexandria, Winchester, Martinsburg and Purcellville, according to the announcement made today. The first meet will be on May 17, when the Martinsburg Club will be host to the other three clubs. The other clubs will take their turn in being the host with each team playing each opponent once this season.

In the final meet the two highest teams and two lowest teams will play each other, and the course they will play on has not been decided on as yet for the final finish.

Episcopal High School for the last four years has captured the invitation meet given each year by the University of Virginia, but this year they dropped it to the strong Woodberry Forest Team, who doubled the score on the local Episcopalians. Coach Tompkins was a little disappointed with the showing of his boys, but due to lack of running material they have made a very good showing in the field events. The scoring for the two teams was as follows: Woodberry Forest, 51 1-3; Episcopal High School, 26½.

The Odd Fellows' smoker to be staged tomorrow night is causing quite a bit of enthusiasm among Alexandrians. This is an athletic smoker staged by the Odd Fellows annually.

MARYLAND U. EASY FOR V. P. I.

Rule Hits 3 Homers as Old Liners Bow by 12 to 2 Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLARKSBURG, Va., May 5.—V. P. I.'s Nine made more secure its claim to the Tri-State League championship in Miles Stadium today with a 12-to-2 win over University of Maryland. The Gobbler batters had field day at the expense of Milburn and Meech, Old Line hurlers, driving out 15 hits for a total of 26 bases, while Murden held the visitors to 7 bingles.

Both the tallies were the result of home runs, the first by Berger in the first inning, and the second by Chalmers in the sixth. Gene Rule, V. P. I. captain, three times poled long drives high in the left-field stands for home runs. Rule had a perfect day at bat with his three circuit drives and a single in four times up, scoring three runs and driving in two more. His first hit scored Logan in the final half of the opening round, and his first circuit drive sent Bibb in ahead after the flashy little second sacker again had scored Logan with a clean single in the third.

Logan, Neihouse, Hooper Also Hit Hard.

Logan, Neihouse and Hooper were just a step behind Rule in batting powers, with three safeties each. This trio was responsible for seven of the twelve runs. Milburn, who tamed the Poly Team at College Park in the first league tilt, today yielded nine hits and seven runs in his six innings on the mound. Meech, Maryland southpaw, took the mound in the seventh, only to have his first pitched ball driven to the top of the stands by Rule for his second home run. A trio of hits by Hooper, Neihouse and Logan and a sacrifice fly by McIver produced three more runs before the round ended.

Neihouse, Poly left fielder, made a great running catch to rob Radice of a hit in the sixth, and Phil Spear, who replaced him in the eighth, snaggeda drive from Roselyn's bat with one hand while leaping the concrete barrier to the stands in far left. It was the greatest fielding feat ever seen in the stadium and brought repeated cheers.

a little public attention with regard to the trophy, and a delicate way to compliment him would be to recognize the winner of the Schmeling-Sharkey bout as champion of the world.

Then there could be another unveiling of the statue with the newsreel chaps on hand to record the scene with sound. Perhaps this will be all right. The customers are bound to spend their prize fight money on something useless anyway, because prize fight money is the kind that goes to the bookmakers or the bucketeers if the prize fight racketeers don't get it.

I am afraid the prize fight commissioners have been responsible for the remarkable stimulus to larceny which has been felt in the racket in the last few years.

Pegler Rates Berlenbach as Only True Champ.

Although there may be some of them with nothing better to do who seriously desire to curb the boys, elevate the racket and produce actual champions, the only true champion in any class that I can remember offhand since the commissions were organized after the war was Paul Berlenbach. He fought all comers at the weight for his class with no unreasonable intervals between bouts, but he is pitied, not respected, for this now.

In their effort to invest their racket with dignity the commissioners have only raised the price of admission, increased the value of the heavyweight championship to a figure that would tempt a banker and thus established an irresistible temptation for the boys in the back room.

If the prize fight commissioners were any good in their work they would have organized a tournament like the national amateur tournament, with all the heavyweights competing under one roof in one week. But, of course, they couldn't do this. Nobody could do it and it has been useless to have commissioners.

And, for that matter, I never have understood just how the public was served by a heavyweight champion at any time or injured by the lack of one.

SHORTS AID STOCKS AFTER BIG TUMBLE

Many Issues Show Gains at Close as 8,279,260 Shares Are Traded.

TICKER TWO HOURS LATE

New York, May 5. (A.P.)—The stock market took another hard tumble today. This time, however, it landed on the resistant ground of short covering and organized support, rebounding sufficiently from the bottom to bring moderate net gains to a sizable list of representative issues.

Sales totaled 8,279,260 shares, the largest volume since the 9,212,800 share day on last October 28. The ticker was slightly more than two hours late at the close.

The full force of the powerful bear faction was felt just at the beginning of the final hour. Warnings of this intensive effort by the short interest had circulated generally through the street and rather extensive preparations were made to meet it. There was a report that powerful banking interests were preparing to support the market, but this was denied in authoritative quarters.

When the blow fell quoted values dropped off alarmingly. U. S. Steel sank to 166¼, a quarter point above its 1930 minimum, and many other pivotal shares dwindled to new lows for the movement or for the year. Unlike the sessions of last Friday and Saturday, when the market closed virtually at its low, the bears met opposition in the form of concerted buying and scurried to cover their commitments.

U. S. Steel at 171¾.

Under support from two sources, Steel snapped back to 174 on a few sales and then eased to 171¾, up 1½ net. Vanadium Steel, which had dropped 15 points to 87, rushed up to 104¼, the closing price, up 2 points. American & Foreign Power fell to 65 before rallying to finish at 73¾, where it was off 2⅞. Such volatile shares as J. I. Case, Auburn Auto, Columbian Carbon, Diamond Match, Worthington Pump, A. M. Byers and Houston Oil flopped 11 to 24 points at the height of the decline, but several were able to show small net advances on the day.

The market had made cautious attempts at an advance during the morning and early afternoon, feeling its way carefully after the sweeping declines of last week. Early selling of weakened margin accounts was well absorbed on a scale down and the presence of some short covering helped many of the leaders show small improvement by noon. Commission house letters advised clients to use extreme caution in taking a trading position on either side.

The advance was rather half-hearted, however, and as the market worked into afternoon, the undismayed bears mustered anew their ammunition of declining commodity prices, unfavorable earnings statements and the dullness of business for the head-on assault that started about 2 p. m.

American Telephone Gains.

When the smoke had lifted closing prices disclosed a rise of about a point in the index of 90 stocks, and there were net gains of 1 to 4 points in American Telephone, American Can, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Atchison, Southern Railway, Public Service of New Jersey and others. Westinghouse, which had been pushed down to 160, closed 6¾ higher and Eastman Kodak gained 8¾. There remained, nevertheless, a long list of 1 to 10 point declines, with even larger losses in a few cases.

One of the most important items, where there is news, from a business standpoint, was the reduction of a cent a pound in copper for domestic delivery, bringing the price to 13 cents. The cut from 18 cents to 14 cents around the middle of April, it was recalled, coincided with the start of the current decline in stock prices.

Commodities were easy. May sugar went to a record low, while May wheat touched a minimum for the year on bearish weather reports and the weakness of the share market. Cotton closed irregularly higher.

Money was in plentiful supply. Call rates repeated their performances of late last week, renewing at 3½ and falling to 3. Term loans eased in the longer maturities.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Dollar-a-bushel prices for wheat finally overtook the market here today owing in large measure to fresh wide-open breaks of quotations on stocks. Wheat, corn and oats all outdid bottom-price records heretofore touched this season. Auspicious practical completion of seeding of the United States spring wheat crop had a contributing bearish effect on the wheat market, and so likewise did improvement of crop prospects for domestic winter wheat.

Wheat values closed unsteady at but little above the day's lowest level, ¼c to 1⅛c under Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1¼c off to ⅜c up, oats ⅛c to 1c down and provisions unchanged to 7c decline.

Lowest prices of the day and the season were reached in the wheat market during the last few minutes of trading and despite announcement of a liberal decrease of 3,332,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply. To a noticeable degree, however, the visible supply decrease had an evident steadying effect on the market, although the total supply is still materially above last year's aggregate at the corresponding time. Meanwhile, Kansas reports were current putting special stress on beneficial rains over the week-end all through the southwest section of the State, and Nebraska advices said wheat was showing a good stand and color, with plants nearly all jointing and expected to be heading soon.

On the other hand, a falling-off of 496,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage was noted, but was more or less offset by the fact that world shipments were much larger than a week ago. Word that the locust plague had spread into Roumania attracted attention also, but likewise failed to check the declining trend of the market. Around the $1.00 a bushel level for wheat, neverthless, sellers evinced but little disposition to become aggressive, and particularly as the fact was made known that Farm Board allies had completed the sale of all wheat owned by them at the Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic ports.

Corn and oats were influenced by the downward course of wheat. May corn, however, was relatively strong, and was about the only exception to generally lower prices for grain.

Provisions were responsive to grain weakness, although hog values were steady.

IRREGULAR COURSE HITS BOND MARKET

In Sympathy With Stocks Day's General Trend Is Downward.

MONEY AT 3 PER CENT

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today felt the depressing effect of the stock market. Despite the easiness of credit, bonds failed to respond and the trend was generally downward.

Closing prices showed net changes ranging from an advance of 2 points to a similar recession. Sales were considerably under the last few days and in the face of the somewhat apathetic attitude toward even prime bonds, the averages for 30 issues sagged two-tenths of a point. Industrials showed the greatest resistance.

The decline was in the face of a favorable money market. Call loans were cut to 3 per cent after renewing at 3½ and time loans eased in longer maturities.

Carriers Are Active.

Railroad bonds were moderately active. The greatest firmness in the group was displayed by the high grade issues. Erie refunding and improvement 5s were the most active, gaining three-eighths. Atlantic Coast Line first 4s, Baltimore & Ohio refunding 6s, Boston & Maine 5s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 5s were firm.

Most of the utility group showed fractional losses. Utah Power & Light 5s with warrants touched 86½, a new low; Chicago Gas Light and Coke 5s lost 2¾ points on seven bonds.

Montana Power 5s sagged 2 points, American Telephone debenture 5s, Detroit Edison refunding 5s, International Telephone debenture 5s were firm.

In the industrial list the largest recessions were made by Armour & Co. 5½s and Lorillard debenture 5½s.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. 5s equaled the year's high at 102; Texas Corporation 5s lost one-half on a heavy turnover. Bonds of Standard Oils of New York and New Jersey, American Sugar, National Dairy 5¼s held around Saturday's closing.

Baltimore & Ohio Loses.

Convertible issues made some attempts to rally, but with the exception of the telephone issues, generally were unsuccessful, and most of them ended the day in low ground. American Telephone and International 4½s showed wide fluctuations, but ended the day a shade above Saturday. Losses of from 1 to 3 points were made by Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, General Theaters, Missouri & Pacific, Philadelphia Coal & Iron and Atchison, Warner Bros. Pictures 6s touched a new low, at 106. St. Paul adjustment 5s also sank to a new minimum.

United States Governments were dull and prices were down fractionally, from 1 to 15-32s.

European governments were the most attractive in the foreign group. British 55½s equaled the year's high, at 105⅛, but lost ⅛ at the close. South American bonds sagged.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Has $1,000 to Invest.

Mrs. C. L. G.—I have on hand about $1,000 for investment purposes and would appreciate your advice and suggestions in regard to putting it at work. Would like to put it in something that I would have reason to think would increase in value during the coming year. These are stocks I have thought might be a good investment at present prices: American Smelting & Refining, American Steel Foundries, Anaconda Copper, Chrysler Motor, General Motors, The Fair, United States Smelting & Refining. I hold 21 shares of American Tel. & Tel. Wonder if it would be profitable for me to buy three shares more before May 23 and thus secure the rights I need to enable me to buy four more shares on the current issue of rights. Would Irving Trust at present prices be a good investment?

Answer—From the tenor of your letter, it would appear that you are more intent upon speculating than upon investing for actual income return. If such be the case, this column can not advise, as it gives no advice or makes recommendations concerning speculative market commitments. Believe it would be wise to do as you suggest relative to American Tel. & Tel. Other stocks named, while possessing some investment qualities, are to greater or less extent speculative. Of the lot General Motors appears the most attractive. Irving Trust does not look particularly tempting, from an investment viewpoint at prevailing prices.

Jenkins Television.

Mrs. M. S. E.—In reading your column, I occasionally see inquiries about Jenkins Television stock, but have never seen it listed in the columns of your paper. Could it be bought from any broker and what is its present price? What especial danger is there in buying a cheap stock merely for speculation?

Answer—Jenkins Television, dealt in on New York Produce Exchange, Boston Stock Exchange, Los Angeles Stock Exchange and San Francisco Curb, currently selling at approximately $6 a share. May be bought through any member of New York Stock Exchange or any other. Danger in buying any stock for speculation solely involves possible total loss, in the event of a drastic decline in security values generally. This rarely occurs, particularly where one owns a stock outright, but the likelihood is always present.

General Motors.

J. B. W.—What is the capital stock of the General Motors Corporation and its par value? What rate of dividend is paid? How much below par has the stock sold at any time, and what is the highest point it has reached and when? Please give me any further information that might be valuable as a guide to one who may be interested enough to invest limitedly in the stock?

Answer — General Motors Corporation has an authorized issue of 7,500,000 common shares, par value $10 each, of which 4,350,000 shares are outstanding. Dividends of 75 cents quarterly, or $3 annually, are being paid regularly, in addition to which the company pays extra dividends, the latest distribution amounting to 30 cents per share, paid January 3, 1930. High and low prices of present $10 par common, following 2½-for-1 split-up in January, 1929, are $91.75 and $33.50, both reached in 1929.

Preliminary report for first quarter of 1930, including equity in undivided profits of subsidiary and affiliated companies not consolidated, showed net income of $44,968,587, or 98 cents a common share, a decline of 27 per cent from net of $61,910,967, or $130 a common share, for corresponding period of 1929. Net working capital of company on March 31, 1930, was $267,791,541, against $251,287,782 on December 31, 1929.

Curtiss-Wright.

H. M.—I own 80 shares of Curtiss-Wright Corporation class A shares. Will you please tell me if there is any conversion privilege on this class of stock and for how long it is in effect?

Answer — New company's capital structure consists of convertible class A and common stock, both voting. Class A is entitled to a preferential noncumulative dividend of $2 annually, from earnings in excess of any sums set apart at the discretion of the directors as a reserve or working capital or for the purpose of properly conducting the business. It is redeemable at $40 a share and dividend adjustment, on any dividend payment date or dates, at not less than 40 days' notice.

Stockholders of Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. were offered one share of new company class A and 4½ shares common for each share held, while for each share of Wright Aeronautical Corporation the offer was 1 share new company class A and 3¼ shares common; also, for each 2 Wright shares held, an option warrant for purchase of 1 share of new company common at $30 for three years from date of the plan being declared effective, August 15, 1929.

Pilot Radio & Tube.

S. M.—What is your opinion of Pilot Radio & Tube stock, as I am contemplating an investment in same?

Answer—Sales in the first quarter this year increased about 28½ per cent, when compared with the same quarter last year, amounting to $501,889, as against $392,647, while for the month of March sales aggregated $169,226, as contrasted with $144,006 for March 1929. Sales of the Detroit Radio Products Co., a subsidiary, are not included in the figures for March The company is making some changes in its manufacturing activities, as it is announced that the Allan Manufacturing & Electrical Corporation has taken over the operations of the Detroit Company as of February 26, last. Considering that dividends of $1.20 a share per annum are paid on Pilot, the stock may be considered a speculative investment with good prospects.

D. N.—I am taking the liberty of writing you regarding the Bancshares and Listed Securities Corporation of New York, as I was one of those that got roped in. I bought a few shares of Ford Motor Ltd. of England and received a stock certificate from the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York for the amount of shares I bought. I would like very much if you could inform me if the certificate is of any value, or if it is worthless?

Answer—There are undoubtedly a large number of people in the same boat as yourself, though all are probably not so fortunate as you. The certificate of stock which you have received from the Guaranty Trust Co of New York is absolutely bona fide, and has a present market value on the New York Curb Exchange of approximately $18.50 for each share represented. The stock is actively dealt in on the exchange named and, if so desired, it is possible for you to dispose of it at any time that you may see fit. Anyone having received his or her stock certificate for Ford Motor Ltd. of England through the Bancshares & Listed Securities Corp., of New York has nothing whatsoever to worry about on account of such stock certificate.

Conserving the time of millions every year

TYPICAL of the spirit of the age that demands closer contacts and swifter methods of communication, the vehicular tunnel marks the beginning of a new era in transportation. The Holland Vehicular Tunnel on the Atlantic Coast, the Oakland Vehicular Tunnel on the Pacific Coast indicate this trend.

In the Midwest, the Detroit & Canada Vehicular Tunnel, of the same general type as the Holland Tunnel, will offer to the people now creating a yearly traffic of 18,000,000 passengers and 2,000,000 vehicles between the business centers of Detroit and Windsor, a saving in time of 15 to 20 minutes per trip.

Its sources of revenue will be the same as the Holland Tunnel except that it will derive additional revenue from passenger buses which the Tunnel Company will operate, and like the Holland Tunnel, after it is completed, we believe will be the means of attracting new traffic far beyond the expectations of the engineers.

You cannot become a stockholder in the Holland Tunnel . . . You cannot become a stockholder in the Oakland Tunnel—

But—

You can become a stockholder in the Detroit & Canada Tunnel, the only vehicular tunnel offering public participation in its earnings.

Sides of Iron

GUNS were thundering in a famous sea-battle of the War of 1812. The British warship Guerriere hurled its largest, most powerful missile at the American frigate Constitution. The shot merely touched the side of the ship—then sank into the water. The crew in their joy cried out, "Her sides are made of iron!"

From that moment the frigate Constitution was known as "Old Ironsides." The famous ship truly earned her name when she withstood the enemy's powerful broadsides.

On the sea of finance there are attacks and bombardments similar in fury and destructiveness; and the 6 per cent First Mortgage Notes issued by Swartzell, Rheem and Hensey Company have also in their 61 years of issuance withstood attacks of business depression, panics—all kinds of financial bombardments. They have always remained exactly at the price paid for them and no holder ever lost a penny in either principal or interest.

You may obtain these Notes in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and upwards.

TRANSAMERICA HEAD QUITS AS EXECUTIVE

Giannini Observes His 60th Birthday by Planning European Trip.

IS NOW CAPITAL VISITOR

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Retirement today as an executive of all companies in which he has been an officer, marks the sixtieth birthday anniversary of A. P. Giannini, founder of Transamerica Corporation, the world's largest bank-holding company.

Mr. Giannini, who is now in this city meeting with the committee on banking and currency of the House of Representatives to complete a study of the subject of group and branch banking, will sail on the Mauretania from New York, June 11, with Mrs. Giannini and their son, V. D. Giannini, for a year's absence abroad.

Mr. Giannini is the donor of a large endowment fund for the public speaking contest of the American Institute of Banking prizes, from which students of the institute here and elsewhere are eligible to compete for annually at its national conventions.

Discusses His Retirement.

Discussing his retirement, Mr. Giannini said:

"When I turned over the presidency of the Bank of Italy to my successor in 1924, I made the statement then that I would retire as an active officer from all organizations with which I was connected when I reached the age of 60. While I shall continue as a director of our various companies and possibly go on the boards of others, as well as serve without compensation, as chairman of the advisory committee of Transamerica Corporation, I will hold no executive office.

"All of the so-called 'Giannini interests' are now vested in Transamerica Corporation and it is my hope that hereafter they will be known as Trans-America interests and not Giannini interests. The conduct of the affairs of all these companies will be under the direction of Elisha Walker, and the other executives associated with him."

Curb Review

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Trends in the curb market closely followed the pattern of the big board in today's spectacular backing and filling of prices, but the late rally in curb shares lacked the vigor of that of the big board, and closing quotations were irregularly lower. Total sales exceeded 2,500,000 shares, a new 1930 record for this market.

Utilities sold off rapidly for a time but rallied in the last half hour and generally closed steady. Electric Bond & Share was off about 2 points, having sold down 10. American Superpower, Middle West Utilities, United Light & Power A and American Light & Traction new closed a point or more higher. American Light old stock, in which the market is now thin, dropped 13 points to a new low for the year at 269.

Several of the oils likewise showed considerable strength late in the day. Humble sold up about 6 points, but its gain was cut in half. Gulf closed a couple of points higher. Cities Service rallied more than 3 points. The Indiana territory shares tumbled about 8, then regained approximately half their losses.

Deere new was an active and spectacular feature of the industrials, dropping about 17 points, then cutting its loss to about 4. Aluminum Co. lost 15 points in quiet trading. Welch Grape Juice, a comparatively inactive issue, lost 11 points despite announcement of an extra dividend. In the investment trusts, Securities Corporation general new stock was a soft spot, dropping 9 points to a new low.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—An early decline in cotton under selling, promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and a favorable view of present weather and crop progress, was followed by very sharp recoveries in cotton today.

May contracts after selling off to 15.92, or 27 points lower, rallied to 16.35, or 16 points net higher, in the late trading on covering or rebuying by early sellers, while the new October contracts sold up from 14.00 to 14.32 and closed at 14.30. The general market closed firm net 15 points higher to 11 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 7 to 12 points in response to the easier Liverpool cables. There was some covering in the near months, but the demand was less active than recently and after some little irregularity the market showed increasing weakness under local, Southern and Wall street selling. Some selling by the Southwest was reported on the decline which followed, supposedly reflecting an improvement in crop prospects as a result of recent rains, while houses with Wall street connections were credited with selling on the unsettled ruling of the stock market.

Old crop positions held relatively steady, but July eased off to 16.03, making a net decline of 26 points. The new crop positions were relatively more active than recently and at the lowest showed net losses of 36 to 43 points, with the new December contract declining to 14.11 and March to 14.30.

Offerings subsided at these figures, which brought in a renewal of covering in both old and new crop months and the highest prices of the day were reached on most positions during the last half hour. July sold up to 16.48, or 17 points net higher, and closed at 16.44, while the new crop recovered most of its earlier losses, selling within 4 to 9 points of Saturday's closing quotation.

At the close May was 10 points under July, but 204 points above the new October. At one time during the morning July here was 50 points over July in the Liverpool market, which may have promoted some of the early selling. There was some complaint of dry weather in the Eastern belt, but further showers or rains were reported over Sunday in the Southwest, and on the whole the weather details seemed to make a more favorable impression on sentiment than otherwise. Exports today, 15.271, making 6,314,937 so far this season. Port receipts, 7,960. United States port stocks, 1,635,620.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

2,500 SIGN SCHOOL FLOTATION PETITION

Arlington Board Will Ask June 9 be Designated for Bond Election.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With petitions signed by more than 2,500 citizens, which is in excess of more than the necessary 2,000, the Arlington County School Board met last night and completed its plans to go to the Circuit Court today and ask that a date be set for the holding of a special election for a school bond issue totaling $640,000.

Chairman Thomas J. DeLashmutt stated that County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp will accompany Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth when he presents the petition to the court.

The school board will request the court to set Monday, June 9, as the day for holding the election.

The school board, it is learned, has made a most careful study of the needs and the petition has been drafted in accordance with the law. It shows in detail just how the money will be expended, which will be for the constructing additions to a number of the school buildings, equipment and the refunding of short term loans.

Having obtained with but slight effort such a large number of signers, the county school board felt most confident last night of success for the bond issue.

Citizens of Arlington County, especially lovers of art, will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. William E. Martin at Arlington Hall Junior College for Girls each afternoon and evening, beginning tomorrow and continuing through Tuesday night, May 13, when the Landscape Club of Washington will exhibit the work of its members in oil and water color paintings in the parlors of the college.

This exhibit, consisting of not only landscapes, but also portraits, will contain many notable studies that have been shown in the leading art circles throughout the United States.

The case of C. B. Rosenberg, of Clarendon, who stands charged with painting his house on Sunday in violation of the county ordinance, was continued until Wednesday, May 14, by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday at the request of counsel for the plaintiff.

Attorney Hugh McCaffrey, local counsel appearing for Mr. Rosenberg in police court, yesterday, last night declared that the case will be fought to the finish taking it if necessary to the State Supreme Court.

The warrant under which Mr. Rosenberg is charged is based on an ancient State law which prohibits work of any kind being done on Sunday except where it can be shown that such work is an emergency. Local officials have never enforced this law except when compelled to do so as the result of complaints made to them by citizens.

Mr. McCaffrey stated that the offices of the Antiblue Law Association is behind this case and that nothing will be spared to fight it to a finish carrying it to the highest court of the land if necessary.

President Leon Arnold stated that with added equipment brought into service that the company will maintain its schedule and should any short delays result hoped that the public will appreciate conditions and bear with him for a few days.

Inspectors from the insurance companies visited the ruins yesterday and according to Mr. Arnold it is hoped that within a few days proper adjustments will have been arrived at and that bids for rebuilding will be called for and new equipment ordered.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA was listening to the radio, to some woman prating about a food product.

"Why don't you shut off that noise?" I growled, the cooing gurgle driving me to distraction. What I wanted to hear was the report of a prize fight over another station.

Luella laughed: "It does sound silly, doesn't it?"

"Worse than that. Why are you listening?"

"Because——"

"Be a sport, Luella. There's a good fight on and you're neither being entertained nor enlightened——"

"How do you know?"

"I can hear, can't I?"

"Well," she said, "if you don't like it, you don't have to listen."

* * * *

"I CAN'T help listening," I grumbled.

"Well, take a walk or read," Luella suggested. "Here's the newspaper."

"Don't want-a walk or read, either."

"Well, what do you want to do?"

"You know well, I want to hear the fight."

"Wait till this woman——"

"Good night!" I yelled, "the fight'll be over——"

"Oh, she can't last much longer."

"She can't? Why not?"

"She's played out——"

* * * *

"NOT that gal. I know her type——"

"And now, ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience," purred the voice from the ether, "I'm going to give you an imitation of a little girl asking her mother for a plate of——"

"Bologna!" I felt like shouting as the woman struck into a falsetto, trying to imitate the treble of childhood. To throttle the agony, I sneaked over and switched off the radio. Luella, pronto, was on my neck.

"You turn that on again," she commanded, and I did so.

Wowie! What torture!

"Luella, listen," I pleaded, "there's a fight——"

"There'll be one here in two more seconds, if you don't——"

"All right, but I don't see why you want-a listen to this bunk——"

* * * *

"WELL, suppose I told you that I'm going to talk over the radio myself and——"

"You're going to talk over the radio? What about?"

"You'll find out—unless there's a fight over some other station."

"I hope you're not going to imitate this woman!"

"No, but I want-a get a line——"

"You've got one already."

"I want-a find out what's wrong with her."

"Everything's wrong with her. Let's turn to the fight——"

"I guess she is pretty terrible," Luella admitted. "Maybe I could get more pointers by listening to Rudy Vallee."

As Luella fiddled with the dials, I got my hat and went down to the club to listen to the fight—the final round.

Plan for Carroll Shrine Wins Favor

Descendant of Signer of Declaration Supports Baltimore Project.

Baltimore, May 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Count Louis de la Bassetier, who is visiting here after having been held up at Ellis Island on his arrival in New York from abroad, has expressed himself as favoring the plan to transform the home of his illustrious great-great-grandfather, Charles Carroll of Carrollton, into a recreational center here.

The old Carroll mansion, the same in which the signer of the Declaration of Independence died, remains standing at Front and Lombard streets and is now owned by the city. Mrs. Donald R. Hooker, who launched the recreational center at Roosevelt Park, thought a similar institution would be of much benefit to the children near the Carroll mansion.

"I have been informed," she said today, "that Count de la Bassetier has been told of the recreational plan and that both he and Miss Cornelia Briscoe, also a descendant of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, are very much in favor of the work planned."

Maryland Man on Trial in Harrisonburg Pleads Bad Business Conditions.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., May 5.—Harry H. Smith, Rising Sun, Md., live stock dealer, denied on the witness stand in Rockingham Circuit Court here late today that he had any intention of defrauding Hirsch Bros. and S. F. Toppin, of Harrisonburg, out of $3,112 for a carload of milk cows, which he purchased here last November and has been unable to pay for.

The two checks Smith tendered in payment were returned because of insufficient funds. He admitted on the stand that he owes the Harrisonburg dealers, $2,700 for the cows, but said he has been unable to pay because of unfavorable business conditions. The Commonwealth charges that he had no intention of paying for the cows and used the proceeds of their sale to pay off other indebtedness.

ALEXANDRIA POLICE TO INSPECT YARDS

M'CARTHY OPENS COURT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The annual spring inspection of yards and alleys of the city was started yesterday by members of the police department. Orders for the inspection were issued by Police Capt. W. W. Campbell, and the work is expected to continue throughout this week. Owners of premises in the yards of which trash and rubbish is found to have accumulated will be given three days in which to have it removed, and in the event of their failure to comply with the provisions of the city ordinance, they will be summoned into police court to explain their delinquency, and will be subject to a fine.

Many residents have already made arrangements for this annual spring clean-up. The city forces will attend to the cleaning of alleys, and the police will pay particular attention to back and side yards.

The drill attendance of the Alexandria Light Infantry during the month of April averaged 53.7 men, according to Capt. W. Cameron Roberts, which is an unusually high average. While the company has not yet been officially notified of the outcome of the recent Federal inspection, Capt. Roberts feels sure that the organization will receive a high rating. The drill schedule for the balance of the month has been announced as follows:

May 12, 7:30 to 8:15 p. m., use of bayonet, Sergts. Clark and Powers; 8 to 8:30, the sighting bar; 8:30 to 9, close order drill.

May 19, 7:30 to 8:15, the sighting bar; 8:15 to 9 o'clock, close order drill.

May 26, the entire period will be devoted to marksmanship on the indoor range, with Sergt. Powers as range officer.

Capt. Roberts has on hand a number of pay checks unclaimed, and has requested that the men call for them promptly.

James A. Ward, division manager of the northern division of the Virginia Public Service Co., with headquarters here, has tendered his resignation, effective at once, and has gone to California, where he will engage in business. He will be succeeded here by J. W. Howard, of Newport News, who has been serving as assistant Eastern division manager for the company, with headquarters in Newport News.

A dinner and reception were given last night in honor of Mr. Howard, at the George Mason Hotel, at which members of the city council, the city manager and officials of the Virginia Public Service Co. were present.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy, newly appointed judge of the circuit court for the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit, opened the May term of the court here yesterday, this being the first time he has held court in Alexandria. He succeeded Judge Howard W. Smith, who resigned to devote his time to his candidacy for Congress to succeed Representative R. Walton Moore, in the Eighth Virginia District.

Norman Roberts, president of the Columbia Engine Company of the Alexandria Fire Department, has been appointed deputy sanitary inspector, assisting Dr. James J. Garvey. The duties of Mr. Roberts will be to supervise the collection of garbage and trash, and also the scavenger work, and to collect bills for the latter. His salary was set by City Manager Wallace Lawrence at $100 a month.

Dr. Garvey will continue to look after other work of the city sanitary department as in the past, and has had additional duties assigned him by the city manager.

Judge William S. Snow, who is a member of the State Game and Inland Fisheries Commission, will leave Thursday to attend two important meetings of the commission, one at Accomac Courthouse on Friday, and the other at Cape Charles on Saturday. Game wardens for this territory will be appointed at this session, and the commission will also organize the new territory which has been placed under its jurisdiction by the Legislature. Until the legislative session just closed, the Eastern Shore territory had operated under its own game and protective association.

G. Cecil, who is affiliated with the plans now in effect to increase membership in the local chamber of commerce through an intensive drive, will be the principal speaker today at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club in the George Mason Hotel. His subject will be "The Chamber of Commerce and Its Relation to the Prosperity of the Community."

A final report of the "On to Richmond" committee of the Rotary will be presented at this meeting, and other matters of importance will come up for discussion.

MONTGOMERY TILT IS WON BY EDITORS

Demurrer to Their Pleas of Abatement in County Row Overruled.

BITTER SPEECHES MADE

Antiorganization forces won a decided victory yesterday when a demurrer to the pleas in abatement filed by counsel for the editors of the Mongomery Independent, Rockville newspaper, was overruled by a full bench of judges in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville. Only one paragraph of the demurrer was upheld by the court.

Following a day of bitter recrimination on both sides, the three judges conferred nearly a half hour before they announced their decision. Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and John S. Newman presided.

The pleas in abatement were filed by counsel for Walter S. Casey and Harrison B. French, two of the four editors of the Montgomery Independent, who were indicted on charges of criminal libel by the county grand jury after the board of county commissioners and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic organization leader, had appeared before the inquisitorial body and protested against charges of mismanagement of county affairs printed in the newspaper. Two other former editors who were indicted—Walter W. Liggett and Morris A. Bealle—have not been apprehended as yet.

Irregularities Are Charged.

The pleas in abatement charged that the county officials had appeared before the county grand jury in a body, and that Maj. Lee and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, had left briefs defining the libel laws with the grand jury, not being competent officials of the court, and that Capt. Cissel had left marked copies of the Independent which showed the alleged libelous articles. The demurrer to this last allegation was the only one upheld by the court.

Chief Judge Urner declared that the Court understood that the county officials had acted in accordance with the advice of counsel and had believed themselves to be in the right but that the whole procedure was irregular and in defense of the grand jury system the Court would have to overrule the demurrer with the exception of the one paragraph concerning the marked papers. He intimate that the Court would uphold the pleas in abatement if the facts brought out proved the pleas to be correct.

The chief judge declared that the whole proceeding was unique in the history of the jurisprudence of the State and that the law requiring the deliberations of the grand jury to be secret had not been complied with when the entire board of county commissioners remained in the grand room while the other members of the board testified.

State's Plan Attacked.

The proceedings began with an attack by defense counsel on the plan presented by State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., to have Roger J. Whiteford, Washington lawyer, assist in the prosecution.

Following a morning of bitter attack and counter-attack, the judges decided that they would permit Mr. Whiteford to argue on the demurrer, but would reserve their decision as to his employment as special counsel. F. Garnard Welch, of defense counsel, charged that Maj. Lee and the county commissioners, through the connivance of Mr. Whiteford, had perpetrated an outrage on the court. The whole proceedings savored of contempt of court, he declared.

The defense sprang a surprise when it was announced Saul Praeger, anti leader of Cumberland, who has been prominently mentioned as an opponent for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie in the gubernatorial race this fall, as a member of defense counsel.

Other Lawyers Speak.

State's Attorney Peter and Defense Counsel John Oxley also addressed the court. Other members of defense counsel are Miss Vivian V. Simpson, E. Barrett Prettyman, president of the Independent Publishing Co., and Edward Peter. Albert Bouic, anti leader, also sat with defense counsel.

The next possible move by the Lee forces is the filing of a traverse, or denial, of the allegations put forth in the pleas for abatement. Should this fail, the indictments would be quashed.

The entire proceedings were based upon technicalities, and trial of the charges on their merits can not be started until and unless the pleas in abatement are overruled by the court. Mr. Whiteford told the court that he would file the traverse in several days if it was to be filed.

Two Virginia Officers Give Themselves Up as Wise County Man Dies.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 5.—State Prohibition Officers Charles W. Smith and A. L. Percy today surrendered to Fluvanna County authorities and were charged with the shooting to death of Charles W. Kilgore, 40-year-old Wise County resident. Both men obtained bail and will be given a preliminary hearing at Palmyra Saturday.

W. S. Shelton, prosecuting attorney of Fluvanna County, said today that the definite charge against the pair will be settled at the preliminary trial. He was unable to say whether it would be murder or manslaughter. If the evidence is sufficient at the preliminary trial, Smith and Percy will be sent on to the grand jury of Fluvanna County, which meets June 24, and if indicted will be tried in circuit court at Palmyra.

Kilgore was shot when three prohibition agents raided a still at Nahor, near the Albemarle County line, March 29. He died at University Hospital Saturday of blood poisoning. Besides his wife, he leaves four children, two of whom are teachers.

WAR-SEIZED CLOCK WILL BE RETURNED

Old Timepiece Was Taken 67 Years Ago by Men From U. S. Gunboat.

GEORGIA GETS IT BACK

Brunswick, Ga., May 5 (A.P.).—An ancient clock that in 1863 peacefully ticked away the hours in the home of Gen. Thomas Butler King, on St. Simons Island, will be returned to the members of the King family tomorrow after a sojourn of 67 years in the North.

A shawl in which the timepiece was wrapped when it was taken from the King home by members of the crew of a Federal gunboat during the war between the States, will be presented to the youngest granddaughter of Gen. King.

The clock and shawl was sold at auction recently in Attleboro, Mass., in the closing out of an estate. The man who bought the clock, while trying to repair it, found inside an inscription telling how it was taken from the King home.

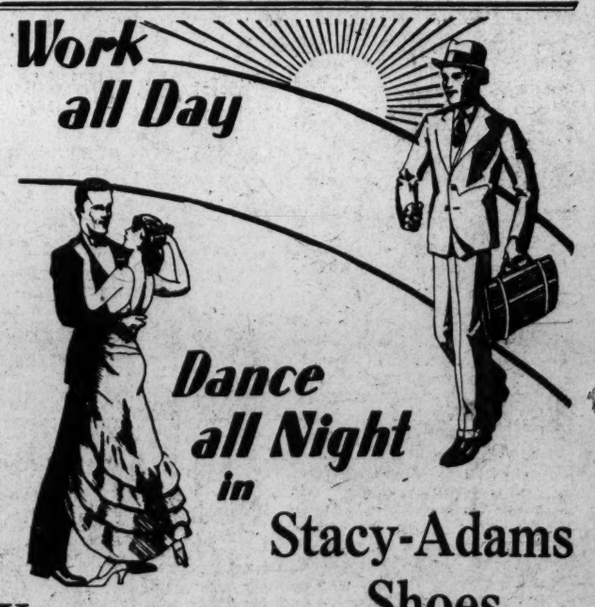

He turned the clock over to the G. A. R., dining clu bof Attleboro and correspondence planning the return of the clock was started. Today a party of persons representing the G. A. R., veterans of other wars and the Attleboro Chamber of Commerce arrived in Brunswick with the clock.

A number of prominent persons made up the party, including Mayor Fred E. Briggs of Attleboro, Capt. Carter R. Bishop, of Petersburg, Va., Confederate veteran, who has been made an honorary member of the G. A. R., and Representative J. W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts, who will make the presentation speech at the exercises tomorrow.

United States Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, is scheduled to accept the clock on the part of his home State.
